LEYTE'S YANKS SLOGGING THRU MUD AND SLIME

Big Guns Hammer Foe Near Ormoc.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Nov. 9 [Thursday]—(AP).—Lashed by a tropical hurricane, the United States 24th infantry division fought in mud and slime yesterday along the winding road to Ormoc against fresh, veteran Japanese troops guarding the approaches to the enemy's port of last hope on western Leyte.

For perhaps the first time since Gen. MacArthur's forces landed on eastern Leyte Oct. 20, today's bulletin reported no advance for a 24 hour period ending at noon yesterday. Instead, it told of "heavy fighting" extending into densely wooded ridges overlooking a sharp horseshoe curve in the road at Limon, four miles south of Carigara bay.

In Wind and Rain.

The bulletin said a "tropical hurricane is restricting operations." The phrasing was modest. Few Yanks ever had seen such a raging storm of wind and rain which turned their foxholes into wells, soaked them thru and thru and made life even more miserable than usual.

Men of the 24th peered thru the driving storm to see the Japs ahead of them on the way to Ormoc, more than 15 miles to the south. The soldiers had to fall into their water filled holes when heavy Japanese artillery opened up.

American artillery hammered the Japanese to the rear of the battle, striking at bivouacs, supply dumps and assembly areas ringing Ormoc.

Down Seven Jap Planes.

Thruout the Ormoc defense zone, Filipino guerrillas disrupted the enemy's "freedom of movement," headquarters said, by cutting communications.

All indications were that the battle, hardest of the Philippine liberation campaign, was reaching a climactic stage. Elements of four enemy divisions, including remnants of the 16th of Bataan infamy, were engaged.

Before the storm, which grounded the opposing air forces, Leyte based fighters blasted bivouacs, supply dumps, and assembly areas. The Japanese air force hit back on a limited scale. Seven enemy planes were shot down.

On American held eastern Leyte, the 96th infantry division still found enemy pockets of resistance in the mountains west of Dagami.

Blast Jap Destroyer.

Mitchell medium bombers damaged a Japanese destroyer off Mindanao in the southern Philippines, Gen. MacArthur said.

West of the Leyte invasion scene, Liberators and fighter planes ranged over Cebu, Negros, and Panay, destroying 35 enemy planes, probably destroying three others, and sinking a 1,000 ton freighter. One bomber and three fighters were lost.

Liberators scored bomb damage on shipbuilding yards in a raid on Malili, on the Gulf of Bone, Dutch Celebes.

Japs Raid Marianas.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Nov. 8 (AP).—Eleven Japanese planes raided American held Saipan and Tinian Islands in the Marianas after midnight Monday without inflicting damage or casualties, Adm. Nimitz announced today. Anti-aircraft shot down three and probably a fourth.

It was the second enemy raid within a week in the Marianas on which Tokyo has said there is a base for Super Fortress B-29s which reportedly are reconnoitering Japan.

Today's bulletin also reported that army Liberators bombed Iwo Jima in the Volcanos, north of the Marianas, Monday, starting a large fire and probably destroying two parked twin engined bombers.

FINDS FINE SPOT TO PLACE GUNS; JAPS THERE, TOO

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ON THE ROAD TO ORMOC, Leyte Island, P. I., Nov. 8.—An 800 foot ridge overlooking the pass between the Leyte and Ormoc valleys appealed to Maj. Lemuel Blacker, an artillery officer of Corvallis, Ore., as an ideal spot from which to observe the results of gun fire and later when troops moved thru the pass as a location for big guns themselves. From there the guns could command all the posts into Ormoc, the Japs' last but perhaps strongest foothold on Leyte Island.

So Blacker took three officers, Maj. Carl Shard, Newberg, Ore.; Capt. Arnold Ayers, Omaha, Neb., Lt. Jay Bech, and some enlisted men. At the ridge he found a Jap fortification, a series of head deep trenches laid out like a wagon wheel. It was empty. The major and his men were quite happy and rigged up their radio.

Under Volley of Firing.

"This is a wonderful spot," he told Lt. Col. Chester Dahlen, an infantry officer of Thief River Falls, Minn., over the radio. "The Japs seem to have pulled out so we will rest awhile and then . . ." There was a cry of "Look out!" and a volley of firing and the radio went dead.

A Jap had crawled thru the tall grass to the edge of the trench system before one of the group saw him.

A Jap officer waving a sword jumped out of the grass a few feet away and came running, seven Japs following. Tommy guns and carbines cut them down. In a few minutes eight more tried to rush the trenches—all died. Maj. Blacker got his radio going. "Throw some stuff around this ridge," he told his artillery.

More Japs Charge.

His boys complied and shells came raining down. The infantry started a platoon up the ridge to rescue the artillery spotters, but before they arrived two more groups of Japs tried to charge the trenches. As the rescuers approached, the spotters climbed out of their trenches, counted the Jap bodies—about 50—and started down to meet the platoon.

When the major and his spotters returned, Col. Dahlen met him. "If you're going to go hauling your big guns up to the front like that, you'd better put bayonets on them," he said.

The enlisted men with Blacker included Sgt. George Hogue, Decatur, Mich.

PARIS FAMILIES WILL GET 120 LBS. OF COAL BY DEC. 1

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 8.—With coal output and transport improving, Robert La Coste, minister of industrial production, today promised Parisians that every family would receive 120 pounds of coal about Dec. 1.

There are prospects that larger quantities will be available after Jan. 1.

The Paris liberation committee discussed the possibility of a coal quota for hospitals equal to last year's. With electricity output 70 per cent of normal, it was decided electric heaters could be used in schools and nurseries. Resumption of normal subway service was expected soon.

Capital Reds Celebrate for Two Reasons

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—Roosevelt office holders celebrated both the fourth term election victory and the 27th anniversary of the Russian revolution tonight beneath the hammer and sickle of the soviet embassy's red flag.

Capital celebrities who received the much sought after invitations to walk up the crimson carpet the Russians rolled out for the occasion enjoyed a little reverse lend-lease, for Russian Ambassador Andrei Gromyko really laid himself out. Vodka, champagne, and whisky flowed freely at not one but a half dozen bars.

Delayed by Election.

The anniversary of the revolution was yesterday, but the Russians postponed their observance until today because of the election. Those who were happy over the extension of the Roosevelt regime to 16 years were thus enabled to kill two birds with a single stone.

The gasoline shortage seemed no more than a faraway bad dream as luxurious cars that looked as new as their tires rolled up to the embassy to unload the 1,500 guests.

Admirals, generals, government agency chiefs, and glittering figures of capital society handed out women in costly fur coats and glittering dresses.

Stockings Don't Droop.

And there was no rayon droop to the women's stockings. One glamorous creature came with no stockings at all, but a glance at her coat left no doubt that it was fashion and not economy she was considering.

Orson Welles, who was a Roosevelt radio headliner during the campaign, was one of the lions of the evening. Another was Vice President Wallace. Secretary of Agriculture Wickard beamed at every one, and Undersecretary of State Stettinius was greeting friends.

Draft Director Hershey, who spilled the beans with his revelation of the New Deal philosophy regarding the return of soldiers from overseas, was deemed adept enough at handling a plate of hors d'oeuvres to be trusted with an invitation.

Some Congressmen There.

British Ambassador Halifax shared popular interest with a Scotch Highlander officer who wore not kilts but loose trousers of the gayest plaid seen hereabouts. A Russian church dignitary arrived in flowing robes.

The party brought out the most distinguished beards in the capital, countless Hombergs, and a few spats. Senators who have been known to prevail on Russian officials to autograph their shirt cuffs were out of town, but despite the congressional recess there were a few members of congress present.

There was only one thing missing in the sumptuous buffet supper—caviar. Some raised their eyebrows at this, remembering past celebrations, but most agreed that the replica of the Kremlin, in iced cake, and the countless other delicacies made up for anything.

Result Proves Nation's Faith, F. D. R. Says

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Happy over his sweeping victory, President Roosevelt late today asserted that the results of the election prove that the faith of the voters in American institutions is unshaken.

"For the first time in 80 years," he said, "we have held a national election in the midst of war. What is really important is that after all of the changes and vicissitudes of four score years we have again demonstrated to the world that democracy is a living vital force, that our faith in American institutions is unshaken; that conscience and not force is the source of power in the government of man.

"In that faith let us unite to win the war and to achieve a lasting peace."

Hull Sends Congratulations.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early released at the same time a telegram sent to the President by Secretary of State Hull from his bed in Bethesda naval hospital which Early said was "in harmony" with Mr. Roosevelt's statement.

"I extend my warmest felicitations on your reelection to the Presidency," Hull wired. "Under your wise leadership our country will rededicate itself, united and strong, to the attainment of complete and speedy victory over our enemies, and to the establishment of a just and lasting peace."

The President, who did not retire until nearly 4 o'clock this morning, was up again at noon and spent the afternoon on correspondence and a perusal of the flood of congratulatory telegrams and cables which poured in from all over the world. In the late afternoon he went for a drive with his old friend and law partner, Henry C. Hooker.

Delays Capitol Return.

He delayed his return to Washington by 24 hours. He had originally planned to leave tonight. His arrival in Washington is now scheduled for Friday at 8:30 a. m. and it was reported a reception is being hastily planned for him there.

Early also remarked that many of the wires sent the President carried the theme that "isolationism is dead."

Asked if the President had received a telegram from Gov. Dewey, his defeated opponent, Early said "not as of 5 p. m." The President this morning sent a wire to Dewey thanking him for his radio statement conceding defeat and saying that he joined in the hope that Divine Providence would guide and protect the President.

LATE UPSURGE DOWNSTATE IS TURN OF TIDE

Overcomes Heavy Vote in Chicago.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
(Pictures on pages 6 and 7 and back page.)

Gov. Green's majority for reelection increased to 64,030 over State's Atty. Courtney, Democrat, yesterday, as almost complete returns were compiled. With only 49 precincts in Illinois missing, the vote stands: Green, 1,996,764; Courtney, 1,932,734.

With the governor, four of the six Republican candidates for other state offices won substantial majorities in almost complete returns. Lt. Gov. Cross, Auditor Lueder, and Atty. Gen. Barrett were reelected and Earle B. Searcy won for Supreme court clerk. A fifth Republican nominee, Conrad F. Becker, has a slim majority for state treasurer.

In the early morning hours, Green surged ahead of Courtney as belated downstate returns poured in, and for the rest of the count he kept increasing his lead. Green had 59 per cent of the downstate vote, Courtney 58 per cent of the Chicago vote. The country towns of Cook county, a balance of power in the election, gave Green 58 per cent of their vote.

Green got 66,726 more votes for governor than Gov. Dewey did for President, and was top Republican vote getter.

Green Thanks Supporters.

Gov. Green issued this statement here: "To the millions of citizens of Illinois who worked and voted for my reelection I offer my sincere thanks for their indorsement of my record as governor.

"I accept my reelection as the wish of the men and women of Illinois that we continue to keep our state sound and devote ourselves wholeheartedly to winning the war and meeting our obligation to our fighting sons and daughters when they come home to seek lasting prosperity here.

Plans to Solve War Problems.

"Before the election the people were united to the extent that they kept Illinois first among the states in almost every phase of the war effort, in the rehabilitation and employment of war veterans, and in planning to solve the problems of the post-war period. Now that the election is over, I know all of us in Illinois still are united in these tasks.

"For my part, I shall devote myself to these with all my heart, my mind, and my energy."

The vote Green rolled up in the country towns of Cook, where he

DEWEY TRAILS STATE TICKETS IN MIDDLE WEST

BY LAURENCE BURD.

Gov. Dewey, in his Presidential race, made a poorer showing than many fellow G. O. P. state and congressional nominees in the middle west who bucked the Roosevelt sweep and won, analysis of late election returns showed yesterday.

Nearly complete results disclosed that a strong Republican undertone in the central states carried a majority of Republican governors into office in this area and wrested at least three senatorial seats from Democratic incumbents.

In a number of instances these Republican victories were achieved in states lost by Dewey to Roosevelt, as in Illinois, where Gov. Green won while Dewey was defeated. In other cases, where the G. O. P. Presidential nominee carried the state, victorious Republican nominees for other offices rolled up larger pluralities than did Gov. Dewey.

Demonstrated in Illinois.

State Republican sentiment in the face of Gov. Dewey's weak showing was clearly demonstrated in Illinois and neighboring Wisconsin, as well as other states where THE TRIBUNE is widely circulated. It was apparent in Minnesota, which went for Roosevelt but retained a Republican governor, and in the border state of Missouri, which traded a Democratic senator for a Republican, while Dewey was losing the state. This G. O. P. current ran also in Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, Nebraska, and the Dakotas, the returns disclosed.

As Gov. Dewey was losing Illinois to Mr. Roosevelt by more than 140,000 votes, Republican Gov. Green was carrying it with a plurality of 64,000. The Republican tide was running even stronger in Wisconsin where G. O. P. nominees for governor and the United States senate romped to easy victories. Meanwhile Gov. Dewey was having a tough time with the Wisconsin electorate. After a see-saw battle he finally captured the state electoral vote with a 22,000 plurality.

Far Behind Goodland.

Nearly complete returns show that Wisconsin's Gov. Walter S. Goodland piled up a plurality of 150,000—128,000 more than Dewey—to beat Daniel Hoan, the Democratic candidate, and Sen. Alexander Wiley, seeking reelection on the G. O. P. ticket, won by a margin of 100,000. Incidentally, the Republicans won two new congressional seats in the dairy state.

In Iowa, altho Gov. Dewey won the electoral vote with a 50,000 plurality, he trailed Republican gubernatorial candidate, Robert Blue, who polled a higher total vote than Dewey and ran up a plurality of 125,000 against Richard Mitchell, Democrat. The G. O. P. also captured a senate seat there, as the present governor, Bourke Hickenlooper, unseated Sen.

ELECTION GIVES F.D.R. STRENGTH IN GLOBAL DEAL

Congress' Support Is Increased.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

As the size of President Roosevelt's fourth term victory continued to mount yesterday politicians speculated on its implications.

Administration leaders viewed the Democratic landslide as a vote of confidence in the conduct of the war, an indorsement of the New Deal, and a mandate to go forward with the Roosevelt program for a post-war peace organization and other international coöperation.

Republican leaders viewed the result as evidence the people feared to risk changing the commander in chief in the midst of the war and echoed Gov. Dewey's hope that the fourth term will bring a "speedy victory in the war, the establishment of lasting peace, and the restoration of tranquility among our peoples."

F. D. R. Hand Strengthened.

The elimination of Republican and Democratic nationalists from the senate and the increased Democratic majority in congress was viewed as a decisive strengthening of the President's hand in carrying out his international program. Leaders visualized a two-thirds vote in the senate for ratification of the Roosevelt plan to employ American forces, without specific approval by congress, against any nation deemed an aggressor.

Political speculation also touched upon the future of the Republican party which again, as in 1940 and 1942, found its principal strength in the middle west. Midwestern Republican leaders believe this region will have a just claim in 1948 on the party nomination for President. In this connection the name of Gov. Green of Illinois, reëlected Tuesday, running 64,000 votes ahead of Dewey, was most frequently mentioned. Dewey is generally regarded a potential 1948 candidate for the nomination, particularly if he should be reëlected governor two years hence.

413 Electoral Votes Likely.

There was general agreement that as a result of the tremendous victory he was instrumental in organizing, Sidney Hillman, chief of the Communist dominated CIO political action committee, emerges as a formidable power in the Roosevelt regime, challenging the supremacy of the regular Democratic organization.

The latest returns last night indicated Mr. Roosevelt had carried New Jersey, Minnesota, and Oregon, and won the election by a majority of 295 electoral votes over Dewey. Based on the still incomplete returns the outcome of the election expressed in terms of electoral votes was:

FOR ROOSEVELT.
35 states.....413

FOR DEWEY.
13 states.....118

Necessary to a choice, 266.

A popular vote plurality for the President of about 3 million, compared with his 5 million margin over Willkie in 1940, was indicated by the incomplete returns.

The incomplete returns indicate a popular vote of about 49 million compared with 50 million in 1940. The returns so far tabulated give Roosevelt 23,571,294, Dewey 20,737,044. Mr. Roosevelt got about 52.8 per cent of the vote, compared with 59.1 per cent in 1932, with 59.9 in 1936, and with 54.9 per cent in 1940. Dewey got 47.2 per cent, compared with Willkie's 45.1 per cent.

The latest returns indicate that both Ohio and North Dakota were carried by Dewey by narrow but safe margins. The only state in which any doubt remained was Michigan where, with fewer than 200 precincts to be reported, Dewey was leading Roosevelt by 13,000.

Upset in Minnesota.

The upset in Minnesota that appeared to have landed that state's 11 electoral votes in the Roosevelt column was variously ascribed to the Hillman influence exerted in coöperation with the coalition party

Soldiers Back F. D. R. in N. Y.; Two States Ban Closed Shop

Big Eastern Margin

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 (AP).—Fragmentary returns from a few areas tallying Presidential soldier ballots separately give Roosevelt 202,317 votes to 81,789 for Dewey.

However, all of this vote was in states won by the Democrats, and there was no way of telling how the service men as a whole divided in the war time election.

Only a few states are tabulating the service vote separately.

The returns available:

New York City [all but 10 election districts]—Roosevelt, 175,648; Dewey, 66,434. [This was 72.6 per cent as compared to 60.7 per cent of the civilian vote won by Roosevelt.]

Buffalo, N. Y.—Roosevelt, 8,200; Dewey, 5,571.

Fulton county [Atlanta], Georgia—Roosevelt, 5,189; Dewey, 1,032.

Broward county [Fort Lauderdale], Florida — Roosevelt, 447; Dewey, 228.

Revise Labor Laws

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 (AP).—A state proposal to ban closed union shops apparently had won approval in Florida in Tuesday's election. A similar measure was ahead in Arkansas but voters in California rejected such a plan.

The vote in 1,171 of Florida's 1,480 precincts was 116,723 for the amendment and 103,383 against.

In Arkansas the proposal was ahead by about 10,000 votes, with around 60 per cent of the precincts reported.

The amendments in all three states provided that no person can be refused employment because he is or is not affiliated with a labor organization.

In another of several public questions submitted by referendum in state elections, Nebraska overwhelmingly defeated a proposal to impose state-wide prohibition.

Returns from 1,890 of the state's 2,016 precincts gave the dry proposal only 119,816 to 358,924 against.

composed of Farmer-Laborites and Democrats, and to the desertion of Dewey by Republican Sen. Ball and his internationalist following on the issue of the post-war peace organization.

"President Roosevelt's reelection," said Ball, "was a strong indorsement by the people of his administration's conduct of the war and its plans for United States participation in a strong international organization to prevent future wars.

"It is clear that millions of voters crossed party lines on these issues. Our war and peace aims transcend party lines and our task now is to seek national unity in achieving them. The next step will come when the charter of a united nations organization is presented to the United States senate."

With a net gain of one seat the Democrats will have 59 members of the senate, 10 more than a majority and five short of the two-thirds necessary to the ratification of a treaty. On the question of ratifying a peace program involving employment of American forces without specific authority of congress, the President would be unable to command full Democratic support but he calculates that he would gain the support of a sufficient number of Republican internationalists to offset the defection of Democratic nationalists and round out a two-thirds majority.

Administration leaders also calculate that the net gain of 18 Democratic seats in the house, 14 more than a majority, will give the President ample strength to protect New Deal legislation from modification and to provide the enabling legislation and appropriations for carrying into effect the peace program, foreign relief and rehabilitation under UNRRA, the international bank and currency stabilization scheme, and the oil, air transport, and other international understandings.

Get Around Constitution.

To get around the constitutional requirement of ratification of treaties by two-thirds of the senate, some of these projects may be presented as international conventions or agreements requiring approval merely by simple majorities of both houses, as was done in the creation of UNRRA. With this in view a plank calling for adherence to constitutional action on treaties was kept out of the Democratic platform at the instance of the administration.

The course Mr. Roosevelt pursued on the peace program was viewed by the politicians before the election as a shrewdly conceived plan to obtain what he could interpret as a popular mandate if the people should return him to a fourth term.

That was the reason he high-pressured Great Britain, Russia, and China to join in the Dumbarton Oaks conference in time to bring out the product of their negotiations before the election. Indications are not wanting that he planned to make extensive political captal out of the peace plan as an exclusively Democratic project, but Gov. Dewey checkmated that move by sending John Foster Dulles to collaborate with Secretary of State Hull, thereby lifting the program to a nonpartisan level and eliminating it as an election issue.

Free Use of Troops.

Then, barely a fortnight before the election, the President made another move to identify the peace program with his candidacy and seek a popular verdict thereon which he might consider a mandate in its favor. He sought public approval of a provision in the program whereby the American delegate in the security council could order American forces into action, without further reference to congress, against any nation declared by the council to be an aggressor.

"It is clear," said the President, "that if the world organization is to have any reality at all, our representative must be endowed in advance by the people themselves, by constitutional means thru their representatives in the congress, with authority to act. . . . The people of the nation want their government to act, and not merely to talk, whenever and wherever there is a threat to world peace."

Issue Met by Dewey.

Gov. Dewey met that move promptly by an utterance approximating the President's position and thereby removing the new issue posed by Mr. Roosevelt from the campaign. Dewey said there must be no requirement that the American delegate in the security council shall "return to congress for authority every time he had to make a decision. Obviously congress, and only congress, has the constitutional power to determine what quota of force it will make available, and what discretion it will give our representative to use that force."

With this Republican indorsement, however, the President was given ground to claim that in the event of his election he would have a unanimous mandate by the voters of both parties to carry out his plan to permit an international agency to employ American forces in war operations against a nation without the express authority of congress, the sole war making power under our Constitution.

Mandate Disputed.

Mr. Roosevelt's claim of a mandate will be vigorously disputed, however, and there will be a battle in the senate between the nationalists opposing the plan as unconstitutional and the internationalists contending that the American delegate is given no greater authority than the President frequently has exercised to use our army and navy to defend the country or otherwise protect our interests without asking the approval of congress.

Figuring in the controversy will be the attitude of Russia. While the President was denouncing critics of the Dumbarton Oaks proceedings as isolationists who would wreck world peace, Stalin turned out to be the big time isolationist.

Being a dictator, Stalin doesn't have to get anybody's authority, to send his troops against any country but he took care to prevent any troops being used against Russia. The Dumbarton Oaks plan contemplates that the international forces can be mobilized against any nation, even a member of the council, by unanimous vote of the big powers, with the power under fire excluded from the voting.

Stalin insisted on a unanimous vote with the power under fire voting. Thus, he could always prevent a decision to proceed against Russia as an aggressor. Stalin's isolationism prevented a complete agreement at Dumbarton Oaks.

WINS DISTRICT ATTORNEY POST BY SIX BALLOTS

Manitowoc, Wis., Nov. 8 [Special].—Highlights of election in this county yesterday were the victory of Austin Smith, Republican, over John Danielson for district attorney by six votes and the election of Arthur Truttschel for sheriff, the first Republican to hold that office in 20 years. The district attorney race was not decided until the last ward, the fourth in thi scity, was tabulated this morning.

Manitowoc county's two representatives in the state assembly, Otto Vogel, Progressive, and Frank Riley, Republican were reelected for two year terms.

EX-WIFE FAILS IN MOVE TO GET BIGGER PAYMENT

Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court ruled yesterday that a divorce obtained on Oct. 7, 1943, by Mrs. Mary Kendzersky, 35, of 643 N. Harding av., is still effective, and that a separate maintenance decree which she subsequently obtained is not valid. Judge Feinberg held that her former husband, Edward, 33, a County hospital employe, does not have to pay separate maintenance. Mrs. Kendzersky was awarded $12.50 a week for support when she obtained her divorce. After Kendzersky entered the army she had the divorce "vacated" and was awarded separate maintenance of $18 a week. When she recently sought a court order to collect the maintenance payments, Kendzersky said he did not know he owed her the money, because he was in the army when the divorce was set aside.

WOMEN BOOST REPRESENTATION IN THE HOUSE

8 Elected; 3 Still Have a Chance.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 (AP).—Election returns today disclose an increase in the seven house seats now held by women. Eight feminine candidates have been elected and three more still are in the running. The count now shows four or more Democratic and four to five Republican women elected. One Democratic woman and six Republicans are sitting in the 78th house.

Democratic incumbent and dean of congresswomen, Rep. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey has been re-elected as have been four of the five Republican women seeking re-election. The fifth was not expecting much of a fight.

8 Women Defeated.

Eight major party women candidates have been defeated, as has Mrs. Elizabeth Chilton Murray of the 8th Virginia district who ran on an independent Democrat ticket.

Democrat Helen Gahagan Douglas, former actress, finished a dash ahead of Republican William Campbell in California.

Another Democrat, Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, was chosen from a field of four to unseat Illinois Representative at Large Stephen A. Day.

Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, Democrat and former secretary of state for Connecticut, defeated 2d district Republican incumbent, Rep. John D. McWilliams, to become the second congresswoman elected by the state. Mrs. Woodhouse is a professor at Connecticut college for women.

Mrs. Luce Scrapes Thru.

Connecticut's 4th district, in the nation's only all-woman congressional race, gave Republican Clare Boothe Luce a 1,500 vote margin for a second term. Democratic Margaret Eleanor Connors, 29 year old lawyer, had threatened last night to unseat the Republicans' anti-administration barnstormer whose defeat President Roosevelt had said would be "a mighty good thing for the country."

Other Republican incumbents re-elected are Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, Rep. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, and Rep. Jessie Sumner of Illinois.

Returns still are incomplete for Rep. Frances P. Bolton of Ohio.

Democratic women candidates, the outcome of whose races still is in doubt, are: Marie M. Bickert, 8th Pennsylvania district, member of the Philadelphia city committee for four years; and Mrs. Elsie Stanton, 10th Ohio district, member of the state executive committee and president of the county Democratic club.

Rep. Winifred Stanley [R., N. Y.] did not seek reelection.

Suburbs of U. S. Capital Give Dewey a 5,000 Edge

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 (AP).—Voters in the Washington suburban area in Maryland and Virginia favored Dewey over Roosevelt. Unofficial complete returns from Montgomery and Prince Georges counties, Maryland, and Fairfax and Arlington counties and the city of Alexandria, Va., gave: Dewey, 47,566; Roosevelt, 42,289. Many government workers live in the suburban areas.

FUTURE OF PAC DOUBTFUL, NOW ITS JOB'S DONE

CIO Convention May Decide Fate.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—What happens now to Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee?

Hillman says it "is expected to be continued" but the decision may be left for the CIO convention in Chicago, Nov. 20.

Flushed with victory in many of its congressional tilts and quite aware of its contribution to the Roosevelt industrial vote, the PAC has at least three alternatives. These are:

1. To fold up, figuring its work is done. [It was formed by CIO President Philip Murray after passage of the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act in July, 1943.]

Could Keep Nucleus.

2. To cut back its personnel, retaining only the nucleus which could be enlarged swiftly for any coming election.

3. To concentrate on continuing and enlarging its younger brother—the national citizens political action committee.

The latter course is regarded by some as the likely one, since it was the original objective of PAC to bring other like minded labor groups into a national united labor league to include all CIO, AFL, railway brotherhoods, and unaffiliated labor unions.

Unity Plan Fails.

Efforts to gain active participation in the plan by William Green and the AFL, the railroad brotherhoods, and others, bogged down and the CIO-PAC proceeded on its own.

Some of the election victors known to have had PAC backing, or at least a lack of opposition [as in the case of Gov. Saltonstall of Massachusetts, who was elected to the senate], include: Gov. Elect Tobin of Massachusetts, Sen. Elect McMahon of Connecticut, James P. Geelan, Democrat, who defeated Rep. Compton [R., Conn.], and Sen. Wagner of New York.

F. D. R. Modifies Telegram Ban for Own Messages

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt, who a Western Union spokesmen said has "The authority to modify, alter or rescind" the board of war communications' ban on congratulatory telegrams, which he himself authorized, today wired messages to political associates and opponents on the election outcome.

JAPS GAIN EAST AND SOUTH OF LIUCHOW, CHINA

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 8 (AP).—Japanese columns continued their advance on Liuchow from the east and south today, but the Chinese hurled back four assaults on their positions astride the Hunan-Kwangsi railway 36 miles to the northeast, the high command announced tonight.

The Japanese launched "violent attacks" in the eastern, northern and southern suburbs of Kweilin Monday night. The assaults on the northern suburbs were repulsed.

Jap Resistance Stiffens.

CIO CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR WINNER IN OHIO

Columbus, O., Nov. 8 (AP).—A flood of votes out of northern Ohio's industrial area propelled a Democrat into the governorship today, sliced to a small margin a once heavy lead held by the Republican national ticket in the state, and for a time threatened United States Sen. Taft's bid for reëlection.

Mayor Frank J. Lausche, a tousled haired, smiling man of 48, overcame a lead built up by Republican Mayor James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati and rode into office on a majority approaching 100,000. He bore the indorsement of the CIO political action committee.

Taft's Margin Cut.

Returns from 9,299 of 9,306 polling places gave Lausche 1,592,382; Stewart 1,484,951.

The floodtide of votes that put Lausche across bit deep into a large lead that Gov. Dewey held all last night for the national Republican ticket, and cut to a slender margin the once large advantage that Taft, Republican, held over William G. Pickrel, Dayton Democrat.

On the basis of nearly complete returns, however, it appeared that both the Republican ticket and Taft would squeeze thru.

Returns from 9,289 polling places out of 9,306 gave Dewey 1,584,639; Roosevelt 1,566,243.

Democrats Gain Two in House.

In the senatorial race, 9,299 polling places gave Taft 1,492,327 and Pickrel 1,469,416.

George H. Bender, Republican congressman at large, led his ticket by piling up a lead upward of 185,000 votes. The Democrats increased their representation in the national house from three to five members.

MICHIGAN FINAL HINGES ON 50,000 'LOST' BALLOTS

Dewey Is Maintaining Small Lead.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 8 (AP).—Gov. Dewey was in danger tonight of losing his native state's 19 electoral votes to President Roosevelt.

With more than 2,000,000 votes counted, Dewey's early lead of 133,000 had shrunk to 13,000, and the final outcome of the Michigan vote appeared to rest in an official canvass of 100 Detroit precincts where an estimated 50,000 ballots were "lost."

Roosevelt Trails.

The board of canvassers was called to meet tomorrow to attempt to straighten out the tangle which officials said was caused by inexperienced election workers. Instead of consolidating tallies of regular ballots and federal soldier ballots, the officials said, these workers in some cases listed only the regular ballots; in others, only the soldier vote. Soldier ballots were counted with the civilian vote and no breakdown was available.

The Presidential vote from 3,664 of 3,841 precincts, including a final unofficial tabulation of the Wayne county [Detroit] vote, pending tomorrow's canvass, showed: Roosevelt, 997,744; Dewey, 1,011,013.

G. O. P. State Ticket Wins.

The majority of some 213,000 which Dewey had piled up in the outstate precincts, had been all but wiped out by the President's edge of nearly 200,000 in the metropolitan area. There were indications the total vote might exceed Michigan's record of 2,085,929 cast in 1940.

Gov. Kelly, gaining his second term, led the entire state Republican ticket to victory, holding a margin of more than 200,000 over his Democratic opponent, Edward J. Fry.

TUOHY PLEDGES HE'LL KEEP OLD BOSS' POLICIES

Courtney, Crowley Keep Plans to Selves.

No major changes in the policy, personnel, or the crime fighting program of the state's attorney's office are contemplated, State's Attorney-Elect William J. Tuohy said yesterday. Tuohy, a Democrat, who has been in charge of the civil branch of the state's attorney's office, will move over and into the state's attorney's chair to be vacated by State's Atty. Courtney on Dec. 4.

Courtney, also a Democrat, failed of election for governor in a close contest with Gov. Green. Tuohy has been an assistant of Courtney for all of the 12 years Courtney has served. Tuohy said Courtney's friends are his friends; Courtney's ideals are his ideals, and Courtney's policies will be his policies.

Crowley's Status Uncertain.

Whether he will have the assistance of First Asst. State's Atty. Wilbert F. Crowley was one of the subjects Tuohy said he couldn't discuss. He left no doubt in the minds of his listeners that he would like to have Crowley remain.

Those familiar with conditions in the office said it was most likely that Capt. Dan Gilbert, veteran chief investigator for Courtney, would remain in that capacity for Tuohy.

"I'm going away for a bit of rest," said the 47 year old Tuohy who won promotion in Tuesday's election by about 200,000 votes. He added he was not going to meet Mayor Kelly or any other politicians anywhere; that he was not going away to discuss patronage.

Law Partnership Suggested.

While none of the principals wanted to discuss the subject, there were suggestions from friends that Courtney and Crowley probably would form a partnership for the private practice of law.

There was also a hint from the Courtney camp that he possibly may start building up an organization to give battle to the Kelly machine in future Democratic primaries.

DIES AT 88 AFTER FALL.

John Molloy, 88, of 5525 S. Marshfield av., died yesterday in the County hospital, where he had been confined since suffering from a fractured hip in a fall in his home Oct. 31. He is survived by a son, John Molloy Jr., with whom he lived.

GAMBLING'S OUT, SAYS MULCAHY; TELLS POLICIES

For Home Rule While It's Efficient.

Sheriff Michael F. Mulcahy, 46 year old Democrat who was elected Tuesday to the office he had held by appointment, held a press conference yesterday—"even modest men like myself must hold press conferences these days," he explained—and emphasized he is for home rule.

He said he won't interfere unduly with those whose duty it is to keep peace and order in the suburbs, county towns, and villages.

He wants the local officers, he asserted, to enforce all the general laws and local ordinances in their own bailiwicks in their own way; he intends to step in, he added, only when law and order break down.

"Hot Spot" Unnecessarily.

Mulcahy was appointed sheriff last Dec. 23, after the death in office of Peter B. Carey. He said the time he has spent in the office has shown him that the post need not be a "hot spot."

"All that is necessary in order to satisfy the people you serve is to demonstrate to them that you are sincere, that you have some common sense and a measure of efficiency in handling the problems and duties assigned you," he continued. "One of the chief sources of trouble—if you let it be—is gambling.

"We've Got Them on Run."

"When I took office last December, the gamblers had moved out into Cicero, some other towns, and the unincorporated districts.

"It took Chief John J. McGinnis and his men some time to put a fire under them there, but the chief's a good man, he now has some excellent men under him, and we've got them on the run. We're going to keep them on the run for the next four years; they're already squealing that they're broke. They'll be a lot broker before I get thru with them; gambling is out."

The Music Is Taken Out of Life in Eric's Tavern

44,005 MEMBERS GIVE CHICAGO Y WORLD RECORD

With 44,005 members, the Y. M. C. A. of Chicago is the largest unit of its kind in the world, it was announced last night by H. F. Wuehrmann, the president, at a dinner in the Central Y. M. C. A. which marked the close of a membership drive thru which 13,027 new members were added. William Miller, chairman of the membership campaign committee, said the drive reached 110 per cent of the goal that had been set. More than 200 persons who took part in the drive attended the dinner.

ONE TERM CURB ON TREASURERS, SHERIFFS KEPT

Altho the voters in 6,014 out of Illinois' 8,748 precincts gave it a lead of 220,000, a constitutional amendment to lift the one term restriction on sheriffs and county treasurers was defeated because state law provides that it have a majority of the total ballots cast Tuesday.

At the same time, an amendment to the state banking act, requiring only a majority of the votes cast on it, was approved by voters in the same precincts, 791,990 to 273,335. The vote on the sheriff-treasurer amendment in those precincts was 637,225 to 416,596.

The banking act amendment, approved by both houses of the legislature and the Illinois Bankers' association, provides that up to 15 per cent of a state bank's capital may be invested in any one marketable security or on aggregate loans to any one borrower.

Chicago returns, with 22 out of the city's 3,804 precincts missing, showed that the voters approved the 3 million dollar electric lighting bond issue by 900,000 to 286,864 and two propositions to amend the Municipal court act by 2 to 1.

One of the Municipal courts act amendments revises the manner of calling elections when filling vacancies so as to conform with that in effect in filling other municipal offices. The vote was 470,479 to 286,342.

The other court amendment, approved by 323,892 to 186,512, allows destruction of unessential records in minor cases after 10 years.

KELLY ASSERTS RETURNS PROVE PEOPLE CONTENT

Gives a Share of Credit to Organized Labor.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Mayor Kelly, leader of the Democratic organization in Cook county, was in a mellow mood yesterday as he surveyed the wreckage of the Republican national, state, and county tickets in his domain.

In a city hall not yet returned to business, the mayor indicated that the extent of the sweep may have been a bit of a surprise to him.

"People went to the wire and asked themselves why they should gamble on a change," Kelly said. "They asked themselves, 'What's wrong with the United States today?' I can't, and the majority of voters can't answer that."

Credits Labor Groups.

He had a list of credits for those who mobilized this kind of opinion. Organized labor deserves a lot of credit, he said, quickly adding that he wasn't singling out the CIO political action committee.

"The American Federation of Labor and the independent labor organizations contributed greatly to the vote," he said. "And independent organizations outside of the labor movement were very coöperative. With all things put together it was a formidable army."

There was little said about the defeat for governor of State's Atty. Courtney, Kelly's political enemy for years except for handshaking episodes necessary in the recent campaign. The mayor said Courtney talked with him by phone election night, but did not come to headquarters.

"He went home early and thought he was elected," Kelly said. "It's too bad he didn't win."

Dempsey Leads His Ticket.

Now Kelly will have a friendly state's attorney, William J. Tuohy, head of the civil division under Courtney, but chosen to make the race by the mayor. Tuohy won by about 150,000. In the final unofficial returns Tuohy had 1,151,638 votes, or 53.5 per cent.

John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee in the stand-out race for state's attorney, got 1,000,016 votes. His vote percentage of 46.5 was higher than that of any other Republican candidate. For President, Gov. Dewey had 41.9 per cent of the vote in Cook county, while Richard J. Lyons for United States senator had 41.6 per cent. Campaign efforts here were pretty much centered on Dempsey.

Sheriff Mulcahy, appointed thru a death vacancy, won election by around 289,000. Leo Carr, Republican, had 927,316 or 43.3 per cent to 1,216,424 for Mulcahy.

Other G. O. P. county candidates were defeated by margins of more than 200,000 votes.

WHO'LL REPLACE TRUMAN TOPIC FOR MISSOURI

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 8 (AP).—While Gov. Forrest C. Donnell and Atty. Gen. Roy McKittrick battled overtime for Bennett Clark's United States senate seat, politicians began speculating tonight who would get the seat Sen. Truman will vacate to become Vice President.

With Donnell clinging to a scant 7,500 vote lead, it will take the absentee vote of 75,000 soldiers to settle the Donnell-McKittrick election, but one man—Phil M. Donnelly—holds the answer to the Truman question.

Democrat Donnelly's apparent election as governor makes him the man who will appoint Truman's successor next January. Some politicians pointed to Donnelly's close friendship with State Sen. Frank Briggs, Macon newspaper publisher, and suggested Briggs might be named.

Meanwhile, late counted returns from country precincts tonight whittled President Roosevelt's lead over Gov. Dewey to less than 35,000 in Missouri.

Farley Says President Deserves Felicitations

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—Former Postmaster General Farley issued a statement today calling on the nation to support the Roosevelt administration "to bring about a speedy victory in the war." FRENCH ELECT GOUIN, A SOCIALIST, CHIEF OF NEW ASSEMBLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The French provisional consultative assembly today elected Felix Gouin, Socialist and former president of the Algiers assembly, as its president [speaker].

Gouin was chosen unanimously after two other resistance group candidates withdrew. The assembly will act in an advisory capacity to the De Gaulle government until parliamentary elections can be held.

Communists and Socialists today expressed their pleasure at the strong pronouncements made at the inaugural session of the assembly yesterday against money interests, trusts and "the congregation of the economically privileged."

Robert H. Boyles, 21, a cadet pilot in the army air forces, was killed Monday when two fighter planes collided 15 miles from Luke field, Ariz., his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien F. Boyles, 326 Wesley av., Oak Park, have been notified. He was graduated from Oak Park High school, attended Culver Military academy, and entered the army Dec. 1, 1942. Besides his parents, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Robert O. Evans, and his grandparents, Mrs. Gertrude Boyles and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hedden. Services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Acacia Park mausoleum, 7800 Irving Park rd.

G. O. P. STRONGER DESPITE RESULT, DEWEY ASSERTS

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Gov. Dewey, before leaving for Albany tonight, told a press conference that the influence of the Republican party in drafting America's future national and foreign policies has been enhanced by the campaign, not withstanding President Roosevelt's victory at the polls. He is convinced that the minority party has been strengthened by unification, united in a devotion to preserve free government, win the war, and collaborate in organizing the world for a lasting peace.

Dewey talked at length with the newspapermen who have been with him thru the campaign, furnishing background information but giving little for direct quotation. He is going on a vacation, probably this week-end, and probably to Sea Island, Ga., and he wants to rest, cogitate and communicate further with other Republican leaders before committing himself as titular head of the party to a definite program for the next four years.

Analyzes Foreign Policy.

Notwithstanding the adverse vote, Dewey is convinced that the new league of nations he endorsed in the campaign is popular. He believes that the only difference between the two parties on foreign affairs is that Roosevelt emphasizes the domination of the world by three military powers, the United States, Great Britain, and Russia, whereas the Republican party favors a collaboration of sovereign nations giving the weaker countries a greater voice.

Dewey believes only one factor resulted in his defeat—the war. The country did not want to change administrations while engaged in a world conflict, particularly not while the army and navy are winning the conflict.

Dewey indicated that the G. O. P. popular vote, about 48.5 per cent, was close as he had anticipated, but he had hoped that the narrow majority might have been on the other side of the ledger. Thruout the campaign, he had never said, "It's in the bag."

Dewey Appears Tired.

The governor looked tired, having posed for news reels until 5:30 this morning. During the day, he was on the long distance telephone repeatedly talking with Republican governors, senators, and congressmen. He was particularly pleased by hearing from Gov. Green of Illinois and from Sen. Elect Hickenlooper of Iowa.

Dewey, leaving New York City tonight, will be at his desk in the executive mansion at Albany tomorrow morning. He said he expected to be caught up with his state duties in a couple of days.

On the vacation to follow, the governor and his wife are determined that their boys, Thomas Jr., 12, and John, 9, must be with them, even if they have to miss some school.

"We've been away from them too much during the campaign," said Dewey, "and we want to make it up to them."

BERNARD BLACK FINED $20 FOR 1ST WARD FIGHT

Bernard S. Black, 39, 1418 Lake Shore dr., state superintendent of lodging houses, failed to appear in Municipal court yesterday to tell his side of the election day fight he had with a soldier, Pvt. Daniel Palaggi. Judge Jay A. Schiller, instead of forfeiting the bail of $25 put up by Black, found him guilty of disorderly conduct and fined him $20 and costs.

Judge Schiller discharged Palaggi, who before being inducted into the army was a partner of Fred Morelli, Democratic committeeman of the 1st ward. Black said Palaggi and a score of Democratic workers attacked him Tuesday outside a polling place when he was alone. He was the 1st ward representative of the Business Men's committee.

His nose was broken, a cheekbone was broken, and both of his eyes were blackened in the fight with Palaggi, Black's attorney, Alexander Glick, told the court. Judge Schiller said he would reconsider the fine if Black appears before him Nov. 15.

ELECTRIC SAW STOLEN.

An electric saw, electric motor, and miscellaneous tools were stolen from the garage in the rear of Leonard Laskey's home at 5024 Throop st. yesterday, he reported to police.

REDS PLAY VITAL PART IN F.D.R.'S N. Y. VICTORY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 8.—Sidney Hillman's Communist dominated American Labor party played a vital part in yesterday's victory in New York state for President Roosevelt, an analysis of the election returns showed today.

The ALP, working in conjunction with the CIO-PAC and the Communist organization, polled 484,594 votes for the fourth term. Its influence also was reflected in the voting for other offices.

More surprising to political observers, however, was the vote registered for the Democratic party candidates under the Liberal party label. This recently organized group polled 320,331 votes.

Democrats Outvoted.

Either bloc of votes, it was pointed out, would have been sufficient to swing the state's 47 electoral votes to Gov. Dewey if added to his Republican total. Counting the Democratic votes alone Dewey led President Roosevelt in the state by 547,011 votes.

With 37 districts still missing, the President's vote reached 3,284,592 against 3,026,688 for Gov. Dewey—a 257,904 plurality. The President carried the state in 1940 by 224,400. The state vote of 6,311,280 surpassed the 1940 record of 6,301,596.

The Liberal party was formed last March after Hillman, in a coalition with the Communists and left wing unions, captured the ALP from its right wing leadership. Protesting Communist seizure of the party David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers' union, and Alex Rose, deposed ALP state chairman, formed the Liberal party.

Browder Bloc Active.

Despite the defection, however, the ALP was able to ring up 65,000 more votes than its previous best record in a state-wide election.

An analysis of the returns brought cold comfort to Democratic organization leaders thruout the state and indicated there are few sections in which the Democrats can elect local candidates without endorsement of the labor and liberal parties or at least one of them.

The Communists in the ALP, working under the direction of their ex-convict leader, Earl Browder, worked unceasingly during the campaign to assure a large ALP vote. The Daily Worker, Communist organ, plumped untiringly for the ALP ticket.

A series of newspaper advertisments and radio broadcasts as well as direct mail appeals to the voters was given credit for the comparatively large vote brought in on the Liberal party line. The organization spent about $250,000 in the campaign.

F. D. R. Leads in N. J.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 9 [Thursday] —(AP).—President Roosevelt steadily increased his advantage in the latest swing of New Jersey's vote returns, reaching a lead of 27,258 at 2 a. m. after falling behind momentarily at noon yesterday.

With 45,000 to 50,000 service men's ballots still to be reported and two-thirds of them from normally Republican counties, there remained a possibility that later military returns mighty reverse the trend again.

The vote for President in all but 11 of New Jersey's 3,657 districts and in 109,768 service men's votes already tallied was: Roosevelt, 973,387; Dewey, 946,129. The military vote by itself gave Roosevelt 62,258 votes to 47,510 for Dewey.

SERVICE STAFFS HERE WILL WORK THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving day will get slight notice from military personnel in the Chicago area. For establishments of the army, navy, marine corps, and Coast Guard, Nov. 23 will be just Thursday, with staffs reporting for work as usual and putting in an eight hour day. Training programs will be carried on as usual.

However, there will be some solace for enlisted personnel. Every camp, post, and station will take enough time at noon to partake of a bountiful Thanksgiving dinner, built around turkey. All menus also will include sweet and mashed potatoes, gravy, vegetables, salad, cranberry sauce, desserts, coffee, fruit, nuts, candy, and smokes.

The general hospitals—Gardiner and Vaughan—and the Great Lakes Naval hospital will have time for more leisurely repasts and perhaps entertainment. Patients unable to leave their beds will get loaded trays and those on diets will get as much of the holiday extras as they can stand.

BUSBEY, DEWEY, AND DAY BEATEN IN HOUSE RACES

Rep. Church Re-elected Despite CIO-PAC.

As a result of Tuesday's election, the Republicans lost four Illinois congress seats, two in Chicago districts and that of Stephen A. Day, representative at large, and a fourth seat downstate.

The Chicago losers were Rep. Busbey of the 3d district and Rep. Dewey of the 9th. Edward A. Kelly, former congressman, defeated Busbey, with two precincts missing, 158,836 to 146,628. Alex J. Resa, assistant corporation counsel, beat Dewey, 61,178 to 54,554, on a complete count.

The downstate G. O. P. loser is Calvin D. Johnson of the 22d district. The winner is Melvin Price, a private in the army, now stationed at Camp Lee, Va. His margin over Johnson was 3,010 votes.

Rep. Church Wins in 10th.

One bright feature for the G. O. P.—and the only one—was the victory of Rep. Church in the 10th district. In Cook county his vote was 156,410 to 128,683 for Curtis D. MacDougall, Democrat. In Lake county, with eight precincts missing, Church led, 32,693 to 21,856. On the combined count Church won by about 39,000.

He had been the target of a strong campaign waged by the CIO political action committee and the Independent Voters of Illinois, a satellite organization. MacDougall had called him a "do nothing congressman."

With 194 of the state's precincts missing, Day was trailing by about 208,000 and had no chance to win. Chosen to succeed him was Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, wife of Prof. Paul Douglas, now a marine officer.

Rep. Jessie Sumner of Milford [18th], heretofore Illinois' only woman member of congress, was re-elected in the Republican column.

Nine Seats for Democrats.

Church will be the only Republican in the new Chicago congressional delegation, the Democrats holding nine seats. Downstate reports indicated 14 Republicans were winners to one Democrat.

Winners in Chicago were William L. Dawson, 1st district; William A. Rowan, 2d; Martin Gorski, 4th; Adolph J. Sabath, 5th; Thomas J. O'Brien, 6th; William W. Link, 7th, and Thomas S. Gordon, 8th. All but Link are now sitting in congress.

Democratic majorities in all the districts were larger than in 1940. Rep. Dewey won in that year and also in 1942. Busbey has been serving his first term. He defeated Kelly in 1942.

Vote in Other Districts.

The vote in the other Chicago districts, besides the 3d and 9th, with only a few scattered precincts unaccounted for was:

1ST DISTRICT.

Dem.		Rep.
W. L. Dawson	42,473	W. E. King	26,196

2D DISTRICT.

W. A. Rowan	183,972	T. J. Downs	137,850

4TH DISTRICT.

M. Gorski	75,282	L. J. Konieki	19,403

5TH DISTRICT.

A. J. Sabath	36,901	M. Price	11,426

6TH DISTRICT.

T. J. O'Brien	210,173	C. J. Anderson	139,809

7TH DISTRICT.

W. W. Link	36[illegible]	C. H. Garland	223,338

8TH DISTRICT.

T. S. Gordon	31,263	J. F. Unschwit	10,301

In the 6th district Anderson ran without G. O. P. help, which was withdrawn when it was disclosed he held anti-Semitic views. The organization backed Iva J. Henderson, who polled 1,812 votes.

Rep. Dirksen [R., 16th] won re-election by a wide margin over M. R. Clark, Democrat of Brimfield.

TIRED BUT HAPPY, EMILY DOUGLAS ADMITS SHE'S 'IN'

One of the last to admit her successful candidacy, Emily Taft Douglas, Democratic representative at large, late yesterday acknowledged her victory and announced she felt "just like a punctured balloon." By her victory over Stephen A. Day, Republican incumbent of Evanston, Mrs. Douglas joined a select trio of Illinois congresswomen. Her predecessors were Winnifred Mason Huck and Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms.

Mrs. Douglas said she would be "guided by the spirit of my husband," Maj. Paul Douglas of the marines, a former University of Chicago professor who resigned as alderman to enlist. He is serving in the Pacific. She said she would move to Washington during the Christmas vacation so her daughter, Jean, 11, would not miss any schooling.

The new congresswoman said her particular interest in running for office was to "build a durable peace." A durable peace, she explained, was a peace which resulted in "teamwork with other nations in this shrunken world of ours."

NAZI GENERAL SLAIN IN BATTLE.

BLANKETS STOLEN FROM AUTO.

Two blankets valued at $50 were stolen from her auto parked in front of 1129 N. Dearborn st., Mrs. Elizabeth McMahon yesterday told police.

NEW DEAL TAKES FIRM HOLD ON SENATE, HOUSE

BY WALTER TROHAN.

Near final returns found Democrats firmly in the saddle in the senate and house for the 79th congress which will open in January to hear President Roosevelt plan the end of the war and chart the way of peace.

In the 35 senatorial contests Democrats had elected 22 and Republicans had elected 12. In Missouri Forest C. Donnell, Republican, was ahead of Roy McKittrick, Democrat, by 7,000 votes, but count of 35,000 soldier ballots, which will decide the contest, does not begin until tomorrow.

If the soldier vote matches the civilian returns, Donnell's election would give Republicans a net gain of one seat. In the present congress there are 58 Democrats, 37 Republicans, and 1 Progressive.

Strong in House.

In the house Democrats elected 234 as the tide of fourth term votes carried districts which had been Republican by a narrow margin. In the present congress the Democrats have 214, the Republicans 210, Progressives 2, Farmer-Laborites 1, and American Laborites 1. There are five vacancies. The election carried the Democrats well over the 218 needed for a minimum working majority.

The Democrats took 29 seats from Republicans. Republicans elected 163, taking six seats held by Democrats and two held by minor parties. Minor parties elected two. There were 36 seats still undecided, including nine, largely in Pennsylvania, where the final result will not be determined until the soldier vote is counted at the end of the month.

The senatorial contests were featured by the defeat of three Republican stalwarts, who had been among eight named for purging as "isolationists" by their colleague, Sen. Truman [D., Mo.], Democratic candidate for Vice President.

Nye Loses to Moses.

The losers were Nye of North Dakota, vigorous critic of administration policy; Danaher of Connecticut, young and able New Deal foe, and Davis of Pennsylvania, senate veteran.

Nye was defeated by Gov. John Moses, who is seriously ill. Brien McMahon, former assistant attorney general, bested Danaher, and Davis fell before Frederick Meyers.

Republicans made gains in Indiana, Iowa, and New Jersey in addition to taking the lead in Missouri. Gov. Henry F. Schricker of Indiana, the only Democrat to win when Wendell Willkie carried the state in 1940, conceded defeat to Homer E. Capehart, Republican senatorial candidate, who sponsored a Republican "cornfield conference" on his farm in 1938.

Gillette Trounced.

Gov. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa gave Sen. Gillette a decisive trouncing in the race for the senate. Gillette was the most distinguished Democratic senator to bite the dust. Altho he was only lukewarm in his support of the New Deal, he failed to appease Iowa voters seeking a change in the national administration.

In New Jersey, H. Alexander Smith, Republican, defeated Elmer H. Wene, Democrat, for a senate term ending Jan. 3, 1947. This seat has been filled by Arthur Walsha, Democrat, who was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of W. Warren Barbour, Republican.

Senate Democrats elected included Senate Majority Leader Barkley and Senators Tydings [D., Md.], Hayden [D., Ariz.], Thomas [D., Utah], Thomas [D., Okla.], Wagner [D., N. Y.], and Lucas [D., Ill.]. Other Democratic victors were Gov. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, Gov. Clyde R. Hoey of North Carolina, and Rep. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas.

Taft Wins Close Race.

Senate Republican winners included Taft [R., O.], who had a nip and tuck race; Reed [R., Kas.], Tobey [R., Vt.], Gurney [R., S. D.], Wiley [R., Wis.], and Aiken [R., Vt.]. In Massachusetts, Gov. Leverett Saltonstall won handily over John H. Corcoran, Democrat.

In their march to retain control of the senate, Democrats toppled three prominent Republican leaders—Senators Nye of North Dakota, Davis of Pennsylvania, and Danaher of Connecticut. Nye, who was assailed by his opponents as an isolationist, lost to Gov. John Moses.

All three of the senators were on an isolationist purge list prepared by their colleague, Sen. Truman, Democratic Vice Presidential winner.

In the house, veteran Hamilton Fish, who represented President Roosevelt in congress for many years but in no way reflected his foreign or domestic policies, went down to defeat to Augustus W. Bennett, a lifelong Republican, who turned Democrat.

"I particularly wanted to be elected to serve as chairman of the rules committee to stop the march toward communism and totalitarianism in America," Fish said. "I have no regrets whatever, as I waged the strongest possible fight I knew how."

Another Republican veteran to fall was Rep. Maas of Minnesota, ranking Republican member of the house naval affairs committee, who had demanded investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster on the ground that blame would be placed on the doorstep of the White House.

In addition to Maas and Fish other prominent New Deal critics who were left by the wayside include Day, Dewey, and Calvin Johnson of Illinois.

House Minority Leader Martin [R., Mass.] won comfortably. Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.] went back without opposition.

Clare Boothe Luce, known as the Republican glamor girl, went back to represent her Connecticut district after overcoming the heavy lead of Margaret Connors, 29 year old Fairfield, Conn., lawyer.

The blonde playwright said in commenting on aid given her opponent by Mr. Roosevelt and Vice President Wallace, "the purge that failed leaves us without rancor or malice."

She said that she had never run against Miss Connors, but made her race against "the whole New Deal and the PAC."

Styles Loses.

In California Hal Styles, Republican, a radio commentator and Brooklyn Ku Klux Klansman, who defeated Rep. John Costello, Democrat, in the primary, was in turn defeated by Gordon L. McDonough, Republican. Disclosure of his connection with the nightshirt organization was responsible for his defeat altho he had been embraced as "one of ours" by Truman during his stumping of the state.

Helen Gahagan Douglas, former Broadway and Hollywood actress, who was the Democratic concession to platform glamor, won handily and will compete on the floor of the house with Rep. Luce. Another Douglas—Emily Taft Douglas, wife of a former Chicago alderman, who is now a marine captain, defeated Congressman at Large Day in Illinois. Day was the target of internationalists because of his vigorous opposition to the New Deal foreign policy.

CUSTOMERS USE GUN THREAT.

Roxey Dixon, gasoline station attendant at 357 E. 55th st., reported to police yesterday that three Negroes, whose worthless gas coupons he had rejected, had threatened him with a revolver.

George F. Barrett [left], reelected attorney general, Earle B. Searcy, Supreme court clerk; and Conrad F. Becker [right], believed elected state treasurer.

MARINE FIGHTING 21 MONTHS GETS CALL FROM DRAFT BOARD

Marine Capt. James Simpson Jr. of Wadsworth, Lake county, returned home yesterday after 21 months in the Pacific theater. He saw action in three campaigns, and found a notice to appear before his draft board today.

"It's very amusing," said Simpson. He said he probably would not be able to visit the draft board, No. 3, in North Chicago, because he must report today at the Great Lakes naval training hospital for treatment for asthma, after which he will receive a 30 day leave.

Simpson, who was a Marshall Field & Co. official when he entered the marines, was met yesterday by his wife, Elisabeth, who introduced him to his son, James III., 18 months old.

GREEN'S LEAD UP TO 64,030 THRU LATE RETURNS

got a majority of about 79,000, projected, was sufficient to determine the election.

President Roosevelt's majority in Illinois, with 39 precincts missing, is 143,300. The vote: Roosevelt, 2,073,338; Dewey, 1,930,038.

Sen. Lucas, Democrat, had a majority of 211,001 over Richard J. Lyons, Republican, with only 49 precincts unheard from. The vote: Lucas, 2,052,357; Lyons, 1,841,356.

These are final figures compiled by the press associations.

Green Takes 90 Counties.

Green carried 90 of the downstate counties. The total vote cast in Chicago was 1,857,101, beating the old 1940 record of 1,787,801. The vote was 91.4 per cent of the registration. The suburbs cast 352,701 votes, making the Cook county total 2,209,802, compared with 2,138,150 four years ago. A total of 82 per cent of the registration voted in the suburbs and 90 per cent in Cook county.

Four years ago 93 per cent of the registration voted in Chicago, 95 per cent in the suburbs, and 94 per cent in Cook county.

Downstate the total vote on President was about 1,820,000 compared with 2,090,579 in 1940. It was about 87 per cent of the registration. In Chicago, where the Democratic machine has its power, the total vote increased about 70,000 over 1940, while outside Chicago, Republican territory, it slumped about 270,000, caused mainly by war time shifts in population. The total vote in Illinois was 4,029,802, subject to a little increase when actual votes cast downstate, including those spoiled, are reported.

Close Races for Minor Offices.

In the races for minor state offices four of the six Republican candidates traveled along with Green; another had a close margin as almost complete returns came in.

Atty. Gen. Barrett, Republican, had a majority of 35,841 over Sveinbjorn Johnson when returns from all but 135 precincts were reported.

A closer race developed over the post of lieutenant governor. Hugh W. Cross, Republican incumbent, had a majority over Edward C. Hunter, Democrat, of 20,273 with 105 precincts missing. Cross had a majority downstate in precincts reported of 253,679; Hunter had a margin of 233,406 in Cook county.

Sgt. Barrett Beats Benson.

Sgt. Edward J. Barrett, Democrat, former state treasurer and auditor, now a marine on sick leave, won for secretary of state. With only 120 precincts unheard from, his majority over Arnold P. Benson, state senator, was 126,811. In Cook county Barrett rolled up a 317,092 lead, while downstate Benson's majority was 190,281.

Earle B. Searcy, Republican, veteran state senator from Springfield, running for Supreme court clerk, with 294 precincts still unheard from, had a majority of 39,829 over Casimir Griglik of Chicago.

Close Contest for Treasurer.

For state treasurer, with 143 precincts missing, mostly downstate, Conrad F. Becker of Red Bud, Republican, had a majority of 4,894 over Earl W. Merritt of Salem.

Arthur C. Lueder, Republican, seeking reelection as state auditor, had a majority of 36,142 over William Vicars of Pontiac, Democrat, in returns from all but 112 precincts.

Mrs. Douglas Winner.

In the state-wide race for congressman at large Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, Democrat, wife of a marine captain, defeated Rep. Stephen A. Day by 202,203, with only 73 precincts missing.

Returns on voting for three university trustees showed the Democrats ahead but 1,003 precincts were missing in the tabulations; of these 931 were downstate, where the Republicans were leading.

Nazis Fit U-Boats with Extendable Air Intakes

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Air Vice Marshal A. B. Elwood, senior staff officer of the R. A. F. coastal command, said today the Germans are fitting an extendable air intake to their U-boats so that they can recharge batteries and ventilate the submarines without surfacing.

G.O.P. RETAINS MAJOR OFFICES IN WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 8 [Special].—Wisconsin voters registered Republican victories for their three major candidates in yesterday's Presidential election, sent two more Republicans to the national house of representatives, and retained Republicans in control in the state capital. Democrats, however, made inroads in margins of national and state candidates in Milwaukee county, where they captured some offices.

Leading the parade of Republican vote getters was Gov. Goodland, who was elected to a two year term after having served for two years since the pre-inauguration death of Gov.-Elect Orland S. Loomis [P.].

Returns from 2,890 of the 3,098 precincts gave Goodland 645,655 votes to 494,381 for Daniel W. Hoan, former Socialist mayor of Milwaukee. Goodland's margin was 151,274 on this basis.

Dewey Polls 642,147.

Gov. Dewey polled 642,147 votes to President Roosevelt's 619,546 in 2,949 precincts. This was the first time the President has lost Wisconsin, altho his margin was small four years ago.

Sen. Wiley [R.] was reelected, defeating Rep. McMurray [D.] by nearly 90,000 votes on returns from 2,883 precincts. Wiley polled 584,857 and McMurray 495,965.

Goodland, Dewey, and Wiley came into industrial Milwaukee county with a large vote from a vast majority of the outstate precincts and more than held their own as their opponents carried the county, Hoan by 54,000 the President by 63,200, and McMurray by 70,000.

Two Republican house victories, one at the expense of a Democratic incumbent, were in the 2d and 8th districts. Robert K. Henry of Jefferson, won in the 2d over John W. Nash, Pewaukee Democrat. John W. Byrnes unseated La Vern Dilweg, former Marquette university and Green Bay Packers' football star, in the 8th.

Wasielewski Is Reelected.

The Democrats returned Thaddeus F. B. Wasielewski [4th] and elected Andrew J. Biemiller who contested with Lewis D. Thill, former Republican congressman, for the 5th district seat vacated by McMurray, winner over Thill two years ago.

Results of major contests for house seats follow:

Second District—280 of 287 precincts: Robert K. Henry [R.], 69,684; John W. Nash [D.], 31,121; Herbert C. Schenk [Prog.], Malison, 20,704.

Third District—312 of 370 precincts: William H. Stevenson [R.], incumbent, La Crosse, 55,206; William D. Carroll [D.], Prairie du Chien, 18,267.

Fourth District—279 precincts incomplete: Thaddeus Wasielewski [D.], 102,422; Robert Black [R.] 52,381.

Fifth District—299 precincts complete: Andrew J. Biemiller [D.] 87,629; Lewis D. Thill [R.], 78,405.

Sixth District—188 out of 217 precincts: Frank B. Keefe [R.], incumbent, Oshkosh, 48,521; Henry Danes [D.], New Holstein, 25,437.

Murray Retains Seat.

Seventh District—283 of 372 precincts: Reid F. Murray [R.], incumbent, Ogdensburg, 47,056; William H. Ludwig [D.], Marshfield, 18,631.

Eighth District—206 of 284 precincts: John W. Byrnes [R.], 40,071; LaVern Dilweg [D.], incumbent, 29,568.

Ninth District—267 of 377 precincts: Merlin Hull [Prog.], incumbent, 28,559, Adolph Maasen [Soc.], Alma, 51.

Tenth District—279 of 403 precincts: Alvin E. O'Konski, [R.], incumbent, Mercer, 28,816; Elizabeth Hawkes [D.], Washburn, 16,715.

Wisconsin will have seven Republican, two Democratic, and one Progressive in the house.

SOUTH IS STILL SOLID, BUT G.O.P. MAKES GAINS

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 8 (AP).—Voters in the solid south gave a strong indorsement to a fourth term for President Roosevelt Tuesday but the Republican vote in several states showed gains.

Republicans nearly doubled their strength of 1940 in Georgia, giving 44,687 votes to Gov. Dewey compared with 23,932 for Wendell Willkie. Dewey's vote in Tennessee appeared to exceed that given any Republican except on two occasions since the Civil war. Dewey's Louisiana vote was also comparatively large.

In Texas a sizable "protest" vote was gathered by the anti-Roosevelt Texas Regulars, who polled 91,889 votes to 610,302 for Roosevelt and 139,273 for Dewey in 249 of 254 counties. Pre-campaign opposition to Roosevelt melted in South Carolina and Mississippi, Roosevelt taking the latter 14 to 1.

CABINET POSTS EXPECTED FOR 4TH TERM AIDS

Hillman Is Mentioned for Labor Secretary.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—Predictions of a reshuffle of President Roosevelt's official family, postponed until the administration was assured of another four years in office, were made today in Washington. Appointments of new officials would be submitted to the senate for approval when congress reconvenes next week.

Mrs. Anna Rosenberg.

The most persistent rumor of impending changes concerned the department of labor, headed by Frances Perkins, former New York social worker, who has held the post of secretary of labor since Mr. Roosevelt's first inauguration, March 4, 1933.

Prominently mentioned as a successor to Mme. Perkins is Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, Presidential labor adviser and regional director for the war man power commission and United States employment service.

"Orientation" Plan Reported.

Mrs. Rosenberg was the subject of caustic comment recently when it was reported she had advised a group of generals that American soldiers would have to be "reoriented" before they would be fit to return to civilian life.

Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO political action committee, also was mentioned as a possible future labor secretary. There was some discussion in government circles that Hillman might get the job as a reward for CIO assistance in the President's fourth term campaign, altho the $15,000 cabinet salary is far lower than Hillman's income as head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union.

Secretary of State Hull, 73, also a three term member of the President's cabinet, is another whose replacement is expected.

Wallace Mentioned for Post.

Vice President Wallace and Undersecretary of State Stettinius have been mentioned as likely successors to Hull.

Stettinius announced today Hull is "getting along very well." The secretary has been in the hospital two weeks and away from his office for five weeks.

War Mobilization Director Byrnes is expected to submit his long scheduled resignation to the President as soon as Mr. Roosevelt returns to the White House. Byrnes is expected to be succeeded by Stabilization Director Vinson.

Another post to be filled is that of chairman of the federal communications commission, vacated last week by the resignation of James L. Fly. Paul Porter, publicity director of the Democratic national committee, has been mentioned as Fly's successor.

Yanks at Front Take News of Election in Their Stride

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY, in Germany, Nov. 8.—Election results were received quietly, almost apathetically, along the front today.

The final returns didn't begin arriving here until after breakfast this morning. First word of the outcome was when the British Broadcasting corporation interrupted a musical program and then announced Roosevelt's victory. Then the state results came filtering thru. BBC also dwelt repeatedly, but unemotionally, on the defeat of Sen. Danaher of Connecticut and Hamilton Fish, New York representative, describing them as isolationists.

Ex-Reporter on Job.

The most enterprising G. I. was Pvt. Charles Lewis of Trenton, N. J., a former reporter for the Trenton Times, who upheld American newspaper tradition thousands of miles from home. His job is that of publishing a one page newspaper for his unit. This morning his office, in a town not far from the front, was adorned with a huge blackboard upon which he chalked the results along with each state's electoral vote.

Looking at the board was Pvt. Albert B. Brevard, 6437 S. Harper av., Chicago, Ill., who said he had not thought much about the election but added: "I guess it turned out all right."

Pvt. Russell Miller of Elkhart, Ind., riding a truck toward the front lines said the results suited him. Pvt. John Brice, 7731 S. Bishop st., Chicago, said he was satisfied, too. "Now I hope we will get the war over with, too, which will be better yet," he said.

Yanks Interested in Bets.

WITH THE BRITISH 2D ARMY IN HOLLAND, Nov. 8 (AP).—The United States Presidential election evoked tremendous interest on this front both among British troops and Dutch civilians, but Americans in this sector just couldn't be bothered.

A survey among American soldiers attached to the British 2d army disclosed that their greatest interest centered on its betting possibilities.

PRESS HAILS RESULT

BY JAMES SLOAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Britain's often uniformly edited press today took a look at the election returns from the United States and opened up with a chorus of thanksgiving that President Roosevelt had been reelected. Not one newspaper or commentator found anything but a great comforting augury for a bright British future in the "mandate" given Roosevelt to remain in office thru 16 years.

The Evening News said:

"Our future is linked with America's and America's future must be largely shaped by the stature of her President and the solidarity of the support he gets from his own people. It would be hypocritical to pretend that Roosevelt did not have our friendly, if unspoken, wishes in the fight. We think it is a good thing for the world that he will be in the White House during these all-important next four years when huge problems will face all mankind which will need men of the caliber of President Roosevelt on the bridge of the world's battered ship as it sails thru these tempestuous waters."

"Vote of Confidence."

The Star said: "The election is a gigantic vote of confidence in Roosevelt's policy to see the war thru and win the peace. He now has the authority to act without fear of electoral contradiction with Mr. Churchill and Marshal Stalin in building up world security. Mr. Roosevelt put the future of international affairs in the center of the fight while prominent Republicans with isolationist records were striving for power and sought to use Mr. Dewey to mask their designs."

The Evening Standard said: "The result of the election is one the British people wanted because it leaves the tasks of winning the war and the larger tasks of advancing Anglo-American-soviet unity to win the peace in the strong, proven hands of Roosevelt. The people are solidly behind Roosevelt, Stalin, and Churchill, who have become the leaders of the universe and the supreme architects of victory."

F. D. R. to Meet Big 2

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt is slated to meet Churchill and Stalin within a few weeks in a post-election conference on Europe and world plans.

Final arrangements for the session with the British prime minister and soviet premier had waited on yesterday's voting, the result of which made it evident he would attend the meeting with increased prestige and a hand strengthened in international affairs.

There was some speculation that Gen. De Gaulle of France and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China might be counted in. Guesses on where the gathering might occur ranged from Teheran, scene of the meeting a year ago, to one of Europe's liberated capitals.

FRENCH PLEASED

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Gen. De Gaulle, leader of the French provisional government which has been strongly challenged by a powerful Communist party here over the disarmament of the resistance group, the Patriotic Militia, sent a message of warm congratulations to President Roosevelt today on his reelection for a fourth term. De Gaulle said:

"I would add my entire sympathy is with you in the very great tasks which await you after those which you have so magnificently fulfilled."

The executive committee of the French Socialist party also sent felicitations to the President on his "brilliant reelection which crowns your magnificent effort for victory."

BARTENDER ROBBED OF $900.

Three armed men entered the Ogden Wine and Liquor store, 3501 S. Ogden av., last night and forced the bartender, Morton Shimfrood, of 3448 S. Ogden av., to hand over $900 and two .38 caliber pistols, he reported to police.

DEWEY TRAILS STATE TICKETS IN MIDDLE WEST

Weak Showing Noted in Vote Analysis.

Guy Gillette [D.] by a comfortable margin.

The Michigan returns, while indicating a hairline advantage for Dewey over the fourth term President, show the New York governor again failed to lead his ticket. Gov. Raymond Kelly, running for reëlection, rolled up 10,000 more votes than Mr. Dewey and won easily with a 225,000 margin over Edward Fry, Democrat. Republican strength there was further indicated by the wide vote margin given Rep. Clare Hoffman, 4th district, who was marked for purging by the New Deal and the CIO political action committee.

Lags in Indiana.

In Indiana, as Gov. Dewey won the state with a 100,000 margin, the Republicans virtually swept the state, capturing a senate seat and the governorship. Ralph Gates, Republican, was elected governor with a 50,000 plurality over Samuel Jackson, Democrat, giving the state a Republican chief executive for the first time in more than a decade. In the senate race, Homer Capeheart, Republican, edged out Henry Schricker, the present Democratic governor.

Another senate seat fell to the Republicans in Missouri, although Dewey lost the electoral vote there. With almost all returns in, Forrest C. Donnell, now governor, led in the senate race for the presently Democratic seat, by 7,000 votes over Roy McKittrick, Donnell ran 15,000 ahead of Dewey. The Democrats, however, won the governorship, vacated by Donnell. On the other hand, the G. O. P. gained one seat and may win two others in the state senate.

Republican Nebraska chose Dewey over Roosevelt by a 3 to 2 margin, but here again the G. O. P. standard bearer trailed the state ticket. Gov. Dwight Griswold, Republican, polled nearly 100,000 more votes than Dewey in winning reëlection, and beat his opponent, George Olsen, by a better than 2 to 1 popular vote.

Pattern Is Similar.

The pattern in South Dakota was similar to that in Nebraska. Dewey won the state's electoral vote easily, but by smaller margins than were accorded the victorious G. O. P. candidates for senator and governor. Both Sen. Chan Gurney and Gov. M. Q. Sharpe got a bigger total vote than Mr. Dewey, besides bigger pluralities.

In North Dakota, which Dewey finally won after an early see-saw in returns, the G. O. P. seized the previously Democratic governorship, when Fred Aandahl, Republican, defeated William de Puy, Democrat, by nearly 2 to 1. The Democrats, however, gained a senate seat as Gerald Nye, incumbent, lost to John Moses, present Democratic governor.

All G. O. P. state officials in Minnesota were easy victors, while Gov. Dewey lost to Mr. Roosevelt by nearly 50,000 votes. Gov. Edward J. Thye, in winning reëlection, polled 584,000 votes, or 120,000 more than Dewey, on the basis of incomplete returns, and the other Republican nominees also outran the New Yorker.

Same in Connecticut.

Similarly, in the seaboard state of Connecticut, the Republican governor, Raymond E. Baldwin, overcame the defeat of Dewey to win reëlection. Dewey lost the state to Mr. Roosevelt by 40,000 votes.

Ohio was one of the few states where Mr. Dewey eclipsed the Republican state ticket. He appeared last night to have edged Mr. Roosevelt for the electoral vote there, but Frank J. Lausche, Democrat, won over James G. Stewart, for the governorship being vacated by Vice Presidential Nominee Bricker.

Dewey's popular vote exceeded that for Sen. Taft [R.], who apparently won reëlection on a close race. Dewey's relatively good showing in Ohio, compared with his vote getting deficiency in other areas, was attributed by political observers to the popularity of his running mate, Gov. Bricker, with residents of the Buckeye state.

SEN. HARRY S. TRUMAN.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 8 (AP). — Sen. Truman spent most of today receiving friends and reading congratulatory messages upon his election as Vice President, then made plans to return to Washington Sunday to resume his senatorial duties.

The senator arose at 6:30 a. m. today, with less than three hours sleep, when the congratulatory telegrams and telephones began pouring into his penthouse apartment at a downtown hotel. Included in the stacks of messages was one from the President. It read:

"I am very happy that things have gone so well. My thanks and congratulations for your splendid coöperation, I will see you very soon. Roosevelt."

BATTLE BREWING FOR DIRECT VOTE ON PRESIDENCY

When Illinois' 28 Presidential electors meet in Springfield on Dec. 18 to cast this state's electoral college votes for President Roosevelt and Sen. Truman it may be the last time the nation elects its national executives under that system.

Increased demands at the next session of congress for abolition of a system long called archaic and the substitution of direct votes by the people are predicted.

Under Heavy Attack.

The electoral college—whereby a state votes for Presidential electors who in turn cast the state's vote for President and Vice President—has been subjected to the heaviest criticism in its history in the campaign just ended when electors in three southern states attempted to disrupt the time honored custom of voting for the nominees of their party. Revolt threatened in other southern states.

Electors in the past, in instances too few to affect national results, have voted differently from the popular vote of their state but this is the first time electors announced in advance they would go contrary to the wishes of their party. The revolt almost broke up the Democratic national convention, but in the end the electoral vote of the three states was assured for Roosevelt and Truman in accordance with the wishes of the voters.

System Often Revised.

Demands have been frequent for abolition of the electoral college and substitution of direct vote by the people. Under the electoral college system, which determines electoral votes by state blocs, it is possible for a Presidential candidate to have a minority of the popular vote and a majority in the electoral college. The system has been revised from time to time, but congress has refused repeatedly to abolish it.

Under this system each state is given as many votes in the electoral college as it has senators and representatives. Thus Illinois, with 25 district congressmen, one congressman at large and two senators, has 28 electoral votes. There are 531 electors with 266 necessary for election. Electors meet in each state capital and cast the state's votes, which are then mailed to Washington, D. C., where they are canvassed at a joint session of the senate and house.

If no candidate receives a majority, the house then elects a President, each state having one vote, and the senate elects the Vice President. It was in an attempt to create this condition that Texas Democrats named 23 electors freed from the traditional duty of voting for the party's nominees unless certain provisions were met by the national convention. A second state convention displaced these electors and they ran unsuccessfully as Texas Regulars. Court action was necessary to stop a similar threat in Louisiana and in Mississippi a few days before the election a special legislative session authorized a new slate of electors and provided a supplemental ballot for them.

Wreath Honoring Lincoln Is Torn Down by Vandals

A wreath placed at the Lincoln tablet at Lake st. and Wacker dr. by the Polish Roman Catholic Union last Sunday was torn down by vandals, police were informed yesterday. The tablet marks the site of the Wigwam, in which the Republican national convention of 1860 nominated Lincoln for President.

Spencer of WMC Appeals for 'Production Victory'

William H. Spencer, regional director of the war man power commission, called on all workers yesterday, now that the election is over, to unite as never before in "striking the final blows for victory" on the production front. Production schedules call for thousands of persons without previous industrial experience, he said, and many workers who left war production jobs for positions with peace time futures still are needed for war output.

OFFICIALLY LIST CARL F. ZEIDLER AS WAR VICTIM

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 8 (AP).—Lt. [j. g.] Carl F. Zeidler, who broke Daniel W. Hoan's 24 year Socialist rule of Milwaukee when he defeated Hoan in the 1940 mayoralty campaign, has been reported officially dead after nearly two years on the list of missing, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Zeidler, said today.

Lt. Zeidler, who campaigned as a nonpartisan, left the city hall to command a naval gun crew aboard the merchant ship La Salle and was listed as missing in action Dec. 17, 1942.

G. O. P. PICKS UP FOUR SEATS IN STATE SENATE

Democrats Gain Six in Illinois House.

BY LEE SHASSERE.

Republicans not only retained control of the Illinois senate in Tuesday's election, but increased their advantage over the Democrats by four seats. This gives the G. O. P. 33 seats in the senate to the Democrats' 18. Republican victories were in the 18th, 42d, 46th, and 50th senatorial districts, all downstate.

A constitutional majority for most legislation is 26 senate votes. Republicans came within one seat of reaching the two-thirds majority necessary for enactment of emergency legislation.

The Illinois house of representatives race was a thriller from start to finish, with results often in doubt. A house majority is 77 votes, and, with all state districts in, Republicans were given 78 seats to the Democrats' 75.

Democrats Gain Six.

The house lineup at the start of Tuesday's battle saw Republicans holding 84 seats to the Democrats' 69. But Democratic gains netted the party six seats—four in Cook county and two downstate.

The four Democratic gains in Cook county were in the 5th, 11th, 13th, and 31st districts. Eleven house contests were fought out in Cook county and 13 downstate.

The Republicans' loss of one of their two house of representative seats in the 5th district was particularly heart breaking for them, for they had gained the extra seat four years ago after years of struggling. For nearly two decades Col. William J. Warfield [R.] held one of the house seats, and the district majority was enhanced in 1940, when Noble W. Lee, a Hyde Park Republican, captured the second seat. Col. Warfield was forced to retire because of illness, and Tuesday's race found William A. Booker, a protege of Ald. Oscar De Priest, as Lee's running mate.

Lee Retains His Post.

The Democratic winners are Rep. Louis G. Berman, veteran of 10 years in the legislature, and Charles M. Skyles. Lee retained his seat, finishing nearly 7,000 votes ahead of Booker.

In the 11th, Rep. David I. Swanson [R.], who had held a house post for the last 20 years, bowed out as the Democrats grabbed both house seats. The third seat went to Rep. Walter McAvoy [R.], who is finishing his first house term. Democratic winners were Rep. Michael J. Hannigan and George A. Fitzgerald, a former state representative from the 11th.

Republicans also let go of one of their two house posts in the 13th district, which is the home of Speaker of the House Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R.], who did not file for reelection. The two Democratic winners are Rep. John G. Ryan and Adam S. Mioduski, the latter a representative from the 13th up until 1942, when he was defeated by Rep. Ragnar G. Nelson [R.], Schackenberg's running mate.

Loses by Less than 3,000.

Mioduski received a heavy Polish vote from the southeast end of the district. Edward Schneider, president of the 8th ward regular Republican organization, who took Schnackenberg's place on the ticket, lost out by fewer than 3,000 votes.

In the 31st district, Democrats wrested two of the three house seats from Republicans. Winners were Rep. Pierce L. Shannon and William J. Mullaley, Democrats. Rep. George A. Williston [R.] succeeded in retaining his post, but Atty. George W. Johnson failed in his bid for the seat vacated by Rep. Edward P. Saltiel, who was defeated for the 31st district state senate.

Results in Cook County.

Final results in the 11 Cook county contests for house seats, follow [asterisks denote incumbents]:

[Three elected in each district.]

NANCY REID.

Nancy Reid of Evanston has won the war's strangest beauty contest—in a German prisoner of war camp. Nancy's photograph was chosen by American prisoners interned in Oflag 64 as the prettiest sweetheart of any of the internees. Her picture was submitted by Lt. John F. Glendinning of New York. Miss Reid's picture was published on the cover of "The Item," a monthly magazine printed at the camp.

65,000 CALLERS RING TRIBUNE TO LEARN WHO WON

Telephone calls to THE TRIBUNE for election information Tuesday and yesterday exceeded the number received in any previous election or other major news event, Miss Anne Garrow, manager of the telephone service, said last night. They broke the record set in 1916 when the election was in doubt overnight between Woodrow Wilson and Charles Evans Hughes.

Miss Garrow estimated the Tribune operators answered 65,000 calls. Twenty-five thousand were received before midnight Tuesday, and yesterday the flood of inquiries, most of which were concerned with Gov. Green's race with State's Atty. Courtney, became so great that the operators remained at their switchboard until 3 p. m. without lunch.

Extra girls were on duty, and at peak periods they handled 200 calls an hour. The calls came from as far as New York. The first heavy rush was at 5 p. m. Tuesday, and calls surged upward again between 9 and 11:30 p. m. Incoming calls remained heavy until late yesterday.

Tables Will Turn in 1946, Rep. Day Says of Defeat

Rep. Day [R.] yesterday calmly conceded his defeat for Illinois congressman at large and said he will return to Washington next week to continue his efforts for American interests. "I've just begun to fight," Day said. "There are angles of this campaign that will be revealed at the proper time. When the people see the truth I am satisfied that the tables will turn completely. This will happen in the 1946 election."

W-G-N SALUTES HENRY WEBER, ITS CONDUCTOR

The management of W-G-N yesterday gave a luncheon saluting Henry Weber, W-G-N's musical director as well as conductor of its symphony orchestra, on the occasion of his completion of 20 years as an operatic and symphony conductor in Chicago.

Among the guests were three musicians who have played under Weber's direction for two decades. They are Peter DiLecca, horn player; Frank Chrisafulli Sr., trombonist, and Dmitri Shmuklovsky, bass violinist. Also present was Marion Claire, who is Mrs. Weber and singing star of the Theater of the Air operettas.

Frank P. Schreiber, manager of W-G-N, presented Weber an engrossed parchment citing his contributions to music in his 20 years as a conductor and 10 years with W-G-N.

CHICAGO TRAIN JUMPS RAILS IN WEST; 9 DEAD

'Challenger' Crashes at 'Full Speed.'

Colfax, Cal., Nov. 8 (AP). — The Southern Pacific's Challenger seemed to "hit something going at full speed" before dawn today, a passenger said as officials pressed inquiry into the cause of the wreck which killed at least nine persons and injured more than 80.

The train was en route from Chicago to San Francisco, carrying nearly 800 persons.

The locomotive and 10 cars left the rails on a mountain curve thru a cut west of here. Five day coaches and two baggage cars were hurled from the roadbed against the bank of the cut. One car crashed thru the roof of another, in which most of the fatalities were found.

Victims Not Identified.

The dead were: F. G. Graham, 45, train engineer; Sidney E. Bunce, Eureka, Cal.; Mrs. Anna Ernster, 28, Clinton, Ia.; one unidentified soldier; two unidentified sailors; one WAVE, also unidentified, and two unidentified civilian women.

The list of injured included the following from the Chicago area:

May Breedlove, 4951 S. Halsted st., Chicago; Mrs. Charlotte Foutch, Crescent, Ia.; Delbert Irons, Pontiac, Mich., and Annetta Irons, same address; and Mrs. Violet Parker, Detroit, Mich.

Army—Pvt. Thomas B. Jones, husband of Lillie Jones, Chicago, Ill., and Dean C. Willian, Saginaw, Mich.

Navy—C. J. Borlaug, Lawlor, Ia., and Curtis Lewison, Akron, Ia.

The four bodies of those in the military forces were removed to Dewitt General hospital at Auburn, an army hospital which dispatched 15 ambulances to the scene for care of the injured. Some were taken to Smith hospital here.

Probe Crash Reason.

Uninjured passengers continued to Sacramento by bus and a train made up of the cars which had remained on the track.

Whether the locomotive struck an obstacle on the track or the roadbed was affected by recent heavy rains was only speculation as investigation began. Some passengers spoke of feeling they had hit something.

Lt. Ralph Haley, United States army, said he noted three distinct jolts on his coach.

"The first one woke me up just in time to catch the full effect of the other two, and to see suitcases flying thru the air and some people tossed out of their seats."

ASSERT 2 JEWS ADMIT KILLING BRITISH ENVOY

Police Link Pair with Extremist Group.

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 8 (AP).—Police announced today that two Jewish prisoners had confessed they assassinated Walter E. Guinness [Lord Moyne], British minister of state resident in the middle east, on orders from the Stern group of extreme Jewish nationalists.

[The Sternists, also known as Fighters for the Freedom of Israel, broke away at the start of the war from the extremist Irgun Zvei Leuni, national military organization in Palestine. The parent group declared an "armistice," but the minority decided to continue terrorist activities under Abraham Stern, 30, Polish born school teacher. Stern later was reported killed by Palestine police.]

Assail Guinness' Policies.

The confessions were obtained, it was announced, after 36 hours of questioning by members of the British Palestine police who flew here for the inquiry.

Police said the prisoners, one of whom was wounded by Egyptian police as the two fled across the residence grounds, had said, "We are members of the Fighters for Freedom of Israel and what we did was on instructions from this organization."

They gave their names as Moshe Cohen and Itzakch Salzmann and contended that Guinness' policies were prejudicial to Jewish aspirations for a national home in Palestine.

Funeral for Victims.

Meanwhile an elaborate military funeral was held for Guinness and his chauffeur, Lance Corp. Fuller, who were shot two days ago as they drove up to the minister's residence here.

British, American, French, Polish, New Zealand and Egyptian troops escorted the flag-draped caskets thru the streets on gun carriages drawn by armored cars.

ALL JAP WOMEN ORDERED OUT OF 11 MAJOR CITIES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Japanese government has decided to increase removal of nonessential civilians from Japan's largest cities in preparation for "inevitable enemy air raids," Tokyo radio reported yesterday. The cabinet ordered "young and old and pregnant women" to move out of 11 major cities to live with relatives in the country.

Cabinet action followed unconfirmed Tokyo reports of three reconnaissance flights over Honshu, the main island of Japan, by Super Fortresses within a week.

The new decentralization program, scheduled to start Nov. 15, includes Tokyo, Yokohama, Osaka, Kobe, Kawasaki, Yokosuka, Nagoya, Moji, Kokura, Tobata and Yamada. In previous mass evacuation more than 1 million have been reported evacuated from greater Tokyo.

GARAGE AND CAR BURNED.

Fire destroyed a two-car garage and a 1933 automobile last night at the rear of a home occupied by C. Moura, 1622 Beach av., causing damage estimated by Chief Joseph Flahie, of the 4th battalion, at $300.

ARCTIC AIR BASE OF U. S. WITHOUT PLANE OR PILOT

It's 'Too Cold for Germs' So Garrison Thrives.

BY FRANK STURDY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

U. S. AIR BASE, Coral Harbor, Southampton Island, Canada, Nov. 8. — Silence lies like a weight tonight over the army base on this arctic island at the north end of Hudson bay. It is the silence peculiar to the arctic, a quiet so profound and eerie it inspires alert listening. There is no wind to stir the snow, not a twig to snap or a leaf to rustle in the brittle cold. Nothing grows in the rocky surface of the ground except a few weedy plants only 6 inches high.

3 Air Bases near Arctic.

The men of the small garrison are asleep, their day's work finished. From day to day their life consists principally of keeping themselves warmed, fed and alive, and the airport runway cleared of snow so that the weekly airplane that brings them mail and fresh food can get in and out.

No Plane or Pilot.

This base was built at great expense and with great hardship as a ferrying point for aircraft bound for England by way of The Pas and Churchill, Manitoba, from factories in the United States. The route was never used for that purpose and there is no military flight operation over it now. For nearly two years the army kept the route so secret the bases could not even be named in print.

Southampton is a $7,000,000 airport without an airplane or pilot. The price, however, is misleading, presumably accounted for by the excessive cost of getting materials to this isolated place within 250 miles of the arctic circle and 500 miles of the magnetic pole.

There is one long runway, a hangar that will house one C-47 Douglas transport. There are buildings for a larger garrison than is stationed here at present.

The island can be reached only by ship thru Hudson straits or from Churchill at the south end of the bay, or by air. Thousands of gallons of fuel oil, tons of food, and all other heavy supplies for a year are shipped in during the summer months when the bay is not frozen.

100 Ft. Waterfall.

Southampton is almost flat. There are a few hills and some rivers, one with a waterfall of about 100 feet, the island's show piece.

Approaching the shore at an altitude of 1,000 feet in an army transport after a flight of nearly 500 miles from Churchill over the cold water of Hudson bay, the ice-bound shore line is undiscernible. The cloud level is only a few hundred feet above the plane. There is no horizon visible.

The pilot of the plane, Capt. George Frank of the air transport command, has flown this trip several times before. Two weeks ago he nursed an ice-laden plane across the bay, barely keeping it in the air long enough to reach the base. His experienced eye picks up the shore line long before the co-pilot, Lt. Gerald Neville, and I can see it, even when it is pointed out.

There is snow on the ground at Southampton 11 months of the year. The greater part of it melts by the first half of July, but vestiges remain until mid-August. The first snow of this winter season fell longer than a month ago.

51 Below—Mild!

Last year was the mildest in 40 years, with the lowest temperatures 51 degrees below zero. It is an axiom in the region that the temperature will rise as high in the summer as it fell in the preceding winter, and this August it proved out exactly.

The arctic snow is dry and fine as talcum powder. Packed almost as hard as cement by the wind, a drift will take the weight of a tractor and show hardly a mark on its surface. The temperature at night now is usually around 12 degrees above zero.

The garrison is phenomenally healthy. Colds usually are brought in by newcomers from warmer climate, cause a mild epidemic, and disappear in a few days. The elaborately equipped hospital of 25 beds usually is unoccupied.

The post has a recreation building with a library, lounge, radio, pool, and pingpong tables.

"Too Cold for Germs."

During the warm weeks of the year there is good fishing in several island streams. There are no song birds, but there are ducks, geese, and ptarmigan and, along the coast, sea gulls. Several groups of Eskimos, totaling about 170 people, are scattered around the island.

The soldiers' stock joke is that the climate is too cold for self-respecting germs. Apparently the same is true for insects. Aside from the summer crop of mosquitos the only insects the men have seen are small black spiders.

Besides keeping the base in repair and maintaining the airport, the principal business at the base is weather reporting. Weather information gathered at Southampton is important to bases in other parts of Canada where there is regular army flying, and even in the United States.

All communication, including weather data, is by radio. The chief radio operator is a Chicagoan, Staff Sgt. F. J. Ciambrone, 2928 Wallace st. There are four other Chicagoans at the post: Pvt. H. F. Konrad, 4103 N. Whipple st.; Corp. J. Inglis of Oak Park; Staff Sgt. L. Godlewski, 3859 W. 64th st., and Corp. H. Lerner, 835 N. Maplewood av.

CANADA KEEPS VOLUNTEER PLAN FOR DUTY ABROAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 8.—Men drafted for home defense will not be sent overseas now to reënforce Canada's overseas army, Prime Minister Mackenzie King stated tonight. The government will continue to depend on volunteers to reënforce the dominion's overseas army, which is completely volunteer.

King said J. L. Ralston, former minister of national defense, who resigned last week, had done so because his recommendation that draftees be sent overseas had been rejected.

King also said Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former commander of the Canadian army, had advised against use of draftees overseas. McNaughton was appointed to replace Ralston.

Shortage in Infantry.

King said there is a prospective shortage of infantry reënforcements, but this is the only branch of the army where there is a lack. The infantry shortage will be remedied by remustering men from other branches of the army, by using trained men still in Britain or Canada, and by speeding up training and recruiting of volunteers.

The "home defense" army of 68,000 includes 25,000 French-speaking Canadians, but only 16,000 of the total are trained as infantry, and of these only 8,000 sufficiently trained for combat duty, King said.

Of the 150,000 men drafted for home defense, 48,000 have enlisted subsequently in the army, navy, or air force. Some 33,000 have been discharged for medical or other reasons, and the remainder have been employed in non operational duties, and in garrisons in Newfoundland and on Canadian coasts.

Says Million Have Served.

King announced that when demobilization comes, it will be on a basis of "first in first out" with overseas men given the preference.

His announcements came in the midst of a domestic controversy over whether draftees, commonly known here as "zombies" should be sent overseas.

King said that since 1939 nearly a million men have served in Canada's services and all except 68,000 of these were volunteers.

"These figures represent a stupendous achievement for a nation of less than 12,000,000 population, particularly when account is taken of man power required for war production and vital civilian services," he said.

Gen. McNaughton announced that Lt. Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of staff in military headquarters, London, is on leave pending retirement. Stuart is a former chief of the Canadian army staff in Ottawa. He went overseas last December to take over the newly created post of overseas chief of staff.

Nazis Postpone Fete on Putsch Anniversary

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP).—The German radio announced tonight that "because of Germany's total mobilization" the annual Nazi party celebration at Munich of the abortive 1923 Munich beer hall putsch would not be held tonight as usual but "will take place at a later date."

Foe's Planes 'Stand Still' for Miracle Gunsight

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—The Fairchild Camera and Instrument corporation announced today the development of an electronic gunsight capable of directing .50-calibre bullets from speeding bombers at enemy craft with accuracy as great "as when firing at a stationary target from a stationary platform." It is said to extend the effective range of .50-calibre machine guns to more than 1,000 yards.

ENGINE PARTS ARE SCARCE!
Protect with anti-freeze now

YOU CAN'T BLAME THE OTHER FELLOW IF A FREEZE-UP WRECKS YOUR ENGINE

The War Production Board has seen to it that there is enough anti-freeze for all real needs. You may not always be able to get the type or brand you prefer, but your dealer should have enough of one kind or another to give full winter protection.

Reliable anti-freeze will protect hard-to-replace engine parts in two important ways:

It will prevent ice from cracking the radiator, engine block or cylinder head of your car. It will also keep rust and corrosion from attacking these and other vital parts. Du Pont "Zerone" and "Zerex" anti-freeze contain proven anti-acid rust inhibitors—the best you can get!

But buy no anti-freeze until you have the cooling system inspected. Rotted hose, leaks in radiator seams, and loose connections all waste anti-freeze. A clogged radiator is likely to cause overheating, which wastes gas and oil.

Your dealer is equipped to do a thorough job. Ask him to do so, won't you, before you have anti-freeze put in. It will mean a lot in keeping your car at its best.

IMPORTANT NOTICE: Anti-freeze is made from war-critical materials. By all means have your car protected, but buy only as much anti-freeze as you absolutely need—and don't waste a drop.

SEND NO MONEY ... IT'S FREE!

"Take Care of Your Cooling System" tells money and car saving facts you want to know. Send a penny postal card for this easy-to-read, illustrated booklet today. No obligation. Room 2496N, Nemours Bldg., E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. (Inc.), Wilmington 98, Delaware.

"ZERONE"* is made from methanol. Gives maximum cooling system protection at low cost. Anti-acid. Anti-rust. $1.00 a gallon.

"ZEREX"* is non-evaporating. One shot lasts all winter! Money can't buy better anti-freeze. Anti-acid. Anti-rust. Limited supply. $2.65 a gallon.

WAR EMERGENCY "ZERONE" is made with an ethanol base. Requires only occasional check-up for winter-long driving. Anti-rust. $1.40 a gallon.

Anyone who knows can tell the REAL THING!

You can't blame this giraffe for being somewhat shocked! Our friends react the same way when they come face to face with a substitute for Calvert whiskey.

They know, you see, that Calvert is "the real thing." One taste tells that this superb blend is at the peak of pre-war excellence... a whiskey that can't be imitated!

And that explains why the preference for Calvert never changes, no matter how many other whiskies may come along.

In fact, people who sell and serve Calvert tell us: "Before the war, during the shortage, and now—Calvert was, and is, the whiskey most often asked for by name."

Fortunately, a greater supply of this superlative whiskey is now available. So if you keep on asking for Calvert, you'll get this gloriously smooth and mellow blend.

PATTON'S YANKS CROSS RIVER IN PUSH NEAR METZ

Advance Up to 3 Miles; Take 16 Towns.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY ON THE MOSELLE RIVER, Nov. 8.—A straightening operation involving three divisions along a 27 mile front brought gains up to three miles today in the sector between Nancy and Metz. Sixteen towns and more than 400 prisoners were taken during the surprise infantry assault that kicked off at daylight after an hour long artillery barrage.

The 19th tactical air force took advantage of a few hours of good weather and aided the 80th, 35th, and 26th infantry divisions by bombing and strafing enemy strong points, supply dumps, and other targets.

Cross in Icy Water.

Our troops crossed the Seille river or its branches at several points, some of these crossings involving wading thru chest deep icy water. When bridgeheads were established combat engineers threw bridges across to enable other troops and vehicles to follow.

Enemy resistance was sporadic, consisting mainly of small arms fire and some artillery and mortar fire. There was house to house and room to room fighting in some towns—such as Malaçourt and Jallacourt, which are near each other and roughly 12 miles northeast of Nancy—but other towns were occupied practically without resistance. Prisoners taken by the 26th division, told their captors that the attack came as a "complete surprise."

The 26th, whose nickname is the "Yankee division," took the towns of Moyenvic, Moncourt, Bezange-la-Petite, Sanrey, and Vic-sur-Seille.

Midwesterners in Fight.

Midwesterners in Malacourt included Pvt. Archie Campbell, Center Lane, Mich., and Pvt. Raymond Lux, Decatur, Ia., still wet from wading the river hours before and shivering a little, as well as Pvt. Clarence Sharkey, 26, of 1513 W. 19th st., Chicago. Sharkey, a radio operator, was once employed by THE TRIBUNE as an assistant truck driver.

Also seen in Malacourt were Lt. Clarence Thomas, 27, Rock Island, Ill., and Staff Sgt. Franklin Everman, Seymour, Ia.

Farther north of this sector the 80th division took Rouvres and Aulnois in an attack coördinated with those two other divisions. The 80th also took the towns of Mailly-sur-Seille, Raucourt, Eply, and Nomeny.

1ST ARMY LOSES TOWN

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY, in Germany, Nov. 8.—Reënforced German troops battling against American attacks thru the Hurtgen forest have forced the withdrawal of the doughboys from the town of Kommerscheidt in the direction of Vossenack in continuation of the Indian warfare which has been going on in these woods for nearly a week.

The Nazis also are clinging to their hold on the town of Schmidt farther south. The Americans still are maintaining their grip upon most of Vossenack, 13 miles southeast of Aachen.

Vossenack is astride the only highway connecting the towns of Schmidt and Kommerscheidt, located 1,000 yards and 1,500 yards to the south and therefore it is vital for maintaining communication with our forward elements. The doughboys were forced to pull back 500 yards from Kommerscheidt across a narrow trout stream thru a ravine south of Vossenack.

Yesterday the fight centered about Vossenack, but thruout today the Americans succeeded in holding the Nazis beyond the eastern edge of the town which is only a narrow row of buildings along both sides of the road leading to the Duren highway.

Hampered by Downpour.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, PARIS, Nov. 8 (AP).—A 36 hour downpour today hampered operations in the French sector east of Luneville and Remiremont, where American and French troops have been making steady progress into the upper Vosges foothills for several days. Forward points of the 7th army line were under rocket and artillery fire, and the Nazis were hitting back hard around St. Remy in an effort to slow the American advance on St. Die at the entrance to Ste. Marie pass.

Two to three miles west of the Gerardmer entrance to Schluct pass the Germans counter-attacked strongly with two battalions of fresh troops just arrived in the line. French troops beat off the attack after stiff fighting.

There was little change on the Holland front. Fighting still was in progress northeast of Domburg on Walcheren Island and near the approaches to the wrecked Moerdijk bridges across the Maas [Meuse] river. American and Polish forces squeezing out the last enemy pocket at Moerdijk were close enough to confirm reports that the Germans had destroyed both spans there. It also was confirmed that both the road and rail bridges at Arnhem were destroyed.

British troops captured Vrouwenpolder on the coast of Walcheren, three miles northwest of Veere, and were reported making steady progress toward cleaning out resistance on the island.

SHELLS RATIONED AT FRONT, SAYS YANK COLONEL

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 8 (AP).—Lt. Col. F. H. Higgins, United States army ordnance officer, said today that a shortage of heavy shells has necessitated rationing on the western front.

Addressing workers of the John T. Hepburn war plant, Higgins said shells for the 240 mm. or 8 inch guns—those used to knock out the super-fortifications of the Germans' west wall—were rationed to a limited number a day.

"Sergeants in charge of the big guns' crews count off the shells, call 'That's all for today, boys,' when a limited number have been fired," he said. "It is very important that we supply Gen. Eisenhower's men with all the shells they need. There's a big push in the offing from one end of the west wall to the other. The allies stand a good chance of ending this thing with that push. It's up to us to see that they do."

Britain Sends Its WACs to Air Fields in India

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 8.—With the first group of 500 WAAFs [British air WACs] already on the way to India, many more will be sent shortly to the orient, it was reported tonight. There is a shortage of clerks at air fields in India and Ceylon, it is said, and many R. A. F. officers have to type their own memoranda. The first groups of WAAFs, all volunteers, include plotters, radio telephonists, nurses, orderlies, and four hair dressers.

French Journalist Faces Firing Squad Death Today

LONDON, Nov. 8 [Reuter].—Georges Suarez, leading French collaborationist journalist, whose appeal against a death sentence was rejected by the Paris Supreme Court of Appeal, will be shot tomorrow morning at the fort of Montrouge, Paris radio announced tonight.

ALLIED BOMBERS HIT OIL PLANTS IN 2 NAZI CITIES

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP). — Allied heavy bombers hit twice today at German oil production. An American force of more than 350 Fortresses and Liberators accompanied by more than 850 fighter planes, went back to the Merseburg area and bombed the Leuna synthetic oil works. They encountered neither strong enemy fighter opposition nor heavy anti-aircraft fire. Five bombers and 42 fighters did not return.

Lt. Anthony Maurice, 1144 Northwood st., Chicago, a P-51 Mustang pilot, bagged one of two jet planes destroyed.

R. A. F. Lancasters concentrated a load of bombs on the synthetic oil plant at Homberg, in the Ruhr, and left clouds of smoke hiding the factory. They met no enemy fighters, but anti-aircraft fire was intense.

UNRRA Officers Receive Training in England

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Officers of UNRRA who will repatriate 16 million European war exiles are being trained at a British school at Reading, it was reported tonight. The director of training is John S. Fulton of Oxford university.

LOOK AT AMERICA.

When some one asked the Abbe Sieyes what he did during the Reign of Terror he replied, "I lived." Look at America. It will live.

The nation is following a dark and perilous course. Alarming tendencies will, as a result of the election, be continued, if not accelerated. We bear the greatest debt in history and it will grow heavier. Promises have been made that cannot be redeemed. It would be most foolish to discount the hazards that lie ahead.

But, nevertheless, look at America. A nation consists of its people and its land. We have made a new people in this land. British, Mediterranean, Jew, Slav, Negro, Scandinavian, German, French—every strain has contributed from its peculiar genius and special talents to the American people. Don't be deceived by the scum on the melting pot. It always rises to the top. Beneath is the rich, fine alloy.

Our people are intensely loyal to America. The annals of this war show that there are no special racial aptitudes for war. We have the most efficient army and navy on earth. Our people have equal skill in peace time arts. We are the greatest manufacturers and the most productive farmers.

Now look at the land of America. While we do not possess the whole continent, we possess the most arable part of it. Nowhere on earth is there a farming region so rich and extensive as that compassed by a circle of 400 or 500 miles circumscribed about Chicago. We have most of the materials essential to an industrial civilization in either peace or war, and better opportunities of getting what we lack than has any other nation.

Politically we are on good terms and will always remain on good terms with our smaller neighbors in America. We have no land frontiers in the military sense. We possess the two most important strategic spots in the coming world, Panama and Hawaii. Whatever shape the post-war world takes we are secure to work out our destiny if only we keep in hand the weapons we have forged.

The strength of America is a living, continuing thing. That strength can be impaired temporarily by unwise foreign policy, as it is being impaired today. Resources on hand can be dissipated foolishly, but the resources of the future cannot be given away because they have not yet been made to be given away.

There are great perils in our path. But no course of folly can destroy America within two years, or four. It is too rich, too strong, too glorious for that. It will live. Look at it.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM UNDER ATTACK.

Dr. Homer P. Rainey has been dismissed as president of the State University of Texas by the board of regents. His offense was to resist the board's campaign of undermining academic freedom. He cited 16 occasions on which the board had attempted to eliminate professors in violation of all rules of tenure. The activities of the regents were already under investigation by the American Association of University Professors when Dr. Rainey was fired.

Investigations of the association over a number of years would indicate that tax supported institutions are more frequent violators of academic freedom than are privately endowed institutions. Some state universities have earned an unenviable reputation of this sort, especially in Georgia under former Gov. Talmadge, in Louisiana under the late Huey Long, and in Mississippi when Sen. Theodore Bilbo was governor and fired 179 faculty members from four state institutions in a single summer.

The University of Texas is an offender of long standing. In 1936 J. Evetts Haley, a distinguished historian, was dismissed because he stumped the state on his own time and at his own expense in opposition to the New Deal. That same year Dr. Rainey's predecessor, Dr. H. Y. Benedict, supported by the regents, established a censorship over material published in the student daily newspaper, making the astonishing observation that the daily was not an ordinary publication "whose owners are entitled to the freedom of the press." He asserted that the newspaper had no right of political opinion and no privilege of criticizing.

State universities would seem to be the worst violators of academic freedom because they are, as public institutions, continually subject to political interference. Politics in the south seems to provide a favoring climate for totalitarian action because one party, too long ascendant and without significant opposition, tends to produce men in high place who are freed of all the usual checks upon their conduct. We have seen the same contempt for popular rights spring up when a national administration is continued too long in power. From suppression of the rights of individuals and minorities, the inevitable development is finally toward suppression of all dissent of whatsoever nature.

MR. CRIPPS VIEWS WITH ALARM.

Stafford Cripps, the British minister of aircraft production, warned British industry in a speech at Manchester that if inefficient concerns do not improve their methods after the war they will be compelled to do so thru government regulation.

"The economic structure of certain of our industries is not conducive to maximum efficiency," he said. "We realize this very fully in war time and exactly the same will be true after the war. If necessary, we must reconsider the structure of our industrial organization and take even the most drastic steps to bring about efficient reorganization."

Cripps is a Socialist. He was expelled from the British Labor party for unorthodoxy. His indictment of British industry is chiefly interesting because of the remedy he proposes for the condition he indicts. British inefficiency, which before the war caused it to fall behind in many markets, has financial rather than industrial roots. British engineers, designers, and salesmen may be and perhaps are as good as any, but their efficiency counts for little because the financial control of British industry deliberately adopted a cartel system designed to penalize initiative and efficiency and protect the inefficient and the unprogressive.

The United States has seldom had to worry about inefficient units in industry. They go broke thru the natural laws of competition and no one suffers in the end except the stockholders who were so unfortunate or ill advised as to hire incompetent management or work with obsolete plants. Consumers can get goods at lower prices from more efficient units in an industry. Employes of the inefficient plants can get jobs with efficient employers, who are able to pay them better wages than they formerly earned.

Mr. Cripps now says in effect that if the incompetent management of a concern can't make money the government will step in and by some undisclosed magic of its fiat command the management to become efficient. Presumably he intends that the government actually take over the management of the plant, but there is nothing in the record of government management of productive industry, either in this country or Great Britain, to indicate that that would increase efficiency.

Mr. Cripps, it is very probable, feels as strongly against cartels as the average American manufacturer feels against them. His remedy, however, is more of the same, but worse.

A HONEYMOON WITH TWO BRIDES.

Mr. Roosevelt has his fourth term and he is assured for the next two years of a congress in which his party will have sizable majorities in both houses. There will be a honeymoon. With luck, it may last until the next congressional election in 1946, but the elements within Mr. Roosevelt's party are divergent in their nature, their opinions, their desires, and their prejudices. Mr. Roosevelt is embarking on a honeymoon not with one bride but with at least two, and maybe more. The circumstances suggest conflict within the Democratic menage at no distant date.

The day must come when the struggle for control of the Democratic party will be fought in the open. There is almost nothing in common except the Democratic label between the old-line Democrats and the CIO Democrats. The old-liners are essentially nationalists. The Hillmanites are internationalists. The old-liners are believers in private property and a free economy; the others are Socialists or Communists, or, as they prefer to say, advocates of a planned economy, dominated by the government. The CIO Democrats have had no difficulty in coöperating closely with the slot machine Democrats of the metropolitan cities, and perhaps this accord can be continued for mutual advantage; but there can be no lasting accommodation between the traditional Democrats and the collectivists. There the conflict is irrepressible. It has been apparent in congress already, and would have been more so except for the approach of the national election.

Mr. Roosevelt is in the unhappy position of having committed himself to both wings of his party. To the conservative Democrats he has said that he is unwavering in his belief in private enterprise and the profit system. To the Hillmanites he is pledged to create 60,000,000 jobs at high wages, come what may. As long as the war or a boom which may follow it provide full employment, the conflict between these promises may not emerge. The moment that business slackens and the divergent elements in his party both claim the fulfillment of his promises, the fight will be in the open. Mr. Roosevelt can't satisfy both. He will have to yield to one or the other.

Even before the choice is forced upon the President, the Democrats who follow such men as Byrd and the Democrats who accept Hillman or Browder as their leader will find association uncomfortable. In this situation the Republicans who will constitute a very considerable minority in congress will see their opportunity to serve their country. They will hold the balance of power. They can use it to strengthen the Constitutional Democrats and can reasonably hope that these men will welcome the support.

AMERICA'S SONS.

Supreme allied headquarters in France announced that at the end of last month 637,544 German prisoners had been captured in France, of whom 393,279, or eight out of every 13, had been taken by the four American armies.

The British 2d army took 83,582, the Canadian 1st army, which includes American units in addition to the Canadian, Polish, Dutch, and Belgian contingents, 28,744, and the French army and French Forces of the Interior, 77,939.

The true objective in the European war is the destruction of the German army, not the recapture of territory. Hitler lost more than a million men in killed, wounded, and prisoners in the futile defense of France, and along with them much if not most of their equipment. Hopes for an early collapse of Germany are based largely on the fact that Hitler's remaining troops are too few and too poor to hold the west wall against a determined assault, once the allies build up their supplies for an all-out attempt.

Americans can take just pride in the achievements of their armies. They have done the major portion of the fighting on the western front, at the same time that, unaided, they have brought Japanese power in the Pacific to the brink of destruction. It is no wonder that American aid is courted so assiduously. The only wonder is that any one presuming to call himself an American can, in the face of this record, suggest that we sacrifice sovereignty to attain so-called security. Who are better able to defend America than its own sons?

TO EASE THE STRAIN.

While the radio scorekeepers were counting and recounting the votes in the witching hours that followed the national round-up, we sought relaxation from the strain of the race by studying the longevity of American Presidents. We found that the average age of the 30 who have been gathered to their fathers was 68 1-3 years.

The youngest was James A. Garfield, who died by mischance when 49. The oldest was John Adams, who lived until he was 90. Five died in their 50s, 10 in their 60s, 10 in their 70s, and three in their 80s.

* * *

Seeking a gayer statistical field, we surveyed the first names of the First Ladies. We found two examples of Martha, Abigail, Mary, Caroline, Edith, Julia, Ellen, and Eliza. The singular matrons of the White House were named Dorothy, Louisa, Rachel, Hannah, Anna, Letitia, Sarah, Margaret, Jane, Lucy, Lucretia, Frances, Ida, Alice, Helen, Florence, Grace, Lou, and Eleanor. . . . All of these might be called to the attention of mothers who hope that their infant daughters will become commandresses in chief. Name magic may help.

A current fashion in girls' names, however, suggests that in the last quarter of this century we may find that Presidents' wives are running to lollipop combinations such as Peggy-Jo, Mary-Lou, Nancy-Jane, Olive-Olga, and Martha-Mae.

* * *

The 30 dead Presidents and their mates contributed 117 children, 71 male and 46 female, to the population. The largest Presidential family was William Henry Harrison's, which contained 10 children.

ROMANCE THE DEATHLESS.

Old Homer sang of love, tho too of hate;
A woman's beauty doomed beleaguered Troy.
The Roman Virgil sang of "arms and men,"
But Dido's tragic passion fired his lines.
In Dante's sober tomes love brightly shines;
Romance adorns the tales of Shakespeare's pen.
Read Shelley's heart, and that of London's boy,
Pale Keats—love made their singing great.
How could Scotch Burns have sung without his maids?
And Byron—passion-swept, he stirred his times.
These mighty spirits all have sought the shades;
Their loves keep fresh and sweet their graceful rhymes.
Romance, the deathless, shames the deeds of kings:
Their wars forgot, love's story sweetly sings.

A Loss to Literature.

J. Marcus Gliderboy, well known Michigan av. ad writer, was taken away to a padded cell. They found this manuscript in his typewriter:

"You'll glow like a Salt Lake sunset when you own a Little Giant Garbage Kan.

"The Little Giant Garbage Kan is the can with personality. No back porch or alley is complete without a Little Giant Garbage Kan.

"The Little Giant is the Debonair Defender of Debris, the Sweet Sentinel of Swill.

"A Little Giant is like a Doric column—so round, so full, so firm. It brings the glory that once was Greece into your home, and then some.

"The Little Giant has no equal as a trap for the praying mantis. As soon as the praying mantis lifts the lid of the Little Giant and looks in, she is a goner. With the speed of light the lid snaps down and traps the mantis between her prayer rug and ovipostor. While praying vainly on the inside, her ovipostor spins frantically on the outside. In a few seconds all is quiet.

"Garbage stays fresh twice as long in a Little Giant Garbage Kan. Garbage collectors drive miles out of their way to work on a Little Giant. They take a new interest in life—dress better, shave, polish their shoes, comb their hair, come home at night with new and exciting auras for their children." Jake Irmiter.

TO A MOTHER ROBIN.

I think I know how you must feel in Spring,
When in some tree, pregnant with buds and song,
You weave your nest of cotton, twig, and string,
And add a dream or two to make it strong.
I think I know the pounding of your heart
When first you hear your birdling feebly cry,
The pride that wells within your form is part
Of mother love that haloes earth and sky.
And when your babe, too young to try its wings,
Is torn from you before it understands,
I think I know the terror of such things,
For I have filled those same poignant demands.

And hearing your brave song, I softly pray:
That I may sing again, like you, some day.

Decline and Fall: New Version.

Probably why Italy fell; monolog by neighborhood grocer:

"Twenny year ago I saw a movin'-a pitch' all 'bout Julius Caesar, two, t'ree hunnerd year ago in It'. He's-a terrible. He's-a play banjo all time; burn Rome, keep on playin'. He's-a tie women behin' horse 'n'-a-buggy, drag 'em 'til they die. Then he feed 'em to lions in Colosseum. O, you hear 'bout Colosseum already?"

The doubled progression which will occur on the date 11-22-'44 will not happen again until 12-24-'48. That's the last time in the 20th century unless the government decides to do something about such a deplorable scarcity. Casual.

[Draft, military, and veterans' questions are answered here or by mail if a stamped envelope is sent. Personal advice and assistance are given veterans by appointment.]

F. B. T. writes: "I've heard something about veterans of World War I. having to turn in their adjusted compensation certificates for bonus bonds before Jan. 1, 1945. Is there a penalty for not doing so?"

Every veteran who holds an original bonus certificate, including those who had to borrow on their certificates and who have not converted the original certificate or the balance due them after borrowing to bonus bonds, must do so before Jan. 1, or sacrifice the accumulated interest, amounting to some 27 per cent. If a veteran who borrowed on his certificate applies for the bonds before Jan. 1, he will realize the compounded interest and he will be forgiven the interest on the loan back to Oct. 1, 1931. If a veteran fails to apply for bonds, all of the accumulated interest on any loans he may have obtained will be deducted from the balance due him and, in some cases, this will absorb nearly 60 per cent of the balance due him. The certificate or the "pink slip" showing the balance due must be sent to Washington, accompanied by the proper form, which we will send to any one sending us a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Be sure to indicate if the original certificate is held or if a loan has been made.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE TIRED PATIENT WHO IS NOT A NEUROTIC.

MORE often than we would wish, physicians encounter tired and exhausted patients. They seem to obtain enough rest and nutriment but they fail to improve. A dull headache is a common accompaniment. But the overpowering sense of weakness fills every waking moment. Every now and then a diagnosis of a focal infection will be made and teeth and tonsils may be extracted without the slightest benefit. The patient is as jackadaisical as ever.

Now these persons are not "neuros." They have, however, worn themselves down thru assiduous attention to business or social duties. They represent the group who have burned life's candle at both ends. In consequence, they exhibit such abysmal lack of energy that they feel utterly worthless. The housewife who becomes a victim neglects her home, her children, and her husband. Rarely complainers, these people bear their troubles in silence altho a voluble personage may talk about it a good deal, much to the embarrassment of the family.

Instead of trying to keep up with the procession, as most sufferers do, the only sensible plan is to give up, go to bed, call the family doctor, and put it up to him to find the trouble. Not a few of these victims are sensitive to certain edibles and do not know it. Nevertheless, they do not break out with hives or other skin manifestations. The depots of reserve bear the brunt of the onslaught.

A case which came under my observation a few months ago was that of a woman of 44, who presented positive signs of allergy to special foods. She was fond of the dishes in question. When they were eliminated, and with the correction of a simple case of constipation, her troubles were at an end. Within 10 days she was up and around the house. Within a month she was doing all of her work.

Another instance is that of a 39 year old man who awakened each morning so tired that he was obliged to force himself to get out of bed. Following breakfast, he felt fairly well. Later, there was a characteristic letdown, so common in those who lack sugar, from which he could not rouse himself. The sedimentation rate was normal, thus ruling out infection. Furthermore, his blood glucose was up to par. Here again a multitude of tests revealed a dozen foods to which he was susceptible. To some the response was violent. Every offender was then banished from his dietary program with the result that he too returned to vigor and strength within a few weeks.

When questioned closely none of these patients will give a history of digestive disturbances. Most of them, however, will admit the existence of headache. As they describe it the skull feels ready to burst. The episode may not come every day and may not last for more than an hour or so. Nevertheless, the answer lies in finding the factor which is bringing on the depression. The great majority of these individuals will exhibit sufficient reactions to account for the whole matter.

A change of scene and environment, which usually means a shift of diet, may bring relief. But the true answer is provided by new and different menus instead of more mountains and lakes.

STOMACH HEMORRHAGE.

T. N. writes: I have hemorrhages caused by a ruptured vein in my stomach. What causes this condition?

REPLY.

There is a plexus of veins at the lower end of the esophagus, where the gullet joins the stomach. These may enlarge, become tortuous, and thus give rise to bleeding. Another type of gastric hemorrhage usually comes from peptic ulcer.

HEART ATTACK.

M. A. writes: My dad had what the doctor calls a coronary occlusion. He says he must stay in bed for six weeks. Do you have any material on this disease?

REPLY.

Your physician is quite right. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet.

GRADUAL.

N. M. writes: How long does it take alcoholic cirrhosis of the liver to develop?

REPLY.

Several years may elapse before symptoms will be obvious. In the meantime, the process is advancing slowly but surely. If you must use liquor, take plenty of food with it.

The World Moved On.

The learned members of the Let-Us-Know-Our-World-Better Scientific society of the third post-machine age were greatly excited as they met for their annual conclave. Three of their archeologists had found a sarcophagus 900 feet beneath the floor of the ocean. The area obviously once had been a weird center of habitation, but it had been recessed far below sea level by the action of perpetual motion on its own steel. Time, water, salt, and aquatic gases had reduced most of it to rubble, but the sarcophagus was intact. Within it were three objects.

One was a small cardboard box. It was opened to reveal 20 small tubelike white objects stuffed with what seemed to be sawdust.

One was a small packet containing strips of pith or paper tipped in soft scarlet. When one was removed and its scarlet tip pressed gently against a piece of sand paper it produced a flame.

The third was a curious document. It described the two artifacts and their use:

The small tubelike objects are cigarets [the document stated]. They are stuffed with a substance widely used by man until the end of the year 1944. This is known as tobacco. The strips of paper are safety matches. The two were used in combination, as one without the other was useless.

One end of the stuffed tube was placed between the lips [the document continued]. The other protruded beneath the nose. A strip of paper then was ignited and held to the tip which protruded. The human, who was known as a smoker, then inhaled on the tube, the end of which now glowed like a coal. He inhaled smoke. After he had inhaled, he exhaled. Few men could do one without the other, and no man could exhale thru his ears, altho many tried.

The writer of the document [the document stated] was known as a hoarder. He was a hoarder because he had in his possession at one time, in an era in which the demise of the tubelike object or cigaret completely overshadowed a war then engaging all the peoples of the earth, 20 of these small tubelike objects. Had it been known that he possessed them, a horde of smokers would have killed him instantly to obtain just one "puff" from them. [A puff is one inhalation, the document explained.] It was then that he, in his wisdom, decided to build the sarcophagus and inter them.

To get tobacco into as refined a form as that of the cigaret [the document continued] had taken centuries. It had started out as a powder, known as snuff. This was sniffed into the nostrils and produced a sneezing fit. Many thought this delightful. Later it was compressed into packages similar in texture to dried figs. Men with hardy teeth took bites from this and chewed it. Those without teeth pared off a bit with a knife and mauled it with their gums. The result was known as a cud.

A seafaring man known as Columbus was the first white man to see smoke made of tobacco. He set out to find the khan of Cathay in the year 1492, but by accident stumbled on a new land which later was called America. Here he met multitudes who smoked herbs in pipes. [Note: The sarcophagus contained no pipe. Thus, its intricacies can not be explained.] As years went on, a controversy arose as to who was the first white man to smoke. At the time of this writing [the document stated] this has been superseded by a controversy as to who was the last white man to smoke.

It took a war to establish the cigaret in the mouths of a white race known as Europeans. This was the Crimean war, during which military men from the land known as England adopted the cigaret habit common in the lands of Russia and Turkey. It took another war to abolish it. [Editor's note: Presumably the war that ended the machine age.]

At this point the document, which heretofore had been dispassionate and scientific, became personal and pitiful. "It was a filthy weed," the writer had scrawled, "but I liked it. I tell you, I liked it!"

"HE'S NOT IN DEFENSE WORK."

Chicago, Nov. 2.—My husband is in the navy fighting for the right for me to live in this country. But where should I live? Lincoln park?

If you are a service man's wife, and are looking for an apartment, be sure and go to the war housing board. Take the morning off from your defense job, file a card, and then they'll tell you they're sorry, but your husband is not in defense work, so you can't rent one of the many apartments being built. No, he's not in defense work. Defending his country and perhaps sacrificing his life is not considered defense work.

Then, if that fails to discourage you, they tell you that your husband is not living with you, therefore you are classified as a single person. Staying home instead of following him all over the country from state to state until he goes overseas, keeping, or trying to keep the home fires burning until he can be with you again, if he's lucky enough to come out of this war all right, isn't the proper thing to do. Staying home because you figure that somebody else [a service man perhaps] could occupy the seat you might have taken.

You being the woman behind your man behind those guns, who is making our country safe for people such as the ones who run such organizations as the war housing board, means naught.

"WHAT PRICE GOLD STAR MOTHERS?"

West McHenry, Ill., Nov. 6.—Just a word to the reader who recently had a letter in the column relative to the red tape attendant on the filing of a claim as beneficiary for insurance on a son killed in action. He has not seen anything yet. The filing of a claim is comparatively simple. Then try to get action. You will get cards acknowledging receipt of your documents, but after that silence.

My son was killed in April and the last papers were filed in August. Since then I have written several letters, but have not even had the courtesy of a reply. I wonder what would have happened if my son had been remiss on his premiums for months. The Veterans' administration saw that they were deducted out of his negligible salary promptly. It is now in the 7th month and still no action. What price Gold Star mothers? MRS. A. B.

WHERE IS THE FOOD?

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Just received a V-mail from my brother who is in an anti-aircraft unit near Germany, and here are his words:

"You should see what we get to eat now. Just about nothing—two loaves of bread, a can of peas or beans for a crew of 13 men. If we did not have a garden nearby, I think we wouldn't be able to survive. Don't tell Mom or she'll worry herself sick."

Of course I'll send him some canned food. About three months from now the garden may not be there.

THE TEACHERS COLLEGE.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—It is to be hoped that in the near future we taxpayers may be permitted to vote on whether or not to retain the Chicago Teachers collge. To my way of thinking, this proposition is lots more important than whether or not the sheriff's term should be extended. L. C.

VOTING BY APPETITE.

Beloit, Wis., Nov. 6.—Well, this is a day before voting and I just want to tell your rotten paper what a big overwhelming defeat your man Dewey is going to get. You can take it or leave it. Why don't all you soreheads go to Germany where you belong?

Dewey can shake his finger at you dumb clucks, but he doesn't scare we moderns who know where our bread is buttered and by whom—no one but our friend, Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

IT'S A CLOSED SHOP.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Sunday as I was reading THE TRIBUNE I saw the notice that 100 substitute teachers were needed. I decided to apply. I have a degree in education from a recognized midwest university and have had 11 years' teaching experience in the elementary grades.

I could not get on the substitute list because I am not a graduate of the Chicago Teachers college.

Who are the Chicago schools for? Are they for the children or are they for graduates of the Chicago Teachers college? E. L. M.

THE RECORD OF CO-OPERATION.

LONDON, England, Oct. 25.—The rover boy complacency with which they expect a league to persuade agreement among the powers on thorny questions involving war is comical when you consider that the nations won't even agree to adopt the metric system, to simplify currency, to drive on the same side of the road. Did you ever consider that by lopping tuppence off a shilling, making it 10 pence to the shilling instead of 12 pence, the British would have a sane currency system instead of one that baffles even the oldest inhabitants of these isles? HANK.

PUTTING BUSINESS IN BAD.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Why does the ODT make so much fuss about a few business men's conventions—less than ½ per cent of train travel—when the same ODT puts pressure on the hotels in Washington, D. C., to provide rooms for labor union meetings? Is it that it conforms to the administration policy of always putting the business man in bad with the public?

BARBERS' TOWELS.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—When I went to a barber shop for a hair cut the barber started to wash the soap off with a towel with which he had dried a previous customer's face. 1. Is there a city or state law prohibiting such practice? 2. If so, what is the penalty for violation? C. W.

1. Yes. The city code, Sec. 107.1-5, says "All necessary measures shall be taken to properly safeguard the life and health of patrons and all persons engaged therein against communicable and contagious diseases." Sec. 107.1-6 says: "All towels and wash cloths shall be washed with soap and water and boiled before being used."

2. Sec. 107.1-9 says: "Any person violating any of the provisions of this chapter shall be fined not less than $25 nor more than $200 for each offense, and every day that such violation shall continue shall constitute a separate and distinct offense."

MASSING OF REDS BRINGS LULL TO EASTERN FRONT

Berlin Hints New Russian Blows Coming Soon.

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP).—Russian armies were moving into position tonight for the blows described by Premier Stalin as "the decisive offensive against the vital centers of Germany."

The massing of men and materials along the eastern front has brought a lull in the fighting, and for the third consecutive day the soviet war bulletin said only that there were "no essential changes at the front."

The Berlin radio said that "if one can speak of comparative calm on the eastern front, it is certainly the calm before the storm."

May Strike at Budapest.

One of the first of the new blows may be struck at Budapest, now under siege by the 2d Ukrainian army. Berlin reported new concentrations of soviet tanks in the outskirts of the Hungarian capital, while a German military commentator said the Russians had attacked from Tisza river bridgeheads north of Szolnok and succeeded in advancing toward Budapest from the east.

Another advance along the Danube river valley north of Budapest was reported by the Morocco radio in a broadcast heard in London. Heavy rains have interfered with operations southeast of Budapest for four days.

Report Revolt in Capital.

Stories of open revolt inside Budapest continued to come from European radios. The Paris station said street fighting took place in the Pest section of the city on the east bank of the Danube and that some Hungarian soldiers and workers joined the Russian forces. The Brussels radio said soviet artillery had been installed in Pest, but there was no indication from Moscow that soviet troops actually were inside the capital.

The Germans have described heavy soviet troop movements in southern Poland west of the Vistula river, saying an offensive soon will be aimed toward Krakow.

Expect Latvian Blow.

Another front where new blows may be struck soon stretched from Tukums southwest to the Baltic port of Liepaja in western Latvia. West of this line the Russians have more than 30 German divisions trapped.

The Germans contended the first stage of this battle had ended in a defensive victory for the northern army corps, which they said warded off blows of 60 infantry divisions and 18 tank divisions. Probably in excess of 700,000 men.

Moscow dispatches said the Red air force was joining the battle. The Germans are cut off from East Prussia by a barrier driven to the sea by soviet troops north of Memel and south of Liepaja. Those who escape must get out by ship from Liepaja and Ventspils, or by air.

ROME PRINTER ASSAULTED IN TERROR WAVE

ROME, Nov. 8 [Reuter].—Rome newspaper printers have again been thrown into agitation by an assault against a printer on his way to work on the Monarchist newspaper Italia Nuova. He is in a hospital with serious head injuries.

His assailants are said to have worn allied uniforms. A movement is afoot among printers to insist that they be conveyed to and from work by car. Homegoing transport was guaranteed by the allies on Nov. 1, thus averting a threatened strike.

Thirty journalists and printers are stated to have been recent assault victims.

LIQUOR WORTH $40 STOLEN.

The Inquiring Camera Girl
BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. Edwin Mankey, 2605 Vigo st., Gary, Ind.]

THE QUESTION.

Have you allowed your children to do things you once thought were disgraceful in other children and believed yours would never do?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. J. Spivak, housewife, 318 S. Keeler av.—When I heard children talking back to their parents I thought it was terrible. But I never know what my children are going to say next, and tho I try to correct and punish them, I can't keep up with them. Once in a while they're right, and I permit them to talk back.

Mrs. Harry Becker, housewife, 320 S. Hamlin av.—Children are constantly getting new ideas from other children, and if you stay in it's hard to keep up with them. I often give in. I didn't exactly approve of younger girls wearing makeup, but they are doing it and I am getting used to it.

Mrs. A. M. Grefenson, housewife, 411 S. Springfield av.—My son wasn't going to run around like some people's children until he was at least 17. It seems I've changed my mind a bit on that subject because he's only 13 and he goes to mixed parties and sees his friends practically every night.

Mrs. Joseph Naples, housewife, 4209 Division st.—I've been shocked more than once when I've heard young children swear. I always said that if the child were mine he would be punished. But my little son is talking now, and when he says something that's not too nice it sounds kind of cute.

Mrs. George Berndt, housewife, 264 N. Kilbourn av.—I thought I'd never live to see the day when I'd permit a child of mine to play in the gutter. But I can't stop my son from doing it, tho I try hard. He and other children sweep leaves along the curb with their hands and come home every day dirty from head to foot.

G. Tondreau, salesman, 1822 N. Neva av.—Have you ever gone to a movie Saturday afternoon? The children down front make so much noise you can't enjoy the picture. If they were mine, I once thought, they'd behave. Now my son is with them every Saturday, making as much noise as the rest.

Germans Escaping from Greece Attacked by Air

ROME, Nov. 8 (AP).—United States 15th air force Liberators attacked German troop concentrations along the escape routes thru Yugoslavia from Greece today for the second successive day. Mitchells continued attacks on the Brenner Pass railway line in northern Italy, and Thunderbolts were reported to have taken a heavy toll of enemy transport in the Bologna and Verona areas in day long assaults.

Japs Claim to Have New Ship Using Ersatz Fuel

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 8 (AP).—Japan has a new, small streamlined wooden ship which will use a "substitute fuel," Tokyo radio reported today.

POLISH TROOPS GAIN ON EASTERN FRONT IN ITALY

ROME, Nov. 8 (AP).—Polish troops "continue to make good progress" south of Forli, near the eastern end of the Italian battle front, the allied command announced today.

The Germans held on at the air field, two miles southeast of Forli, in the face of persistent air bombing and a sharp attack by medium bombers yesterday on German positions closer to the town. Near Forli British troops remained in close contact under heavy enemy shelling.

Polish Troops Take Hill.

With improving weather 8th army troops were increasingly active all along the front. Polish troops in the hills between the Rabbi and Montone rivers, south of the Rimini-Bologna highway, captured Monte Casaluda and several other dominating features. They were in contact with the Germans about five miles southwest of Forli.

Farther west, San Rufillo, on highway 67 running southwest of Forli, was cleared of the enemy and forward troops pushed up the road a mile toward Dovadola, about 10 miles from Forli.

Fifth army units generally confined their activity to patroling, altho in the extreme west Negro troops of the United States 92d infantry division followed up a slight German withdrawal.

Anniversary of Landings.

Gen. Wilson, the allied commander in chief in the Mediterranean theater, said in an order marking the second anniversary of the allied landing in North Africa, that "the importance of our share in the war in Europe is as great as ever and will remain so until the end."

He praised the allied troops for their "great victories" and told them that "victory is certain; let us see to it that it is not long delayed."

The anniversary found the offensive of the 5th and 8th armies stalled at the southern edges of the Po valley. Rain, mud, difficult lines of communication, and a tough enemy combined to wreck any hopes of a swift conquest.

11,200 Nazi Planes Lost in Mediterranean Area

ROME, Nov. 8 (AP).—Two years of aerial warfare in the Mediterranean area have cost the Germans 11,200 planes and left their air force impotent in the war in southern Europe, the allied air command announced today.

GERMANS DESTROYING EVERYTHING IN THEIR RETREAT, SAYS EDEN

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Eden, reporting on his journeys after the Moscow conference, told commons today the Germans are systematically destroying everything in withdrawing toward Germany.

"The purpose of this systematic barbarity is to bring to a standstill the whole life of a nation," he said. "That is what the Germans told the Greeks they would do as they left.

"All communications, all bridges, all telegraphs are destroyed. All means of transport, lorries and even in many instances pack animals, are removed. All harbors are mined, blocked, and blown up."

Authorize Limited Mail Service to Switzerland

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen said yesterday that limited mail service to Switzerland has been authorized. Letters weighing not more than 1 ounce and postcards may be sent. The new order, the postmaster said, does not affect regulations governing mail service to prisoners of war.

$165 LOOT STOLEN FROM AUTO.

An auto belonging to A. A. Ives of Fremont, Wis., was broken into yesterday in front of 16 S. Loomis st. and women's clothing valued at $165 was stolen.

FRENCH SOLDIER INVENTS RELIEF MOVIE SCREEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Invention of a revolutionary method of projecting ordinary motion picture films in relief was announced today by a disabled French war veteran named Sellier in southern France.

Sellier began experimenting with motion pictures in relief at the end of the last war, but discovered the solution of the problem in 1932. While in Morocco in 1939 he constructed the first special screen for relief pictures and ultimately perfected it. When he returned to France the country was occupied and he kept the invention secret until the liberation.

Sellier's invention is said to consist for the most part of a special screen which can be adapted to any theater or projection room. The inventor says ordinary films, including colored pictures and animated cartoons, give a lifelike effect when projected on his screen. Unlike the system invented by Louis Lumiere, no special spectacles need be worn by spectators.

ILLINOIS DOCTOR FLIES WOUNDED FROM PELELIU

Kinne, 31, Heads Service for Marines.

BY STAFF SGT. J. T. KIRBY.
[Distributed by the Associated Press.]

PELELIU, Palau Islands [Delayed].—Supervising air evacuation of marines wounded in the costly fighting for this strategic island is the responsibility of Navy Lt. Abram S. Kinne of Bloomington, Ill.

Lt. Kinne, 31, a graduate of Northwestern university medical school, is flight surgeon with a squadron of Commando hospital transports of the 2d marine air wing that have been operating from this island's captured air strip since a week after initial assault forces landed here.

Mission Successful.

Describing his squadron's mission here as "highly successful," Dr. Kinne discussed the role of air evacuation in the Palau operations.

"Seriously wounded patients that could withstand high altitude flying were evacuated to rear base hospitals as soon as hospital transports could land on the air field here," he said.

"Our job is to supplement hospital ships and field hospitals—we've done very well here. Of several hundred litter patients carried, none suffered ill effects."

Altho the toll of casualties in the fighting for Peleliu's "Bloody Nose ridge" was high, field medical units and hospital ships did a remarkable job, Lt. Kinne said.

Post in Cleveland.

Formerly resident physician in urology at Cleveland clinic, Cleveland, O., he is the son of an army doctor, Major Harry W. Kinne, who is currently stationed at Fort MacIntosh, Tex. Major Kinne previously practiced in Wheaton, Ill.

In explaining his preference for the navy's medical corps, Dr. Kinne said that he disliked the prospect of "being tied down to land warfare," as his father described service with army medical units in France in World War I.

Kinne attended the school of aviation medicine at Pensacola, Fla., upon entering the navy in April, 1942. He has seen continuous service with marine aviation, serving at west coast air bases before beginning his Pacific tour early this year.

His wife, the former Janet Wagner, lives at 1404 E. Washington st., in Bloomington.

New V2 Rockets, Faster than Sound, Hit London, Say Nazis

Long Range Missile

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP).—The German high command said today that the London area was under bombardment by the vengeance weapon V-2, reported to be a long range rocket which propels a ton or more of explosives at a speed of 700 miles an hour.

"The area of greater London has been under fire by the V-1 [robot bombs] since June 15 with short interruptions and in varying strength," said the Nazi announcement. "The fire has been intensified for some weeks past by the use of a second and far more effective explosive missile, V-2."

[British censorship apparently forbade any direct comment on the German announcement as to whether the V-2 missiles were doing any damage.]

Give No Description.

The Germans offered no description of their reported new weapon. However, Associated Press War Correspondent Austin Bealmear, quoting United States 3d army sources, wrote Sept. 29 from "somewhere in France" that the latest of the Germans' vengeance weapons has an "explosive radius of three kilometers [1.8 miles]."

According to this information, the projectile is 20 yards long and 5½ feet in diameter.

Swedish reports have described V-2 as a "flying telegraph pole" with tail fins like an ordinary bomb.

Archibald Sinclair, British minister, warned last week that the people of the United Kingdom must be prepared for attacks by "weapons militarily less futile than the flying bomb."

Claim Rail Station Destroyed.

The Nazis used robot bombs as leaflet distributors over England this week, the propaganda sheets saying that "bombs now burst on England but nobody knows where they come from."

The Transocean news agency chief, George Schroeder, said the new missile "can neither be seen nor heard before it explodes" and its explosion "causes an enormous blast." Schroeder made these claims of V-2 damage in London:

"The Euston railway station in London was completely destroyed in mid-October. Camberwell, a London suburb, was badly hit, with whole rows of houses demolished. A railway bridge in southern London was completely destroyed, and these are only the first reports of the effect of V-2."

Rise 50 Miles

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—The German V-2 rocket bomb is reported to be a 14 ton missile that is shot about 50 miles into the stratosphere before it heads for its target.

The weapon is classified as a supersonic rocket because it travels toward its target faster than the speed of sound.

Has Four Tail Fins.

Rocket experts say the V-2 has four tail fins but no plane surfaces such as the original robot bomb had. It is equipped with four radio controled turbines that operate on a fuel made from liquid oxygen, liquid nitrogen, and potassium permanganate, they say. This fuel also is the explosive agent carried in the warhead or nose, they believe.

Launching is believed to be a relatively simple process, as no platforms are required. The experts say the V-2s can be set up in any open space, fueled and fired.

The rocket is launched into perpendicular flight and goes into the stratosphere to any required distance up to about 50 miles. When it reaches the desired height it is turned toward its target. The motors give it a final punch toward its objective and then are cut out.

The rocket descends at a slower pace than it climbs and no sound precedes its race to the target. The rocket has not been seen in flight in daylight, but night watchers have reported seeing a reddish blur flash thru the skies that presumably is the weapon.

Loses Five Tons in Flight.

The rocket loses approximately 5 tons in fuel consumption and the dropping of various gadgets while in flight, so that it weighs approximately nine tons when it crashes.

Those reported sent against England are believed to have been launched deep inside Germany. How far they will travel is undetermined.

The army and navy departments said in a joint statement yesterday that an attack on the eastern coast of the United States by German rocket or robot bombs is possible.

Chennault's Liberators Bomb Docks at Hongkong

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 8 (AP).—Docks at Hongkong were bombed by Liberators of the United States 14th army air force yesterday, a bulletin from Maj. Gen. Wedemeyer's headquarters said today.

ADVANCE BOARD OF EDUCATION SESSIONS URGED

Custom Dropped for 3 Meetings.

The Chicago board of education is expected to revert to gathering informally as a committee of the whole in advance of open board meetings as a result of a flare-up in a session yesterday when Mrs. Walter F. Heineman, board member, charged a principal appointment was being rushed thru.

Yesterday's meeting was the third one in succession at which the long standing custom of the preliminary meeting, for discussing the day's agenda before taking action, was omitted. It first was skipped at a meeting which parents had threatened to storm in protest against the no-transfer edict in the schools this fall.

Both James B. McCahey, board president, and Bernard L. Majewski, vice president, indicated after yesterday's session that the advance meetings will be held hereafter. McCahey said board members might hold them in his office if they wished. Majewski, whose influence on the board is second only to McCahey's, said the old routine will be restored "if I have anything to say about it and I think I have."

Mrs. Heineman refused to sanction appointment of George C. Atterbury, Wright Junior college teacher, as principal of Shoop elementary school, in place of Matthew L. Fitzgerald, transferred, because she said she learned only during the meeting that the appointment was to be made.

"If board members are expected to approve these matters they should be informed about them," Mrs. Heineman said. She charged that the board's own rules are being violated when copies of such proposals are not furnished to board members 48 hours in advance of a meeting.

She said it was customary to make personnel shifts without advance notification.

The board accepted a federal grant of $194,041 to finance war nursery centers and school age child care centers until Jan. 1.

...revolutionary new air-wick* kills kitchen odors only product of its kind containing miracle-working chlorophyll no fuss . . . no bother nothing to light or burn just pull up the wick

Pat. No. D. 136,673

Here's a pleasant, easy way to kill all unpleasant household odors...to make indoor air country-fresh. Simply uncap a bottle of air-wick, pull up the wick from one to four inches...and presto... the odors disappear like magic.

air-wick has no unpleasant "medicinal" odor, nor is it in any sense a "perfume." It is a scientific grouping of literally hundreds of aromatic substances which in combination neutralize almost any known unpleasant odor.

And in addition, air-wick, and air-wick alone, contains activated chlorophyll...the miracle-working substance which in its natural state freshens the air in gardens and forests.

Keep one bottle of air-wick in the kitchen ...another for bathroom use...and a third to clear the air in smoke-stale living rooms. You'll find air-wick on sale at all better stores.

*air-wick deodorizer and household freshener is fully protected by U.S. patent. air-wick is a trademark of Seeman Brothers, Inc., N.Y.C.

W-G-N EXTENDS DEADLINE FOR STUDIO DESIGN

$10,000 Prize Entrants Get 15 More Days.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Deadline for entries in W-G-N's $10,000 cash prize competition for the design of a studio theater seating 2,000 persons for the new Chicago Theater of the Air building, which W-G-N will erect after the war, has been extended from noon Wednesday, Nov. 15, to noon Friday, Dec. 1.

Continued and widespread interest in the competition caused the extension of the deadline, John W. Park, professional adviser to W-G-N in the conduct of the contest, said yesterday. Slowness and uncertainty of war time postal delivery service, plus the fact that many entrants asked more time to complete their designs were additional reasons for allowing 15 more days. Registration closed on Nov. 1. All registrants have been informed by letter of the deadline extension.

Entrants Mostly Architects.

Individuals and firms from most parts of the United States and from Canada and Mexico have registered with Park for the submission of entries. The great majority of entrants are practicing architects, said Park, altho a few engineers, stage designers, and architecture students are represented. Several service men have registered.

More registrations have been received from Chicago and New York than from other cities, but Los Angeles, Detroit, and Milwaukee are well presented. Other large cities represented are Indianapolis, Ind.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Rochester, N. Y.; Cincinnati, O.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Wichita, Kas.; New Orleans, La.; Boston, Mass.; Seattle, Wash.; Toledo, O.; Montreal, Que.; Washington, D. C.; Houston, Tex.; Minneapolis, Minn.; St. Louis, Mo., and Ottawa, Ont. Smaller towns from coast to coast and from border to border are represented.

Three Main Prizes Offered.

The $10,000 contest is for the design of the studio theater only and not for the proposed radio center of 12 or more stories to be built between Tribune Tower and the Chicago river fronting on Michigan av. that will house the studio. First prize is $5,000; second, $2,500, and third, $1,000. There will be 15 honorable mention awards of $100 each. The building will be erected as soon as materials and labor are available.

W-G-N's jury of awards, which will consider all entries and select the prize winners, consists of Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE and president of W-G-N; Frank P. Schreiber, manager of W-G-N, and Henry Weber, director of music for W-G-N. The jury will meet as soon as possible after Dec. 1.

MILK INCREASES 1 CENT A QUART IN SMALL TOWNS

Retail ceiling price of fluid milk will be raised from 11 to 12 cents a quart Saturday in towns of less than 10,000 population in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa, and Nebraska, the office of price administration announced yesterday. Small town dairies have found local sales uneconomical when they could get higher prices in larger cities, Rae E. Walters, regional OPA administrator, said. Milk prices will not be changed in large towns, he said.

Armed Robbers Get $100 in Holdup on South Side

Two Negroes, armed with a revolver and a knife, robbed Santiago Martinez of 131 S. Halsted st. of $100 and a check for $162 last night when they encountered him alone in his express agency at 849 S. Halsted st., he reported to police.

Joseph Patrick Manning, 94, for many years a superintendent and engineer for the Missouri Pacific railroad, died yesterday in his home at 1501 North Park av. He is survived by a brother, a sister, and three nieces with whom he lived. Services will be held Saturday in Immaculate Conception church.

Former Chicagoan Made Indiana Relocation Head

Appointment of Norwood A. Dillman, formerly of the personnel department of the Western Electric company in Chicago and a Purdue university graduate, as war relocation authority officer in charge of Indiana, was announced yesterday. He is a native of Battleground, Ind. More than 200 Americans of Japanese ancestry have been relocated in Indiana in the last 18 months.

FUND WORKERS TOLD DRIVE IS SHORT OF GOAL

Only 1 Division Over Quota: Randall.

Clarence B. Randall, general chairman of the Community and War Fund campaign, predicted at a campaign luncheon yesterday in the Standard club that the drive will run "three or four hundred thousand dollars" short of the $12,980,000 goal unless certain divisions of the campaign accelerate their collections before the drive ends late this month.

Unless such an acceleration takes place, Randall said, the goal will not be reached, but it is probable that the total will surpass that of the 1943 drive.

Leaders in the drive reported that a total of $11,058,350 or 58 per cent of the goal had been achieved as of yesterday.

Service Section Leads.

Richard Wagner, chairman of the business division, reported a total of $9,387,527, or 92 per cent of the division's goal. The leading division of the trade groups was the service section. Stuart J. Templeton, chairman, announced a total of $965,618, or 109 per cent of the goal.

Mrs. Bernice T. Van der Vries, chairman of the women's division, disclosed her division has raised a total of $408,228, or 68 per cent of its quota.

Stuart W. Cochran, chairman of the suburban division, reported a total of $600,902, or 71 per cent of the division's goal. The city division, the chairman of which is Owen L. Coon, announced a total of $674,247, or 56 per cent of its quota.

Covers Three Counties.

The Community and War Fund raises money thruout Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties for the National War Fund, and the money is used for United Service organizations, United Seamen's service, War Prisoners aid, American Field service, and 17 allied relief and rescue agencies.

In Chicago, funds also are raised for the 187 health and welfare agencies of the Community Fund and for the 11 refugee rescue programs of the Jewish Welfare Fund. Suburban funds go only to war-related agencies and to suburban chests and charities.

LEYTE'S DANCING DOCTOR IS GIVEN 'YES, IF' ANSWER

Lt. Herbert Karol, army doctor mentioned in a recent dispatch from THE TRIBUNE'S war correspondent, Arthur Veysey, in the Philippine Islands, may return to Loreto, a village where he was feted with food and native jitterbugging, on one condition. His wife said yesterday he must take her with him.

Veysey's dispatch related how Dr. Karol was called by residents of Loreto to aid Filipinos in need of medical care. He was required by custom to eat a feast of sweet potatoes, chicken, native beer, and dance with native girls to the tune of popular songs, before he could treat the patients. In answer to the request of a native girl that he would return, he said he would if "my wife will let me."

Mrs. Karol lives at 6830 Paxton av.

CHINA SITUATION CAN BE SAVED —WEDEMEYER

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 8 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Wedemeyer, in his first interview since arrival in Chungking to succeed, Gen. Stilwell, described the military situation in China as unfavorable "but not irretrievable." He made it clear that he would not interfere in any way in Chinese politics.

He disclosed that his command of American forces embraced French Indo-China as well as China, with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as over-all supreme allied commander.

He said Gen. MacArthur's success in the Philippines had made a very important contribution to the China theater, and that within a fortnight or a month he would be able to operate on a large scale from Leyte and Samar.

Escapes Drugging

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Florence Farrar beside door which prowler broke to enter home and attempt to drug her.

Mrs. Florence Farrar, 26, of 6146 Ozark av., a war worker whose husband is in the navy, was struck on the head yesterday by a man who tried to drug her as she slept.

She told Jefferson Park police she awoke to find the man standing at her bed, holding a rag saturated with a "sickening sweet" smelling liquid over her face. She jumped from bed and ran to the telephone, but the man seized it and struck her on the head.

She said she fled to the home of John Walsh, 6142 Ozark av., where she called police. She was given first aid at Chicago State hospital for her head bruise.

3 MORE GIRLS IN FAMILY DIE OF GAS FUMES

Ottawa, Ill., Nov. 8 [Special].—The death toll among the young daughters of Mrs. Louis Laine of Seneca had risen to four today, with the deaths of Arlene, 13; Joan, 9, and Constance, 6, as a result of carbon monoxide fumes which cost the life of their sister Mary, 7, yesterday. Ruth Mary Laine, 10, the fifth sister, is a patient at Ryburn King hospital where her condition is serious.

The children died as a result of fumes from a gas heater they are believed to have lighted Monday night for baths the next morning. The girls had been left alone when Mrs. Laine went to Streator to obtain financial assistance from her mother, taking her youngest daughter, aged 3, with her. The father of the children is a patient at a Champaign hospital. The home is in a federal housing project.

DEADLINE SET FOR CLOTHING PRICE FORMULA

Injunction suits against approximately 1,000 retailers of women's and children's outer clothing were threatened yesterday by Marion W. Isbell, metropolitan area director of the office of price administration.

The suits will be brought, Isbell said, unless the retailers have demonstrated to the area office by Nov. 15 how they intend to figure their ceiling prices.

All of the 2,700 retailers in the Chicago area were notified Sept. 15 to furnish this information to the area office by Oct. 15, Isbell said. Approximately 1,700 complied. Retailers who persist in ignoring the OPA warnings may be enjoined from making further sales, he said.

SEEKS DIVORCE, FINDS HUSBAND HAS ANNULMENT

Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court yesterday dismissed the divorce suit of Mrs. Ellen Robinson Barnett, 24, when he was informed that her former husband, Bernard Barnett, 28, of 3307 Schubert av., obtained an annulment in Los Angeles, Cal., last Nov. 23. The annulment was granted on the ground that Mrs. Barnett had not been divorced from a previous husband when she was married to Barnett in September, 1940. She obtained a divorce from Harry Robinson in August, 1942.

Girl, 10, Is 155th Person Stricken by Polio in City

A new case of infantile paralysis, the 155th reported in Chicago this year compared with 963 last year, was announced yesterday by the board of health. The patient is a 10 year old girl on the north side. There have been seven deaths this year from the disease, which caused 85 deaths last year before Nov. 8.

'The Key'

By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright; 1944: By Patricia Wentworth Trumbull.)

SYNOPSIS: Michael Harsch, refugee, telephones to Sir George, offering the formula for his perfected experiment to the war office. Later that night he is found shot, in the church. Madoc, a fellow scientist with whom Harsch lived, is sole executor and legatee. Sir George Rendal asks Maj. Garth Albany to investigate. Garth arrives ostensibly to visit his Aunt Sophy. He learns her new companion is Medora Brown; Janice Meade is Madoc's secretary; the Misses Doncaster are at Pennycott; Mrs. Mottram, a pretty widow, is at the Haven; Mr. Everton is in Meadowcroft; that Harsch was in the habit of dropping in to see Medora, a fine musician; and Frederick Bush, sexton, was approached by German agents before the war. About midnight, Garth sees Medora leave the house. Church keys were held by Bush, Harsch, the rector, and Aunt Sophy, whose key is used by Medora Brown, organist. At a quarter to 10 Aunt Sophy heard the shot. When Madoc admits getting Medora's key, he is arrested and later released. Returning from Marbury, Monday, Harsch told Miss Madoc he had seen a ghost. Medora is Madoc's estranged wife. Ezra Pincott, town drunk, who threatens blackmail, is found dead. Bush admits finding Harsch's body earlier than reported. Mary Anne Doncaster heard Harsch's conversation with Sir George and repeated it to Bush and Mr. Everton. Harsch gave Janice the impression he had been reminded of things he didn't want to remember. Madoc knows Bush could not have shot Harsch. Madoc saw Ezra leave the church yard. Formula for "harschite" is safe at the bank. The evidence of Mrs. Mottram and Mr. Everton is not reliable. Lucy Ellen Doncaster was pro-German before the war. At Doncaster's, Mrs. Mottram finds a catalog with a secret message in German and shows it to Mr. Everton.

INSTALMENT XLVI.

PROOF OF GUILT.

Ida Mottram pulled the catalog out from under her jumper and unfolded it. The faint brown lettering was just legible and no more. She began to thing about what it might mean. Two years in a Swiss finishing school had left her with a fair knowledge of French and German. She stared at the words on it, "Am Widder." Widder—the word puzzled her for a moment. And then, like a picture on the screen, there popped into her mind Poll Pain wriggling, and twisting from one foot to another as she recited a list of animals under Fraulein Lessner's sardonic eye: "Der schaf, the sheep. Die kuk, the cow. Der widder, the ram."

Yes, that was it. Widder was a ram. "Am Widder—at the Ram." "Montag halb funf—Monday at half past four."

Mr. Everton came into the room just as she remembered that Miss Doncaster's old cook and her husband kept the Ram at Marbury, and that Miss Doncaster always had tea there when she went in to shop.

He noticed at once how pale and disturbed she looked. And then his eye fell on the catalog.

"O, Mr. Everton, I'm glad to see you! It's so dreadful, but you will know what to do."

"Dear lady, what is it?" She pushed the catalog at him.

He took a moment to adjust his glasses.

"Well, well—now let me see—a list of apple trees. Are you thinking of putting any in?"

"No—no. Look! O, don't you see, there's some writing—here—and there!" She pointed with a scarlet fingernail. "It's fading out, but it was quite clear. It came up when I held it to the fire at Miss Doncaster's. It's German. It says, 'Am Widder-Montag halb funf.'"

"I don't know any German, said Mr. Everton. "I don't suppose you do either. Do you?"

"O, yes! We all learned it at Miss Braun's. I was quite good. It means 'At the Ram—Monday, at half past four.' And Miss Doncaster always has tea at the Ram when she goes into Marbury to shop. Isn't it dreadful!"

"I'm afraid I really don't quite take it in. Are you sure there isn't some mistake? There doesn't seem to be anything on this page except a list of apple trees."

"It was there all right, but it's faded. If we hold it to the fire, perhaps it will come up again."

He said in a soothing voice, "Well, well, we can always try," and she went over and switched on a small electric fire.

No one would have guessed what desperate thoughts whispered and clamored behind that kindly, puzzled air. That old magpie the Doncaster woman picking up the catalog and going off with it! He knew when it must have happened—the day she had come into the garden and he had left her to find her own way out thru the house. Just for such a small, small slip, to lose everything! She must have gone peering and prying into the study and taken it then. He ought to have destroyed it as soon as he had read the message. Yes, and he was burning paper, when every one had it drummed into them morning, noon, and night that every scrap must be saved. He could have put it out for salvage. And have some one take to light the fire with! No—all that he had done had been right and prudent.

He watched the bar of the electric fire grow red. He could burn the page, but it would not save him. Ida Mottram would swear to what she had seen, and the very destruction of the page would damn him.

No deeper than he was damned already. He was in two minds whether to destroy the page or not. It wasn't the page that had to be destroyed—it was Ida Mottram. If he were to shoot her now, he could put her body in the cupboard under the stairs. That would give him an hour or two to get away. The car laid up in his garage could be on the road in a quarter of an hour. If he could reach Marbury he would have a chance.

His hand went into his pocket and felt the little pistol wadded in a handkerchief. A tiny, deadly thing, not at all like the cumbersome old weapon he had been clever enough to use for Harsch. It would make very little noise. Nobody in the country turned their heads when they heard a shot. He had gambled on that with Harsch, and it had come off.

There was hardly any interval between the click of the electric switch, the reddening of the bar, and Ida Mottram turning round to say:

"I think it's hot enough now."

She was very near to death just then. He had the pistol free of the handkerchief. The hand in the pocket moved, withdrawing itself. Janice Meade came into the room.

Neither of them heard anything until she was there, just across the threshold. Ida Mottram said: "Hullo!" Mr. Everton's hand came out of his empty pocket.

And now what? He must wait and see if Mrs. Mottram held her tongue—but she wouldn't—she never did. As long as she believed that the message in the catalog was for Miss Doncaser he had a chance.

He turned with a pleasant smile.

"How do you do, Miss Janice? Shall I put out the fire, Miss Mottram? Our little experiment can wait till afterwards."

But Ida Mottram was opening the catalog.

"O, I haven't any secrets from Janice," she said. "Jan, the most extraordinary thing!" And there she was, pouring it all out: Her visit to Miss Mary Anne, the catalog, the message which had come up on the blank white spaces and faded again. "And Mr. Everton won't believe it was ever there at all. And it said in German, 'At the Ram—Monday, at half past four.' Isn't it dreadful—Miss Doncaster!"

Janice had got as far as the middle of the room. She stopped there by the folded table which Ida used for bridge. She was looking at Ida on the hearth rug with the catalog in her hand, and she couldn't take her eyes away, because she had seen it before, not in Ida's hand but in Miss Doncaster's. And Miss Doncaster had said, "I never bother to write for these things myself—I borrow my neighbor's. This is Mr. Everton's. I daresay he'll never miss it—you never saw such a mush as he's got on his table. So I just picked it up and brought it along."

Mr. Everton went softly across to the door and shut it. Then he went back almost as far as the glass door into the garden and stood looking at the two girls.

Ida Mottram looked round over her shoulder.

"O, it's coming up beautifully!" she said.

Mr. Everton said, "Miss Meade," and Janice turned.

She put up her hand to her head and said in a faint steady voice:

"It's so hot in here. Please turn the fire out. I think it would be nice in the garden."

Ida dropped the catalog.

"Jan—aren't you feeling well?"

"Not very. I' like—some air."

She couldn't think of anything else.

Mr. Everton did not move.

And then, whilst Ida Mottram's eyes went round and surprised, something else moved beyond him in the garden. The head of Cyril Bond emerged from a lilac bush. He held a small bow and arrow, and his eyes were fixed upon imaginary Indians.

U.S. AIR RIGHTS PERILED BY PLOT TO SNUB SENATE

'Temporary' Agreements to Dodge Ratification.

BY FRANK HUGHES.

A scheme to by-pass the United States senate and to force America to grant foreign nations reciprocal flying rights over American territory without senate ratification was disclosed yesterday at the international civil aviation conference in the Stevens hotel in Chicago.

At the same time it was learned that the powerful senate commerce committee, aware that the New Deal planners were working on some scheme which would prejudice America's air destiny after the war, warned President Roosevelt last summer not to call any international air conference until congress had had a chance to study the problems involved and take whatever legislative action might be necessary.

The President apparently paid no heed to this plea. Adolf A. Berle, president of the conference here and chairman of the American delegation, had been working with British and Canadians on an international air accord when this letter was written. Berle is assistant secretary of state. Instead of calling him off, the President convened the conference of 51 allied and neutral nations here.

"Innocent Passage" Pledged.

In his first speech at the conference on last Wednesday, Berle pledged the United States to the "right of innocent passage" of airplanes any place in the world. This means that any aircraft of any nation could fly in noncommercial flight over the territory of any other nation and paves the way for commercial agreements.

A storm of criticism followed this statement, most of it coming from Washington, D. C., where army and navy men and high officials expressed alarm. They said the United States never had granted any such air rights to foreigners before and would not have to pledge it to get a just share of the post-war air traffic.

The "right of innocent passage" concession would, on the other hand, give the British, Dutch, Canadians, French, and others who are in a race to dominate the commercial skies, exactly the freedom they need to compete against American air transport companies, they said.

Realizing that an international covenant embracing this idea would not have much chance of getting the two-thirds vote in the senate necessary for ratification, and that it probably would take two years to get it ratified by enough countries to make it workable, Berle presented to the conference what is called a "standard form" agreement to cover the drafting of bilateral agreements for air routes during the "interim period," which means from the end of the war until the time a permaair covenant is ratified. This standard form includes the pledge to observe "right of innocent passage."

The bilateral agreements would be negotiated by the state department and would not require senate ratification, being temporary measures. Each of them, however, would bind the United States to grant "innocent passage" to the aircraft of the foreign nation signing up.

Committee Anticipated Deal.

One observer said that if this standard form agreement is adopted, "it means to hell with the United States senate."

The fact that the senate commerce committee anticipated a deal of this kind if Roosevelt's state department agents ever got the country involved in an international air conference or applications for air routes is reflected in a letter sent last Aug. 19 to the President by Sen. Bailey [D., N. C.], chairman of the committee, and Sen. Clark [D., Mo.] of the commerce committee's aviation subcommittee. Sen. Bailey is one of the American delegates at the convention here. The letter was printed in the Congressional Record.

"Full Consideration" Urged.

"The committee . . . would request that no action be taken regarding international air transport applications for new routes or acquisition of existing services outside the continental United States and Canada until full consideration of government policy can be had by congress," the letter said.

The Australian-New Zealand plan to set up internationally owned and operated air lines between nations after the war, which never was considered attainable by American observers, was torpedoed and sunk in a plenary committee session.

The committee adopted an amendment offered by Brazil which said there was "no opportunity or necessary unanimity" for the international ownership idea. This amendment was adopted by voice vote with two or three loud "noes" indicating the minority opposition.

Committee Chairman John Martin, the co-delegate from South Africa, got a little snarled up on his parliamentary procedure, for the committee went on to other business and adjourned without ever voting on the Australian-New Zealand resolution. As things now stand, the committee has accepted an amendment without acting on the resolution. Apparently this doesn't faze the diplomats because the amendment would kill the resolution anyhow.

EDGAR GORRELL, AIR EXECUTIVE, IS GIVEN DIVORCE

Edgar Staley Gorrell, 53, of 777 N. Washington rd., Lake Forest, was granted a divorce by Judge J. Dady in Lake county Circuit court yesterday from Mrs. Ruth Maurice Gorrell of New York City. He charged desertion.

Gorrell, now president of the Air Transport Association of America, was chief of staff of the A. E. F. air service in World War I, with the rank of colonel. Later he was president of the Stutz Motor Car company. He is a graduate of West Point.

Judge Dady granted the divorce a few hours after the suit was filed. Mrs. Gorrell did not appear in She was represented by Sidney H. Block, Waukegan attorney. The decree grants Gorrell custody of a son, Edgar Staley Gorrell Jr., 13. A property settlement was made out of court.

Mrs. Olsen, represented by Atty. Irving Eisenman, withdrew a divorce suit charging cruelty. It was the third suit dismissed at her request since she was married to Olsen in 1934. He was represented by Atty. Harry X. Cole.

Free Husband of Suspect in Mail Order Love Case

Charges against Paul Michler, 50, of 3114 Clifton av., of using the mails to defraud were dismissed on the government's motion yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Michler's wife, Lilly, is under indictment for using the mails to obtain money under false pretenses in an alleged $50,000 mail order love scheme, conducted thru advertisments placed in foreign language newspapers.

BANKER TELLS HOPE OF RECORD IN BOND DRIVE

Illinois and Wisconsin savings, building, and loan associations in the sixth war loan drive will exceed the record of $45,235,000 which they made in the third war loan 14 months ago, A. R. Gardner, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago, predicted yesterday. He spoke at a meeting of the Chicago and Cook county savings and loan committee, of which he is chairman, and state and local chairmen of the war finance committee. The meeting was held in the bank's offices. The associations' participation in the war loan drives, Gardner said, consists of sales of bonds to the public and purchases of their own. The sixth war loan drive will run from Nov. 20 to Dec. 16.

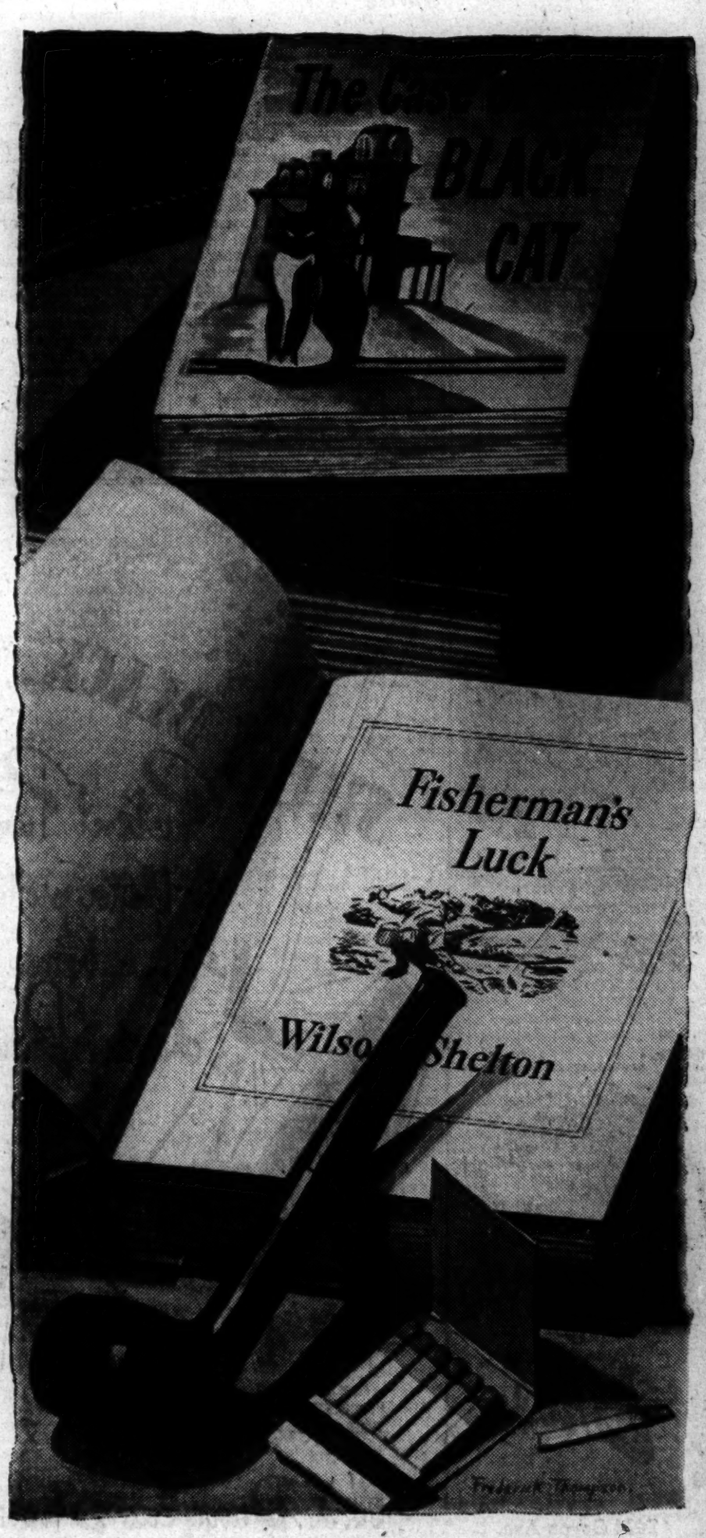
A NORWICH PRODUCT

The Books a Man Turns To!



A MAN is many people. He is a spiritual human being, seeking something to cling to in faith. He is a sportsman, a student of world events, a pleasure-seeker. And, of course, he is a breadwinner. He is all these things by turn. And in each, he seeks one prime source of information.

When, as a business man with management responsibilities, he seeks information, he turns to a magazine like Business Week.

In fact, a recent study by Ross-Federal indicates that the one magazine management-men find most broadly useful is Business Week.

Today, most of the time of these men is spent on business problems. For today they face momentous events. The reconversion of the economy from war to peace. The making of jobs for demobilized war workers and returning servicemen. The competition of new products from as yet unheralded companies, and from wartime discoveries and research developments. The impact of world trade.

These men keep abreast of developments and look for information which will throw light on these problems in the one place they are most likely to find help—and where they know they will find developments related, not as general news, but thoroughly and completely, as business news—in the pages of Business Week.

What does this mean to you as an advertiser?

It means that if you want to talk to management-men about something intimately connected with their business, you had best use the magazine they read for business news—Business Week. So, when you have a message for management-men, put it—and keep it—in the one magazine they find most helpful—Business Week.

Nurses' Parley to Deal with Health Topics

Physical and mental health problems of a war and post-war world will occupy attention of delegates to the 43d annual convention of the Illinois State Nurses' association and the 41st annual convention of the Illinois State League of Nursing Education, which will be held jointly today thru Saturday in the Palmer House.

With a general theme of "The Power of Teamwork," the program will be opened at 9 a. m. today in the hotel's Grand ballroom by Miss Sarah E. Daily, association president. Speakers this afternoon will include Dr. Coleman Griffith of the University of Illinois, who will discuss "The Adjustment Within the Family of the Returned Service Man," and 1st Lt. Theresa Archard of the army nurse corps, who will describe the duties of a field hospital nurse. "The Private Duty Nurse in the Post-War Picture" will be discussed by Miss Teresa Tully, private duty section chairman of the American Nurses' association, at today's luncheon session.

At a banquet tonight for past presidents of the association, G. Ott Romney, chief of recreation and club unit of the American Red Cross, will be the speaker. His subject will be "America Goes with the Troops."

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	6 clubs	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead, king of hearts.

In the belief that the diagnosis is more our concern than the treatment in slams we continue discussion of the judging of slam possibilities by the responding hand. Obviously, we are not considering the artificial conventions at this time, because they have no part in the judging of a hand. Slam conventions of any kind should not be resorted to until you have first judged that the hand will probably produce 12 tricks and then the "trick bids" may be employed as a check-up. In today's hand, North opened the bidding with one diamond and South responded with two clubs.

Many players would make an immediate jump to three clubs, which cannot be criticized, but my preference is for a response of two clubs [knowing that my partner is not permitted to pass] with the intention of doing my strong bidding later, after I have found out more about my partner's hand; that is, whether it is a minimum or whether he has additional values. It is much easier to find this out without crowding the bidding and thus possibly placing partner under some pressure. Notice how easily it works on this hand. North's natural rebid is three clubs.

At this point South pauses to judge the possibilities of the hand. He, himself, holds an ace more than a bid. His partner, presumably, has about a trick more than a bid. This is inferred from the fact that in addition to opening the bidding, North raised his partner to three.

In the actual hand, the opener does not have a trick more than a bid, but the singleton in connection with the ample trump support is certainly the equal of an additional ace. South therefore knows that the partnership's assets include two opening bids plus the equivalent of about two aces. The slam is therefore virtually assured.

To state the proposition briefly, when any team owns two opening bids plus and ace and a king there is a very probable slam. When a team possesses two opening bids plus the equivalent of two tricks the slam is a moral certainty.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

You are South, have 60 on score and hold:

Honeychile, 13, Bemoans Her Dateless Nights

BY MAUREEN DALY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

As soon as the average honeychile is old enough to wear pink lipstick, put her hair in curlers, and collect pictures of Van Johnson, she believes her troubles begin, but king-sized. Most gals feel that they are the only ones who have to worry about strict parents, no dates and long, lonesome Friday nights while all the smooth Joes can make five dates a week-end, have the car any evening, and stay out till midnight just as often as they please. But it isn't so—even the smoothest operators have to report their dating activities to home headquarters.

On the SOLID side

Here's a letter from a girl who forgets that important fact and sings the blues this way:

"I am only 13 but look much older than that and have been told so by many people. In fact, every one treats me as an older person, even my mother and dad, except when it comes to dates! I see their point in not wanting me to go out with boys but here is where the trouble comes in. I have quite a few friends and when one of the boys asks me for a date I have to answer, 'I don't think my mother will let me,' or 'I'm going to be busy that day.' Boys will take 'no' for an answer the first time, but try it a second or third time and you are either playing hard to get or are just plain stuckup. Several times my mother has let me go out once and then refused her permission for a second date, which makes everything quite complicated . . ."

It's not really as complicated as you think. At 13 your mother may find it difficult to realize that you are now out of the pigtail-and-pinafore department and almost old enough to date. And at that age most mothers feel exactly the same way about their sons. Any fellow will understand if you tell him frankly that you will not be allowed to date till you are 15 or 16—at whatever age your mother says she will give you permission. The same honest answer will hold good in regard to a second date. Maybe your mother will give the nod on arrangements to have the boy visit you at home. Then you can just say, "My mother doesn't allow me to go out so often—why don't you come over on Friday night instead?" Don't worry, fellows are hep to what goes with mothers and dads. They have them, too, you know!

Superbly Done, 'Pelleas' Stirs Old Memories

"PELLEAS AND MELISANDE"

Music drama by Claude Debussy, with text by Maurice Maeterlinck from his story of the same name. Presented in French by the Chicago Opera company at the Civic Opera house Wednesday evening, Nov. 8, 1944.

THE CAST.

Pelleas	Martial Singher
Melisande	Bidu Sayao
Golaud	Lawrence Tibbett
Arkel	Nicola Moscona
Yniold	Lillian Raymondi
Genevieve	Doris Doe
The Doctor	Alexander Kaipak
Conductor	Eugene Goossens

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Last night's revival of "Pelleas and Melisande" was like the drawing back of curtains long closed, to reveal a work of art which is the richer for the years of silence. For it has been 13 long seasons since Mary Garden sang the opera that was uniquely Debussy's, and her own. Since then many of us have longed to hear it again, and yet we have been afraid. Perhaps without her its spell might have vanished.

But there was no need for fear. The magnetic mystery of Garden's Mélisande is unforgettable and irreplaceable, yet the opera, superbly cast, remains a masterpiece, alone and untouchable in its kind. Maeterlinck's story, full of shadows, reticence, frustration, and the delayed impact of understatement, has the timeless touch of legend. And Debussy's wonderful score, fluid harmonies glimmering like jewels caught in cobwebby textures of tone, is a deeply emotional experience. It may be that "Pelléas and Mélisande" is not for every one, that its sensitive appeal is not universal. But if it is your opera, you do not merely listen; you are enmeshed by its loveliness and it haunts you forever.

I think we are all deeply in debt to Fausto Cleva for the care with which he put this production together so that it seems never to have been shelved. The cast is from the Metropolitan, where Edward Johnson no longer could resist reviving the opera he once sang with such distinction. But getting Eugene Goossens to conduct was entirely Mr. Cleva's idea, and a good one. Mr. Goossens wove the great web of the score subtly and richly, understanding its iridescent textures of music drama, and when those luckless outbursts of misplaced applause permitted, he set the mood of each scene with the entr'acte.

Miss Sayao's Melisande is a naiad, a water sprite rather than the water witch that was Garden. Tiny, fleet of foot, with a cloud of golden hair she has not quite learned how to send cascading down in the balcony scene, and with a voice like crystal sometimes in shadow, she is exquisite with a kind of shallowness quite in keeping with one interpretation of the role. Untouched, almost untouchable, she is the innocent instrument of disaster.

It comes under the head of pure, unadulterated luck to get two baritones like Martial Singher and Lawrence Tibbett for such an opera. These men have imagination, the keenest sense of style and voices whose timbre, utterly dissimilar, prickles the nerves of music drama. Singher is the best Pelléas of my experience, in voice, appearance, unstressed masculinity [I never saw Johnson's performance], and a quantity of motionless silence that would have been magnificent with Garden.

Tibbett is a superb Golaud. With that dark, almost somber voice, that unerring focus, that feeling for costume that underscores drama, he goes straight to the heart of a memorable role. His scene with little Yniold, played with childlike simplicity by Lillian Raymondi, is a master stroke of definition.

Mr. Moscona's Arkel is wonderful to the eye and ear, a truly stellar creation, and Miss Doe's Geneviève is a sympathetic characterization. The old settings are a bit battered, but they have the atmosphere and echoes of great days that have not been betrayed in revival.

They talk to the person, not to the telephone.

They are attentive and alert and punctuate the conversation with that most pleasing of all sounds—a person's name!

They don't keep callers waiting overlong.

They are as courteous to the operators as to clients.

They avoid lazy lips and make an effort to enunciate so they can be understood.

They keep pencils, pipe, or cigars out of the teeth while talking.

They don't hold the phone too close but hold it before the lips about a half inch away, a little closer to nose than chin.

They answer promptly, name themselves, avoid the "bicarbonate and soda approach" which consists of a sharp "urp;" forgo the big executive manner [just a short, snappy "yes" or even "yeah," pass ur the glamor girl "hel-lo-o." Instead, they identify themselves and the department immediately.

"If WCG's and their bosses follow my suggestions," says Phrederick, "we'll get along famously."

Opera Guild Reception Is a Gay Event

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE.

The Illinois Opera guild's reception yesterday in the Arts club for Fausto Cleva, general artistic director of the Chicago Opera company, and Mrs. Cleva climaxed a hectic 24 hours for artists singing with the company. Not daunted by the company's performance the night before in Milwaukee and a pre-dawn ride back to Chicago—a schedule which had kept many of them up all night—the stars put on their brightest smiles to welcome the guests.

"Why, Romeo!" was Mrs. Tracy L. Turner's greeting to Capt. Michael Bartlett of the marines, who will sing opposite Jeanette MacDonald Saturday night in "Romeo and Juliet." Capt. Bartlett's uniform was the second in the line, as John Carter, now a chief specialist in the navy, made a trip from Great Lakes to join his former fellow singers.

Starting with Mrs. Millard B. Kennedy, acting president of the guild, the line also included Vivian Della Chiesa, Louis Hasselmans, Selma Kaye, Doris Doe, Nicola Moscona, Raoul Tobin, Brooks Dunbar, Virgilio Lazzari, Francisco Valentino, Vittorio Trevisan, Giuseppe Bamboschek, and Stephen Ballarini.

The president of the Opera Guild juniors, Miss Mary Jane Brummel, did courier duty between the club's foyer and the upper rooms, where two tea tables had been set with Wagnerian properties, arranged by Mrs. George Woodruff after themes from "Lohengrin" and "Götterdämmerung." Miss Brummel presented one of the prettiest pictures at the party in a short black velvet dress with a low neckline edged in ermine, a half-crown bonnet of shirred black velvet and ermine, long white kid gauntlets, and a small round ball of an ermine muff, to which was pinned a cluster of fresh violets.

When the call to rehearsal scattered the line at 4:30 p. m., Mrs. Cleva, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. William E. Ragland, another of the guild's vice presidents who helped to receive, and Abner J. Stilwell, vice president of the opera company, joined the throng in the dining rooms.

Louise Clarke's Engagement to Capt. O'Neal Is Announced

BY JUDITH CASS.

ROMANTIC news of particular interest is contained in the announcement Mrs. Charles F. Spalding is making today of the engagement of her niece, Miss Louise Clarke, to Capt. Moncure Camper O'Neal of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Asbury O'Neal of Chicago and Birmingham, Ala. Miss Clarke, whose parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Clarke of Chicago, is well known in camera circles, having turned a hobby into a career in the years since her introduction to society at a reception at the Casino. She is a member of the Photographic Society of America and of the Chicago Junior league and was educated at the Sacred Heart academy at Noroton-on-the-Sound, Conn.

Just last January Miss Clarke was maid of honor and Capt. O'Neal best man at the marriage of his sister, Amelia, to Capt. William E. Nuessle. Before entering the army Capt. O'Neal practiced law in New York. He was graduated from Davidson university in Charlotte, N. C., and from the law school of Columbia university. He is stationed now in Washington, D. C., with the office of the chief of ordnance.

Future Events.

A gathering to celebrate the liberation of France and the recognition of Gen. de Gaulle, which has been in the planning for some weeks and eagerly anticipated by French organizations in Chicago, will be held at 5:30 p. m. next Tuesday in the north ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Invitations have been mailed by France Forever to the gala event at which the special guests will be Robert Valeur, head of French press information, and Max Hymans, head of the French delegation to the international aviation conference.

An interesting part of the program will be the singing of two French underground patriotic songs, "The Song of Liberation" and "The Complaint of the Partisans," by Reinhold Schmidt. Miss Lillian Chookasian will sing "The Star Spangled Banner" and "La Marseillaise," and a special short film showing scenes of the liberation and of Paris will be presented.

Lionel Basse, new French consul; Wilfred H. Gallienne, British consul general; members of other consular corps in Chicago, and members of the French delegation to the aviation conference have been invited to the celebration, as have all French groups here. Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, president of France Forever and general chairman of the gathering, and some of the executive committee members will welcome guests informally. Clifton Utley will serve as master of ceremonies.

News of Births.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert W. White III. [Nancy Freund] became the parents of a son, David Walton, Nov. 5 in the Children's hospital in San Francisco. The baby's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Frederic Woodward, was prevented from being on hand to greet him as she is convalescing from pneumonia. Mr. White, a navigator with an air lines company flying the Pacific, is the son of Mrs. White Jr. of Philadelphia.

Sgt. William W. Darrow, now on duty overseas with the army, and his wife, the former Anita Straub, became the parents of a daughter, Anne Wieboldt, Saturday in the Evanston hospital. The baby and her brother, Peter, are grandchildren of the Walter Straubs and of Mrs. Nels Hokanson. The baby was named for her maternal grandmother and great-grandmother, Mrs. William Wieboldt of the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Lt. [j. g.] and Mrs. James S. Fraser Jr. [Jean Hill] are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, James Hill, Nov. 7 in St. Luke's hospital. The baby is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd W. Hill of Lake Shore dr. and of Mr. and Mrs. Fraser of Shaker Heights, O., and a nephew of Miss Peggy Hill, one of last season's debutantes.

On the Calendar.

Two free lectures this week at the Art institute will be given by prominent Chicago women, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison. At 6:30 p. m. today in Fullerton hall, Mrs. Goodspeed will lecture on "Modern Artists in Motion Pictures" and show her films of some of the leading artists, musicians, and poets of our time, including Matisse, Picasso, and Stravinsky. At 3:15 p. m. Sunday, Mrs. Harrison will talk on "Children of the Sun," also in Fullerton hall. Her lecture deals with South America and will be illustrated with colored slides.

Former students of Monticello college now living in the north shore suburbs have been invited to tea from 3 to 5 p. m. today in the Wilmette home of Mrs. George Milnor. Board members of the Monticello College club will serve as hostesses.

Distinctive Floor Length Evening Gown of Satin

Distinctive new dinner dress of striped rose-red and laurel green satin. The heavy satin is cut in diagonal lines in the full, floor length skirt. The bodice simulates a shirtwaist top with green buttons down the front. The dress is available in a Chicago shop. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

New Elegance Found in Long Dinner Dresses

BY REA SEEGER.

Suave elegance is emphasized in the current collections of floor length dinner dresses. Achieved with fabrics such as shimmering soft satin, clinging crepes, handsome brocades, and devoid of anything extra in the way of frou-frou ruffles, each is a smooth example of decorative material used for itself, its texture, and color. The results are outstanding. While the severe sheath silhouette still heads the preference list, as almost a classic costume for a dinner party, the wide skirted creations are new enough and flattering for the shopper seeking something different. And there are plenty of both to satisfy all demands.

Exciting new satin materials feature interesting stripes and effective brocade designs. Some have that old fashioned brocade design of tiny twigs or small floral motifs in subtle pastel shades or more vivid colorings reminiscent of lovely old upholstery fabrics, gleaming satin brocades that cover fine French antique pieces. Background shades are exquisite, egg-shell, palest blue, salmon, and a virtually indescribable shade of crimson called damask rose. Vivid shades of emerald green, ruby red, cerise, and dull gold are patterned with very small all over designs in contrasting colors. Many materials like these are featured in the fabric collections also.

The most dramatic fabrics are those of strong colors in alternate striped patterns. Every combination imaginable is used. Red with green, mauve with maroon, jade green with black, pink with purple, and aquamarine with deep azure are some of the very new striped effects. These make the severely plain dinner dresses, usually with wide skirts, a demure bodice top with high collar, short sleeves with prim cuffs just above the elbow, and normal waist line defined with a buckled belt of the same striped satin.

Thru the Looking Glass

More and more these hectic days the effort of getting dressed up for an evening engagement seems an insurmountable task after a hard day of work at business or in the home. Not only it is too much trouble; it looks like a hopeless task and our faces reflect the weariness the body feels. But most of us have a few little tricks in reserve that will come to our rescue when necessary, so we can look fresh as a daisy despite the fatigue we feel.

One popular formula is the bath and mask treatment. The bath is the lolling, leisurely variety, fluffed up with favorite tub trimmings. That in itself is often enough to chase away the unhappy feeling of being a drudge and takes the tired ache from the body. After a few minutes you begin to feel like a new person, full of pep and ready to be on the go again.

For the facial treatment, we like a mask that does its work while you're relaxing in the tub. Our favorite for this purpose is a soft cream that doesn't set or harden, but gently relaxes the face as it works.

We like it, too, because it's so quick and easy to use. Cleanse the skin thoroly first and then go over it with a soothing lotion. Before the lotion dries, spread the mask in a thin film over the face and leave it on for as long as you're in the tub. If you can spare 10 minutes for your bath all the better, but even three or four minutes will suffice for the mask to freshen and brighten the face.

After you've finished bathing, simply rinse the mask off with a little warm water. Your complexion will have a pretty glow and be all ready for makeup.

The double treatment is an excellent refresher and once you try it you'll find yourself relying on it for all the occasions when you want to feel and look your very best.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 8.—Fred MacMurray made a deal with Joe Schenck for 20th Century to release his independent picture, "Pardon My Past," which Leslie Fenton will produce and direct for him when he's finished the life of Rickenbacker, now called "First, Last, and Always." . . . You do have to be the right kind of people to sign the register on the set at Metro, 'cause they've got it in a glass cage, and cage is locked. . . . John Ford's price for directing "They Were Expendable" is $200,000, but a big hunk of it goes to charity. . . . Alfred Hitchcock signed a new five year deal with David O. Selznick. He'll do one a year as producer and director for Vanguard with a b-e-e-e-g up-in pay. His first, "Notorious," with Ingrid Bergman.

We Hope So, Too, Mike.

Michael Arlen says, "I guess my number isn't up." Mike's successfully weathered his third nearly fatal accident. When he was pulled out of his bed at Palm Springs at 5 a. m. the other morning by Eddie Sutherland the bedroom was on fire and Michael was sleeping peacefully thru it. He was in the Coventry air raid. Four months ago he was run into by an automobile, and woke up in the hospital. "Now," says he, "I guess the jinx is broken, and I'll live on to an exciting old age, I hope." . . . June Allyson was chosen by a movie magazine as the outstanding screen personality of the year. She sure is coming up fast! . . . Paul Wellman, who wrote "Jubal Troop," is at Warners writing an original, "Cheyenne." Hero is a hard-boiled bandit who spouts poetry. Tailor-made for Errol Flynn? . . . Before making records from the Bible, Charles Laughton is reading them to Dr. Fifield's classes, also for Dr. Rumsey Bird at Occidental.

That's Tellin' Him.

Mervyn Leroy fancies himself a horseman—he owns one horse! His mother loves to bet on the ponies, but doesn't know anything about them. She's beloved at the race track because she shares her winnings with the boys who take her bets and get her tips. The other day she had a tip on Vain Doctor, gave it to Mervyn. He said, "Listen, Mama, that horse ain't never gonna win!" But it did—paid $52 for $2. She collected, went to him, and said, "Son, you just take care of 'The Robe'—while I look after the horses." . . . Warner's new short, "Jammin' the Blues," is the first to be made of a real jam session. It's directed by Gjon Mili, and looks like an academy winner to me. . . . Note from Barry Fitzgerald: "Regarding Elsa Maxwell's epitaph party, F. P. A. used that 20 years ago in his 'Conning Tower'—the winner being Marc Connelly: 'Here lies Marc Connelly. Who?' Tom Geraghty's was: 'Here lies a New Yorker. He never knew when it was a moonlight night.'"

No Shortage Here—Eh, George?

George Coulouris turned down the New York stage play, "The Vulture," to go into "Hotel Berlin." He didn't like the idea of only one vulture—that seemed to be stretching war time shortage too far. . . . Judy Garland is lunching almost daily at the Cock 'n' Bull with a mysterious gentle. Maybe he was just a politician. . . . Mae Marsh played Jimmy Dunn's mother in "Over the Hill" 13 years ago. Now she's playing a part in his screen comeback, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn." She says Jimmy, like all Irishmen, has mellowed with the years. . . . George Cukor, looking for a story for Katharine Hepburn, came across Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's, which she wrote in 1924, and which for frankness about herself and her own character and the swells of her day, would make a mighty tasty tale. No, studio didn't buy it.

Long Way 'Round.

Young George Kitchell signed a long termer at 20th Century. He's a home town boy who tried before the war to get in here as an actor. While he was trying he became a photographer. Came the war, he was drafted. Served over two years. Invalided to Birmingham hospital, he was greeted constantly by stars who came there with "You sure should be in pictures." That's what Merle Oberon, Norma Shearer, Claudette Colbert said. With his past experience ever present, he thought it was a line. But when the army turned him loose he went to see Charlie Wendling, whom he'd met at Fort MacArthur. Charlie happens to be Claudette's brother. Charlie took him to 20th, and now all he needs is a good part.

Mrs. Bert R., Evanston—To avoid making clinkers in a furnace, don't close your drafts on a hot fire. Clinkers form under excessively high temperatures. Close the drafts on a hot fire by stages and avoid a lot of trouble.

Mrs. Bob H., Milwaukee, Wis.—To avoid having candles wobble in holders, I take a keyhole saw and flute them near the bottom.

Mrs. Andy H., Holland, Mich.—Before we put away summer toys such as sand pails, etc., we give them a coat of paint. When spring comes we do the same with winter toys, and they are always ready for use as the seasons roll around.

"I want to have him Hollanderized so he'll look like new"

Sorry, Susie, we don't Hollanderize sheep dogs. But when you grow up and have a fur coat yourself, Hollanderizing will be a good name to remember. A good name for Mother to remember right now, if her furs are beginning to look dull and drab. Hollanderizing makes furs look new again, by the very methods Hollander uses in the original treatment of the pelts.

Mother will be surprised how quickly she can have her fur coat Hollanderized, if she asks her department store, specialty shop or furrier now.

Fur-trimmed cloth coats deserve to be Hollanderized, too.*

Unless you see this tag, your coat has not been Hollanderized

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin

By George Rector

Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

LAND OF PLENTY

How good it seems to be able to have all the beef we want, once again. And to know that in eating our fill of this lean, unrationed beef, we are not depriving others of food they should have. Our hats are off to the patriotic farmers who have made this possible. Thanks, pardners!

Country Fried Steak... Like Grandmother's

1 lb. steak, cut ¼ inch thick
1 tsp. Wilson's B-V
½ cup flour
1½ tbsp. Bake-Rite

Spread steak on both sides with Wilson's B-V (about ¼ tsp. B-V to each 4 by 5 inch serving). Pound flour into steak with mallet or heavy saucer. Pan fry in the hot Bake-Rite (or bacon drippings) over moderate heat for 10 minutes, turning once. Keep skillet covered after the meat is browned. Serves 4.

Clip Directions Here

"DOWN-ON-THE-FARM" AROMA

The moment our photographer came into the dining room the other day he said, "What smells so good? It reminds me of my grandmother's kitchen." It was this country fried steak which had just gone from the frying pan onto the platter, all ready to have its picture taken. True, it did fill the room with that old-time, pleasing aroma of grandmother's kitchen, down on the farm. And this steak was cooked just the way she almost always used to do it.

Keep It Under Cover

Note that the recipe specified cooking the steak covered, after browning. That's so the steam, confined to the pan, will create the moist heat necessary for tenderizing this leaner kind of beef. And it really does get wonderfully tender, cooked this way. Wilson's B-V which you spread over the meat before frying, gives the steak an extra, full measure of that good beef flavor you want. The B-V also flavors the drippings so that your gravy will be as rich and good as the meat itself.

"Land of Plenty" Menu

What better companions for country fried steak than boiled potatoes with cream gravy, cole slaw, and green beans cooked with Wilson's deliciously sweet Certified Bacon, cut in small pieces? For dessert, make it something light such as canned peaches and tiny cup cakes.

The lean, unrationed beef of today will make you many a fine meal. Use it liberally for country fried steak, pot roasts, stews, Swiss steaks, meat pies and similar dishes. It's the long, slow cooking with moist heat that makes this beef so tender and delicious.

IT'S WORTH REMEMBERING

Three tsp. equals one tbsp.; sixteen tbsp. equals one cup.

One pound of margarine equals 2 cups or 32 tbsp. Ask for Certified Margarine if you want a sweet, mild margarine. It's the Spread that Betters Your Bread.

Wilson & Co.'s B-V recipe booklets, Homemaker Prize Recipes, are now at your food store. They're free, so get your copy while the supply lasts.

Sincerely yours,
GEORGE RECTOR

From a Wine Cookbook

Short on ration points? Then just try this wine-way of making fish so tasty it appeals to everyone!

Fish Baked in White Wine

Brush 4 small fish (about ½ lb. each) inside and out with melted margarine. Sprinkle with salt, celery salt, and pepper. Slash sides lightly to prevent curling. Lay in shallow baking pan, add 1 cup California Sauterne or Rhine Wine and a bay leaf. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 20 minutes, or until done; basting occasionally. Remove fish; slightly thicken wine remaining in pan for sauce.

To point up the flavor of fish serve glasses of white wine with it at the table. You'll find wine cuts the oiliness, makes your fish taste extra delicious. Let your dealer tell you all about California white table wines.

There are plenty of almonds available, but they are expensive. Yet often a few of these crisp nuts will do much for a cooked dish. Blanched and sliced thin, a few almonds add as much interest to a casserole of vegetables as to chicken a la king.

Salted almonds are tempting morsels at an afternoon tea or following the Thanksgiving dinner. To prepare them, pour boiling water over shelled almonds, let stand a minute or so to loosen the skins, then cover with cold water and slip off skins. This is called "blanching" the almonds. Dry the nuts and spread them out on a lightly oiled, shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with salad oil and roast in a 350 degree oven until nuts have turned golden brown. Stir occasionally as they roast. Turn out on soft paper and sprinkle with salt.

Almonds may be glazed for packing into those service men's boxes. Combine a cup of blanched almonds with half a cup of sugar and heat gently in a heavy skillet until sugar is thoroly melted and golden brown. Remove from heat and separate almonds with a fork. This method of glazing almonds roasts them at the same time.

Cream cheese balls rolled in finely chopped or ground almonds are delectable bites when speared on toothpicks for the appetizer tray. If the cream cheese is seasoned with onion, so much the better.

Brandied almonds are an extravagance if you prepare them for ordinary occasions, but for a party, or for your service man's box, you'll be glad to sacrifice the sugar and brandy.

Brandied Almonds.
[One quart, prepared.]

¼ cup margarine
2¼ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
¼ cup brandy
2 cups blanched almonds
¼ cup ground almonds [not blanched]

Cream margarine; add sugar and brandy in alternate portions. Beat mixture until smooth and well blended. Toast almonds for 15 to 20 minutes in 350 degree oven, stirring occasionally. While nuts are warm, coat each with sugar mixture, roll in chopped nuts, place on shallow tray to cool and harden.

Chinese Almond Cookies.

2 cups sifted flour
1½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
½ cup finely chopped or ground almonds
¾ cup bacon fat
2 eggs, slightly beaten

Combine flour, sugar, and almonds. Work in bacon fat thoroly. Add slightly beaten eggs and mix well. Roll dough on lightly floured board to about ¼ inch in thickness. Cut into 1½ inch rounds. Place a blanched almond in the center of each and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, about 15 minutes.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE.

Apple Toast.
[Serves four to six.]

4 large apples
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
Dash of cinnamon
4 to 6 slices toast
Bacon curls

Peel and core apples and cut in thin crosswise slices. Place in heavy saucepan and sprinkle with sugar, add butter and 1 tablespoon water. Cover tightly and cook over lowest heat until tender and clear. Turn when partially done and add cinnamon. Serve on toast with bacon curls for breakfast.

Extremes May Defeat Good Eating Habits

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

There are two extremes of management that mothers use in feeding their children. One is "Eat what is set before you." Or, "You can't have any dessert until you have cleaned your plate." These two stern announcements, which are in effect the forcing of a child to eat, seldom get the desired result of good meal time habits. They seldom have the effect of making a child eat with appetite and enthusiasm a variety of wholesome foods.

In this connection, did you ever think of what it would be like if you always had to eat everything that was set before you and all of it, whether you liked it, whether you had had enough, or whether for some reason your palate or stomach cried out "No"?

The other extreme is represented by some such running fire of comments as the following: "Would you like some carrots for lunch, Joan? Won't you please eat this nice spinach that I chopped up for you, Sally? Now I want you to be a good boy, John, and try to eat every little bit of this vegetable soup that Mother has made for you." Coaxing and constantly asking children their food preferences are tactics which are apt to make the children fussy, and which make a lot of unnecessary trouble for their mother or whoever presides over their meals.

The only course that really works well all around and is still fair to the children is a medium one. The reason why neither of the extremes of which we have given examples is fair, is because, for one thing, children do have reasonable preferences in food, and sometimes these preferences are actually due to a physiological condition. They may for instance have allergies for some foods, or they may have a small stomach capacity. So the forcing extreme is not a good one, just as the coaxing extreme is not.

Briefly the medium cause is to put before your children, with a taken-for-granted-air, food which you think is good for them, which is pleasantly varied, and as deliciously prepared as possible. Of course I could go on with further directions, but today's is not to be a detailed articles on this subject.

On the whole, healthy children don't give as much thought to what they eat as adults do. The average child with an average appetite will eat varied and well-balanced meals with relish, but he does this best when he is neither forced nor coaxed.

Movie Scores with 'Arsenic and Old Lace'

"ARSENIC AND OLD LACE."

A Warner Bros. picture, directed by Frank Capra, adapted by Julius J. and Philip G. Epstein from the stage play by Joseph Kesselring, starring Cary Grant, with Raymond Massey, Jack Carson, Peter Lorre, Priscilla Lane, Edward Everett Horton, James Gleason, Josephine Hull, Jean Adair, and John Alexander, and presented at the Roosevelt.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

"Arsenic and Old Lace," one of the funniest plays yet staged, has held its own with Hollywood. Altho Cary Grant is starred as the drama critic who is otherwise the only sane member of the Brooklyn Brewsters' household, his part has not been overwritten. The role always was a little silly, because all the poor fellow has to do is register popeyed dismay as his relatives vie for the championship in corpses. Mr. Grant looks handsome and popeyed, and tho that in itself is no mean achievement, it will win him no Oscars.

The people you can't forget in this frolic of homicidal maniacs are the three who created their roles on the stage—Josephine Hull and Jean Adair as the sweet old ladies who pop off lonely old men with elderberry wine laced with arsenic, strychnine, and just a soupçon of cyanide, and John Alexander, who fancies himself as Teddy Roosevelt bugling alarums and charging excursions up the stairs of San Juan hill, when he is not occupied with the Panama Canal in the basement, where the bodies are buried.

Next in line you will concentrate on chief bogeyman Raymond Massey and his deprecating little pal in grisly homicide, Peter Lorre. It seems to me that in the case of Mr. Massey Hollywood missed an opportunity. When the stage wanted to depict a maniac enraged because a drunken plastic surgeon made him horrible to behold, it engaged Boris Karloff and Erich Von Stroheim to play themselves in the New York and Chicago companies. Hollywood retaliated by hiring a stage actor, but made Mr. Massey up to look like Karloff with touches of Orson Welles, and I suspect those Wellesian overtones may be Mr. Massey's own sardonic idea.

But it works, and it's fun, with that window seat just as busy tho not quite as hilarious as it was on the stage, a matter of camera dimensions rather than direction. For Frank Capra has caught the macabre comedy in exact mood, pacing the picture with the hilarious understatement that gave the play its shock of irresistible charm.

Padding the romance hasn't helped, but then it was dull on the stage, too. You can't care much about Cupid when horror is abroad in a Halloween mask. And I can't quarrel with some of the additional dialog, notably that between Mr. Grant and Edward Everett Horton, the latter as head of Happydale sanatarium to which brother Teddy is going in the guise of a hunting trip to Africa.

Mr. Horton's only worry is that Happydale has several Teddys, which may cause confusion, and hopefully suggests that they are short of Napoleons. No dice. So Mr. Horton mournfully acquiesces and hangs up, shaking his head in rue. "Dear, dear," he remarks dejectedly, and not without a certain timeliness, "another Roosevelt."

Blouse Designs

The popular raglan shoulder, usually seen only in the season's smartest dresses, makes its debut in blouses with this pattern, which creates two versions, one with bow-tied neckline and the other with delicate ruffling outlining the throat. Dark blouses, especially black, are difficult to find in the shops. Why not make your own? Style No. 2558 is designed for sizes 12 to 46. Size 36 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch fabric for short sleeved version with ruffles; 2¼ yards for other version.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents plus 2 cents for mailing. The winter pattern book is 15 cents at Public Service offices, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Mrs. George F. Hartford, midwest district president of Bundles for America, 14 N. Michigan av., will entertain at tea at 3 p. m. today in the Tavern club to announce plans for a Christmas benefit party which a special men's committee formulated last week. Robert McKenna and Robert Adams Carr were added to the committee roster and will make their reports today.

Mrs. Hartford will represent the midwest region at the national Bundles convention in New York next Tuesday and Wednesday and will be among the speakers. Mrs. Gilbert L. Jones, treasurer, and Mrs. Bruce A. Young, distribution chairman, of the Chicago branch, will accompany Mrs. Hartford to the convention.

More than 60 WAC recruits left Chicago yesterday for basic army training at Fort Des Moines, Ia. Among Chicagoans in the contingent was Mrs. Sanda McGuire, 9812 S. Bell av., who joins her husband, Francis; her son, Harold, and her daughter, Caroline, in army uniform.

Francis McGuire is stationed at Bolling field, Washington, D. C., with the army air forces. Harold, also in the air forces, is overseas. Caroline is a WAC on duty at Scott field, Ill.

Virginia L. Maurer of Jerseyville, Ill., follows three brothers into service. All are overseas.

Two sisters were included in the latest WAC convoy: Geraldine Defferding, 21, and Marjorie Defferding Promer, 23, of 473 Deming pl.

A dinner at 6 p. m. Saturday in the restaurant at 100 E. Ohio st., will mark the first anniversary of the Chicago Service Men's Wives' club, with headquarters in the Y. W. C. A. at 59 E. Monroe st. Mrs. Charles T. Lempera, vice president, will be mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Arthur Janus, Mrs. Arthur Mayer, and Mrs. Thomas Field will address the members and their guests, who will play cards after dinner.

Wives of men in all maritime and military forces, regardless of rank, are invited by Mrs. Field, president, to join the organization at its next monthly meeting. Business sessions are held regularly on the second Wednesday of the month.

Organized by a few service wives to bring each other social contacts and engage in volunteer war work, the club now has a membership of more than 100 and is believed to be the only organization of its kind in Chicago with a city-wide membership and centrally situated headquarters.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Radio Stars to Appear Before Deborah Women

Eddie and Fannie Cavanaugh, one of radio oldest teams and veterans of the W-G-N broadcasting station, will star in a program presented at an open meeting of the Deborah Woman's club at 2 p. m. today in the Standard club. A glimpse into the philanthropic work of the club will be afforded thru an interview with four the 1,500 boys who daily visit the Deborah Boys' club at 2441 W. Division st., where the woman's organization provides instruction in trades, arts, and crafts. Mrs. Lester Stern will preside at the meeting.

Dream Home of the Future Is Described

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

"My dream of a modern house is one with a roof floating above walls of glass," said Prof. Walter F. Bogner of Harvard university in a talk before the Illinois chapter of the American Institute of Decorators in the Arts club yesterday.

Prof. Bogner, a practicing architect, teacher, and writer on the subject for the Encyclopedia Britannica, opened the series of lectures being sponsored here by the institute. Other speakers to follow are Roger Van der Straeten, Louis Bromfield, and T. H. Robsjohn-Gibbings, author of "Good-bye, Mr. Chippendale."

For many years the trend has been away from formality toward informal living, Prof. Bogner said, and therefore two of the great demands that will have to be met by the designer of post-war homes are for greater ease of living and for interiors "that are alive," that stimulate everyday activities and meet emotional needs.

He foresees the creation of houses that no longer follow our concept of symmetrical balance in the arrangement of furnishings, but that tend to asymmetrical balance. No groupings of chairs, couches, and tables will be "frozen" in the room of the future, but will be flexible, able to play several roles and meet varied needs, he said.

Only the fireplace will be permanent in its location, Prof. Bogner predicted, and sliding walls of fabric, glass, or wood will enable one room to merge with another. Inclosed space will give way to open spaces, he believes, and the living room will really be part of the garden or lawn, separated from it simply by a wall of glass.

Prof. Bogner feels that the large house probably is a thing of the past and that post-war homes will vary from trailer size to that of four to six room dwellings. The creative ability of the designer will have to meet the test of providing comfort and efficiency in millions of these small homes that will be built after the war, he said. And the furniture we've all been used to will be obsolete, he prophesied.

Using colored slides, he showed the ultra-modern chairs being designed by Aalto, Breuer, Saarinen, and others. Like all other items of pure modern design, they are based on the tenet voiced originally by Louis Sullivan that "form follows function." In other words, they are built to sit in, to be comfortable in, not to look at or admire as objects of beauty.

Prof. Bogner showed views of the interiors of his own home, the living room of which combines the functions of dining room and library. Glass walls make it seem part of the surrounding landscape, and a sliding, bass-wood screen can shut off the dining section. Concealed lighting can change the "mood" of the room at the owner's desire.

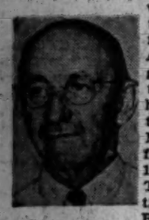
LIVINGSTON TO REJOIN CUBS FOR 1945 SEASON

60 YEAR OLD BOWLER SEEKS TRIBUNE TITLE

He Will Represent Richmond, Cal.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Watch out, you young fellows, like Ned Day and Paul Krumske, when you go to the line in the fourth annual All-Star match game bowling tournament to be held in the Auditorium Service Men's center from Dec. 2 thru 10 by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America.



Fred Staring.

There's a gaffer by the name of Fred Staring, who will celebrate his 60th birthday next month, the same in which the biggest show in tenpins will be decided. Mr. Staring [excuse us, but we were raised to show respect for our elders] is going to represent Richmond, Cal., against the brilliant field which will begin tumbling pins in the Service Men's Center on Dec. 2.

Beats Young Competitors.

You would say that Mr. Staring must have come out of an elimination wherein residents of a home for the old might have competed. Mr. Staring did no such thing. He won one of the toughest eliminations leading to the big show while winning the Richmond Recreation trials against a field which included rivals many years his junior. Incidentally, the impresario of the Richmond party was an old Chicago boy, Herb Goldsmith, who was born on our north side 60 years ago, and used to pitch a ball or ten himself out there around 35th and Calumet. Herb was a member of the Welsbach team which bowled in the first American Bowling Congress tournament in 1901.

He Describes His Man.

Not only does he threaten to chaperon Mr. Staring to the tournament, but also goes as far as to describe his man in the following paragraph:

"This gentleman uses a four step delivery, reaching the line in smooth, graceful manner, and, despite his age, he throws a pretty devastating hook, and while he is going to compete against the most powerful field that ever performed, like all bowlers, if he is on his game, he will give a mighty good account of himself and is a very worthy representative."

Mr. Staring, facing a younger field in the Richmond Recreation finals won the elimination round robin with a record of 14 won and 7 lost, scoring a Petersen system total of 101 points. He broke out with an opening series of 235—219—259 for an aggregate of 712.

Blackhawks Play Tonight in Montreal

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 8 [Special].—Last season's National Hockey league finalists in the Stanley Cup playoffs will meet tomorrow night and there was little reason to suspect that the relative strength of the two teams is any different now than during the best-of-seven series when the Montreal Canadiens won four straight games from the Chicago Blackhawks.

The Canadiens have played four games thus far during the current season and the Blackhawks three. Montreal has suffered one defeat and the Hawks have triumphed only on one occasion. While Manager Paul Thompson's Chicagoans have accounted for 16 goals as against Dick Irwin's Canadiens 10, Montreal is much superior on defense having been scored on only 10 times, while the Hawks have been plastered 20 times by the opposition.

Top scorer on the Canadiens' team is the redoubtable Toe Blake, who has a habit year after year of being at or near the top in league campaigns. Once he topped all the point makers of the league, a season's feat which gave Toe the most valuable player award.

Two Hawks players, Harvey Fraser, a new pro this season and the veteran Clint Smith are ahead of Blake in the scoring tabulation to date. Both Fraser and Smith are tied with six points apiece, made up of 2 goals and 4 assists. Blake has hit the nets 4 times, but has a zero in the assist column.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—This is the week that the college football season begins and ends for a sizeable percentage of New York's sporting public. . . . It's the week when Army plays Notre Dame in the gridiron's most celebrated series. . . . As usual, Yankee stadium has been sold out for weeks. . . . A capacity crowd of 76,000 is guaranteed. . . . For one-third of the throng this will be the only contest they will see this season. . . . It's always that way when Notre Dame comes to New York. . . . There are other gridiron rivalries which probably have produced better, certainly equally good competition. . . . But there's none that thrills the metropolitans like Army-Notre Dame. . . . Come prosperity or depression, war or peace, Gus and Gussie Fan save enough money to guarantee their presence at the big game. . . . The cheapest seat for years has been $4 plus tax, and if you want to look on from a box you must shell out $6 plus. . . . However, it hasn't always been football's greatest crowd puller. . . . It was 25 years ago we first covered an Army-Notre Dame game. . . . It was played on the old field at West Point before fewer than 8,000 spectators who were admitted free. . . . Knute Rockne, a star of the series inaugural in 1913, was leading a Notre Dame team back to the Point for the first time as head coach. . . . No Chicago newspaper was sufficiently interested to assign a staff reporter to the game. . . . As student athletic publicity director for Notre Dame, we filed brief articles for THE TRIBUNE and the Evening American. . . . Three or four New York writers were in the press box, none of whom will be around Saturday. . . . Which is an admission, of course, that we are getting to be an old bat. . . . Notre Dame won the 1919 game, 12 to 9, after trailing by 9 to 0 at the half, and the victory gave the Irish a lead in the series which has widened with monotonous regularity thru the years. . . . The record is 22 victories for Notre Dame, five defeats, and three ties. . . . Army hasn't had a victory since 1931, but it looks as if its long wait will end on Saturday.

It has occurred to us you may be interested in knowing what has become of the men who started the Army game for Notre Dame a quarter of a century ago. . . . The survey involves something more than tracing the whereabouts of 11 men. . . . Maybe it will provide an answer to the value of football in developing undergraduates for their life work. . . . We go back to 1919 because the athletes of that year have had adequate time to make good in their various pursuits. . . . We pick the Notre Dame team of that season because we are acquainted with the personnel. . . . We are reasonably certain it is a fair cross section of intercollegiate football in 1919. . . . Let's begin at left end and work our way across the line. . . . The starter for Notre Dame was Bernie Kirk, who a year later transferred to Michigan. . . . Soon after attaining All-America rating he was killed in an automobile accident. . . . Kirk's relief man was Roger Kiley, now a federal judge in Chicago. . . . Kiley in 1920 and 1921 was recognized as one of the country's outstanding wing men. . . . At left tackle was Frank Coughlin, assistant attorney general of Indiana, who has practiced law in South Bend for many years. . . . At left guard was Heartly [Hunk] Anderson, Detroit business man, who serves as coach of the Chicago Bears during the football season. . . . At center was Edward P. [Slip] Madigan, head football coach at the University of Iowa, who for 20 years was coach and athletic director at St. Mary's college in California. . . . The right guard was Clipper Smith, now a captain in the marine corps on leave from Villanova college. . . . At right tackle was Ed Degree, an architectural engineer in Detroit, and his reserve was Lawrence T. [Buck] Shaw, who recently signed as head coach of the San Francisco club in the newly organized All-America Football conference. . . . Shaw was coach and athletic director at Santa Clara university until he switched to professional football. . . . At right end was Edward N. Anderson, now a major in the army medical corps serving overseas. . . . Dr. Anderson is on leave from the University of Iowa. . . .

The quarter back of the 1919 Notre Dame eleven was fiery little Joe Brandy, who now owns and operates a chain of radio stations in upstate New York. . . . At left half back was George Gipp, Notre Dame's all-time All-American, the greatest all around half back this department ever has seen. . . . Gipp's reserve was Norm Barry, now an Illinois state senator. . . . Gipp died two weeks after playing his last football game for the Irish. . . . ODT PARTIALLY REMOVES BANS ON AUTO RACING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 (AP).—Automotive racing is legal again—but without rationed gasoline or tires. The office of defense transportation today partially lifted a ban in affect since July 1, 1942, to permit certain vehicles such as English type motorcycles and midget automobiles to race again.

These vehicles, ODT said, can be powered by nonrationed industrial alcohol or petroleum derivatives. Some tires are available from prewar stocks which have not been rationed because they are of types not suitable for ordinary use.

Pat O'Brien, Brother of Former Card Owner, Dies

Patrick O'Brien, 64, brother of Chris O'Brien, former owner and manager of the Chicago Cardinals professional football team, died yesterday. The funeral will be held Saturday from the funeral home at 5438 S. Halsted av. to St. Sebastian's church. Interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Sports Preview

ARCH WARD'S Sports Preview will originate tonight in New York, where The Tribune sports editor will cover Saturday's Notre Dame-Army football game. The program will be heard at the regular time, 9:15 to 9:30 p. m., over station WENR. In addition to the forecasts of college and service football games over the nation, Ward will tell what has happened to the Notre Dame players who started against Army 25 years ago. This was the first Notre Dame-Army game covered by The Tribune sports editor.

California Schools Net $210,322 from Race Meet

Inglewood, Cal., Nov. 8 (AP).—The sum of $210,322 will accrue to California's state university, agricultural schools, and state and county fairs from horse racing thus far in the current Hollywood Park meeting that opened Nov. 1.

CHARITY RACE CARDS BOOSTED TO 9 EACH DAY

Success of Tribune Venture Assured.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Success of The Chicago Tribune charities' week of racing at Sportsman's Park is assured as the six day meeting goes into it's fourth day today, but the National Jockey club, acting as agent for THE TRIBUNE, has added a ninth race to each of the three remaining programs in a move to lift the net proceeds of the project to well over $200,000.

The first three days, climaxed yesterday by a program honoring Maj. Ednyfed H. Williams, chairman of the Illinois Racing board and president of the association of State Racing commissioners, already has swollen Illinois racing's contribution to charitable organizations to $900,000, with the million dollar mark easily within reach.

$83,000 Is Distributed.

Checks totaling $83,000 were distributed yesterday by President John L. Keeshin to representatives of six Chicago institutions, the net proceeds of last Friday's and Saturday's racing, which closed the Sportsman's Park regular fall meeting.

To the C. Y. O. Back of the Yards club building fund went $50,400; the Ladies Aid Society of Passavant Memorial Hospital auxiliary received $10,080; Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children received $8,400; Chicago Service Men's centers, $5,880; Associated Talmud Torahs, $5,880, and La Rabida Jackson Park sanitary, $3,360.

Bob's Dream Wins.

The attendance yesterday was 9,799, which brought the total for the three days to 28,229 and raised the mutuel handle over the $2,000,000 mark. Betting yesterday amounted to $666,671.

The Hilltop stock farm's Bob's Dream, ridden by Paul Glidewell, got up in the last sixteenth to win the day's feature, the $2,000 Maj. Ednyfed Williams handicap.

Rosy Brand got off in front in the field of five and held a four length lead for a mile of the mile and 70 yard affair, then folded up as the well rated Bob's Dream made his move coming out of the stretch turn the third time around the half mile track. The winner paid $9.40, $4.60, and $2.60.

$44.40 Daily Double.

The daily double was worth $44.40 when Gayle F. scored at $7.20 in the opener and Lookout Rascal came thru in the second at $14.40. The third race, named in honor of Clement Nance, secretary of the Illinois racing board, went to Rotamai, which returned $6.60.

Devil's Frolic at $13.60, won the fourth event, the William E. Fay purse, named for one of the racing board members. The fifth, the Jesters purse, was won by Play Grier, which paid $8.20.

The General, owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott and piloted by Ken Robertson, accounted for the seventh race, the Frank E. Mandel purse, named for another member of the racing board. The General paid $12.40.

Lane-Savold Bout Off; New Date Sought

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Lee Savold's scheduled 10 round bout with Larry Lane in the Coliseum last night was postponed until next month because of a leg injury Lane suffered in a workout in C. Y. O. center gymnasium last Saturday. The next available date will be Christmas week, Leo Seltzer of the Coliseum said.

Lane was hardly able to walk when he appeared at the Illinois Athletic commission to be examined yesterday afternoon. Dr. John Drammis, chief medical examiner for the commission, didn't even bother to examine the fighter, who has a torn tendon in his leg. The physician immediately went into consultation with Matchmaker Jack Kearns and Commissioners Sheldon Clark and Lt. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, after which it was decided that since Lane couldn't walk he couldn't fight. The fighters weren't even asked to weigh-in.

It was suggested that Clarence Brown, who was booked to meet Johnny Flanagan in a six round semi-windup on the card, might substitute for Lane, but this fell thru when Brown failed to show up for his match with Flanagan.

CHARITY ENJOYS A BIG DAY AT THE RACES

Checks totaling $83,000, the gift of Chicago racing, were distributed to representatives of charitable organizations yesterday at Sportsman's Park in connection with the day's turf program, arranged to honor Maj. Ednyfed H. Williams, chairman of the Illinois racing board and president of the association of state racing commissioners. Watching Maj. Williams distribute the checks are, left to right: Edward L. Ryerson, Community Chest representative; Ald. James B. Bowler, Maj. Williams, Bryan Reid, Passavant Memorial hospital representative; Howell W. Murray of the Community Chest; Thomas J. Houston and A. E. Mills, Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children representatives, and John L. Keeshin, president of the National Jockey club, agents for The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in conducting the current week of charity racing at Sportsman's. (TRIBUNE Photo.)

FUNDERBURG IS FEARED LOST TO N. U. SATURDAY

The injury jinx that has beset Northwestern's football team this season, struck again yesterday when it was learned that Bob Funderburg, first string full back, probably will miss Saturday's game with Purdue because of a pulled leg muscle suffered in last week's Minnesota game. The injury has been slow in responding to treatment and Trainer Carl Erickson reported yesterday that it was extremely doubtful if Funderburg would play against the Boilermakers.

Bob Funderburg.

With Funderburg out of action Coach Lynn Waldorf began preparations yesterday to groom Freshmen Jack Doyle and Bill Brophy for the full back spot. Doyle, former Milwaukee high school star, was shifted from quarter back to full back last week when Jim Meulendyke entered military service.

Clawson Full Back Possibility.

Neither Doyle nor Brophy has seen much action in the line plunging position this season. Under the alignment of backs in Northwestern's newly installed T formation, Frank [Red] Clawson, erstwhile quarter back, may also operate at full back. Clawson, a brother of Don Clawson, Wildcat full back of three years ago, turned in some impressive ball carrying against Minnesota last week, when he gained 41 yards in six attempts.

All of Coach Waldorf's worries are not confined to the back field this year. Jim O'Malley, regular center, is on the sidelines with a leg infection which may incapacitate him Saturday.

New Men Join Squad.

The guard situation, which was becoming acute as a result of recent navy transfers, was relieved somewhat yesterday by the addition of Bill Travers, 185 pound guard, who came to the Wildcats from Iowa State where he was a V-12 trainee. Other newcomers via the V-12 program are Ray Miller of Notre Dame, and S. A. Gorski of St. Mary's [Minnesota], ends; F. C. Conly, tackle, and J. P. Curtis, center, of Dickinson college.

PROMOTIONS AT PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 8 [Special].—Coach Cecil Isbell dug down into the ranks of the B squad again this afternoon to unearth Leonard Schipferling of Menasha, Wis., as a possible replacement for his depleted Purdue back field forces.

Schipferling, a 174 pound marine V-12 trainee, was being groomed for both the left half back and quarter back berths in preparation for the game with Northwestern's Wildcats at Evanston Saturday. Schipferling is the second B team member to be drafted for the varsity since navy transfers and injuries to Ed Cody and George Mihal removed seven out of the eight first ranking backs within a one week period. Alan Dale of South Pasadena, Cal., is another B squad member who is being groomed for a half back spot.

National Plant Sports Group Is Proposed

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 8.—Plans for a proposed national industrial athletic conference were presented at tonight's session of the Purdue university industrial recreation clinic attended by representatives of 102 industrial concerns from the midwest, east, and south.

The proposed organization would operate in the industrial field in much the same manner as do the western and other conferences in collegiate circles. It would foster uniform rules of competition, establish means of determining district and national industrial sports championships and act as a parent organization in the developing of sectional conferences.

Edmund, Kanary Offer Plan.

The plan, which also calls for the selection of a national industrial sports commissioner, was presented by W. H. Edmund, director of recreation and education for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., Akron, O., and Thomas C. Kanary, who holds a similar position with the Dow Chemical Co., Midland, Mich.

The clinic, which will run thru Friday, opened this afternoon with brief welcome talks by Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, director of Industrial Recreation at Purdue, Dr. Edward C. Elliott, president of the university and Guy J. Mackey, director of athletics. The chief afternoon speaker was Milton M. Olander, former University of Illinois football star and now director of industrial relation in the Toledo plant of the Owens Illinois Glass Co.

Expected Attendance Doubled.

Preparations for the conference, second to be held at Purdue, were on a basis of anticipated representation of 50 companies and plans were made to limit the registrations to that number. However, the interest was so great that Dr. Floyd Easterwood, director of the clinic, after consulting with the board of directors, decided that the purpose of the affair might best be served by accepting all who wished to enroll. As a result, the registrations are more than double the original goal with 102 firms represented at the opening session.

MILLERS WON'T BE SOLD AT ANY PRICE—KELLEY

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 8 (AP).—Proposed sale of the Minneapolis club of the American association to the Philadelphia Americans is definitely off, the Minneapolis Tribune said tonight, quoting Mike Kelley, Minneapolis Millers' owner.

"I talked with Connie Mack," Kelley was quoted by the Tribune. "He told me that while the purchase price was satisfactory, the terms I insisted upon were not agreeable to his directors. Therefore, the deal is definitely off."

Kelley added that he desired to make a definite statement that the Minneapolis baseball club is not for sale on any terms.

Kelley said he is now going ahead with plans for the 1945 season.

KAPTER CHOSEN TO LEAD IOWA SEAHAWKS TEAM

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 8 [Special].—Guard Alex Kapter, 1943 Northwestern leader, today was named by Lt. Comdr. Jack Meagher as acting captain for the Iowa Seahawks here Saturday against unbeaten Bunker Hill Naval Air station.

No changes were planned in the starting lineup, which has won the last seven games since dropping the opener to Michigan, other than at center, where Dick Ramlow has taken the edge over Bill Sprang to replace the detached George Strohmeyer.

TILDEN, AUSTIN AWAIT PLAY-OFF GAME SATURDAY

Tilden High school's football team, champions of the central section the City league, and Austin High school, champions of the west division, yesterday went thru strenuous practice sessions for their semi-final game in the City league playoffs, scheduled for 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Shewbridge field.

Both teams are looking toward the Kelly bowl game in Soldiers' field on Dec. 2, when the public school champions will meet the Catholic league title holders in a game that most likely will attract the largest attendance of any football game, high school, college, or professional, this season. More than 90,000 are expected in Soldiers' field when the Public School league goes after its first Kelly bowl victory over a Catholic league rival since 1940, when Fenger defeated Leo, 18 to 0.

Bill Helland.

Chuck Harvey.

The winner of the Austin-Tilden game will meet the victor of the Fenger-Lane Tech game, to be played Saturday in Soldiers' field, to determine who will meet the Catholic title holder. Either Weber High school, or Fenwick, who play off on Sunday, Nov. 19, will represent the parochial schools.

Tilden Boasts 10 Veterans.

Tilden will go into the semi-final playoff with one tie, a 14 to 14 deadlock with Lindblom, on its record, while Austin has a 0 to 0 tie with Lane, a 13 to 13 tie with Crane, and a 7 to 6 defeat at the hands of Fenwick, on its record. Both teams are well balanced, and have spread out their scoring. It is significant that not one Austin or Tilden man is on the honor roll of the 12 leading scorers in the City league.

Coach Chuck Harvey of Tilden, whose squad uses Notre Dame formations, started the season with 10 veterans left from last year's squad that tied with Lindblom for second place honors in the central section. He would have had more, but the services took several of Harvey's top ranking players. However, around this nucleus of 10, Harvey built a formidable outfit, and "they have lots of spirit," he said yesterday.

Tilden has played in the Kelly bowl twice, losing to Leo, 46 to 13, in 1941, and again losing to Leo, 27 to 14, in 1942.

Veteran Tilden Back Field.

Over at Austin, which practiced in Shewbridge field Tuesday and in Key Branch stadium yesterday, Coach Bill Helland has a squad that includes nine letter men from the 1943 outfit, and boasts a back field that is almost entirely veteran. The early season tie with Lane Tech was the only game which marred Lane's league record, the 7 to 6 defeat by Fenwick can't be regarded as a disgrace since Fenwick won the north section title of the Catholic league last week. The 13 to 13 tie with Crane was against a strong squad, and it might have put Austin in the hole in the west section race, had not the squad come back strong, and gained more strength as the season advanced.

Meanwhile, Lane Tech's northern champions, and the south section title holders, Fenger's Titans, continued workouts for their semi-final contest in Soldier's field Saturday. Lane has a perfect record, aside from the Austin tie, while Fenger is rated as one of the state's strongest teams.

ARMY RETURNS STAR CATCHER TO CIVILIAN LIFE

Chicagoans Have 5 Receivers Now.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Thompson Orville Livingston, known in the baseball trade as Mickey, will be back next season to handle the No. 1 role in the Cubs' catching department. His return to baseball flannels was announced yesterday by Vice President Jim Gallagher upon receipt of a letter in which the player offered the information that he had been discharged from the army. In his haste Mickey neglected to give the reason for the discharge, after about eight months of service, but it probably was because of an old baseball injury.

Mickey Livingston.

The unexpected bouncing back of the lad who rates high as a major league backstop was for the pennant-dreaming Gallagher like a premature visit from Santa Claus. Livingston, on his record, not only is far above the run of mine players, but will put armor plate on the spot that was the Cubs' most glaring weakness last season.

Came to Cubs for Lee.

Livingston came to the Cubs in the middle of the 1943 season in the deal that sent Bill Lee to the Phillies. The catcher had been with the Phillies since the start of the 1941 season, landing there as one of the parcels handed over by the Brooklyn Dodgers along with $100,000 for Pitcher Kirby Higbe. The Dodgers had previously drafted Livingston from the Springfield, Mass. club and before that he had done a couple short stretches with the Washington Senators. He went into the army late last winter.

Despite the catching situation the Cubs' released two of their receivers at the end of the last season but now find five such variety of performers on the roster. One is Dewey Williams, purchased in midseason from Toronto for $25,000. Joe Stephenson was bought late in the season from Jersey City and at about the same time Paul Gillespie returned after almost two years in the coast guard. Last week Leonard Rice was drafted for $7,500 from the Syracuse club.

He's 28—Maybe 30!

Livingston apparently doesn't keep books on his age, a common habit with ball players. In some of the record books he is listed as born in 1916, but in the Cubs' private files the information as furnished by the player gives the year as 1914. That would make him 30 on Nov. 15, but 30 or 28 is a minor detail for the Cubs. As a Cub he batted .261 in 36 games in '43.

With both Outfielder Harry [Peanuts] Lowrey and Livingston returned by the army the Cubs now have 42 candidates for jobs next season, the total being two over the legal limit. However, there is a catch in this. Under the procedure for handling service men they don't have to be counted on the active roster until the end of the training trip.

HOPPE LEADS IN COCHRAN MATCH BY SINGLE POINT

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 8 (AP).—Welker Cochran of San Francisco tonight won the second block of the 1,500 point world championship three-cushion billiard match with Champion Willie Hoppe of New York, 50-45 in 45 innings. Each had a high run of five.

Scoring in the second block stopped with Cochran holding a 50-51 advantage. This, added to the count of the afternoon block, which Hoppe won, 50-48 in 48 innings, gave a total score of 100 for Hoppe, 99 for Cochran.

PARATROOPER TO MEET JAMES IN LONDON BOUT

LONDON, Nov. 8 [Reuter].—A British paratrooper, who took part in the Arnhem battle, will fight the British lightweight champion here on Nov. 27. He is Sgt. Gwyn Williams who, altho only 22 years old, has won 63 of his 65 fights, beating the two that defeated him in return contests. Since his return from Arnhem, William already has gained one quick victory.

He will be put to a severe test, according to experts, when facing Sergeant-Instructor Ronnie James, who will appear for the first time in the ring since he won the British lightweight title.

FIND WINNING ELEVENS GUILTY OF MOST FOULS

Records Trace Penalties to Aggressiveness.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The winning football team should be expected to commit more fouls and receive more penalties than a losing football team. This assertion is true at least for the 13 college and professional games for which we have kept records this season for in 11 instances the winners were penalized more times than the losers, there was one tie, and in the other game, when Michigan defeated the Iowa Seahawks, the Wolverins were called for four infractions compared to seven for the Pre-Flight squad.

One deduction from these figures, subject to debate, of course, is that the winning team is penalized more frequently because it is the aggressor. In other words, the eleven more highly keyed is more apt to charge off-side, to hold, or to make an illegal block. If the winning team has possession of the ball for an appreciable larger number of times, it follows there should be variance in number of penalties in favor of the winners. Yet this same observation holds true in closely fought games.

Reduce Seahawks' Score.

Penalties for time out should be disregarded since they do not reflect the manner of play and generally are the result of extra substitutions.

In the Michigan-Seahawk game, two of Pre-Flights seven penalties were for extra times out. This would reduce the Seahawks' score to 5 to 4. Michigan, however, lost 50 yards on its penalties compared to 33 yards assessed the Seahawks.

Rarely is any player ever offside intentionally. This foul is the result of overeagerness. The same is true of clipping, which calls for a 15 yard penalty from the point of the foul. In general, the man who clips [blocking from behind] either fails in attempt to block legally or forgets the penalty for this type of play. Fifteen yards also is assessed for roughness and holding.

Illini Assessed 85 Yards.

The penalty for an illegal shift also is 15 yards and Illinois received two such assessments in its game with Indiana which the Illini won, 26 to 18. In that same game Illinois also was penalized 15 yards for clipping, 15 yards for roughness, and 15 yards for holding. In all, the Illini lost 85 yards by penalty and this game helped to give Illinois first place in the Big Nine in yards penalized per game.

The average yards lost by penalty for each conference university this year and the number of Big Nine games for each follow:

Illinois	3	68.3
Minnesota	2	57.3
Purdue	4	46.5
Michigan	4	43.2
Ohio State	4	42
Iowa	4	40
Indiana	5	35
Wisconsin	3	28.3
Northwestern	3	24

In 13 games we have seen this season there have been 129 penalties, an average of approximately 10 per game. This does not include, however, penalties declined when position of the ball and loss of a down is more advantageous than acceptance of the yards penalized. Penalties declined and assessed slow up the game since the clock is stopped.

Thompsons, C. & G. Win 2 in Classic

The Chapin & Gore and Thompson Restaurant bowling teams remained tied for the lead in the standings of the Classic league as a result of matches rolled in the Northwest Lions alleys, 4308 W. North av., last night.

Each team won two games, the C. & G.'s taking a pair from the Meister Braus, defending champions, and the Thompsons doing the same to the Sunkist Pies. The C. & G.'s won their games by close margins, however, taking the opener by a single pin and the second contest by two.

Similarly, the tie for third place still exists as the Congress Arcade and DuBouchett Liquor teams each dropped a pair, the former to the Monarch Beers and the latter to the Washington Shirts.

In the remaining match the Keeley Half and Half five took two from the Prima Beers and in winning, the Keeleys shot the highest team total of the evening, 2,909. Jack Scott of Congress Arcade had a high single of 235 and Wally Genter of the same team turned in high series of 627.

SECRET DRILL INDICATES ARMY RESPECTS IRISH

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 8 [Special].—Altho an unofficial conviction that Army should have little trouble in beating Notre Dame Saturday holds sway in this vicinity, Coach Earl Blaik of the West Point cadets evidently does not share 100 per cent in this feeling.

For the second time in his long career as a football coach, Blaik today directed his team thru an extensive secret practice. After the practice, Blaik said that most of the afternoon was spent in defensive formations aimed to stop the Irish passing attack which set up their only touchdowns against Navy last Saturday.

Blaik Praises Dancewicz.

"Notre Dame will look better defensively against us than against Navy," said Blaik. "That's because Notre Dame is accustomed to stopping the T formation which we use, but they were not as well prepared for the single wing power that the Navy threw at them."

Explaining his concentration on a defense against passing, Blaik said he regarded Frank Dancewicz as one of the best passers he ever has seen. "I am not exaggerating," continued Blaik, "when I say that Dancewicz is as good as Bertelli."

As far as his own team is concerned, Blaik said he has decided to start Dean Sensanbaugher, former Ohio State star, at full back against Notre Dame. Sensanbaugher, who played left half until last week, replaces Bob Dodds, who has not recovered from a leg injury.

IRISH GO EAST TODAY.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 8 [Special].—Bob Kelly, Notre Dame's star right half back, was prominent during today's practice in the rain and mud, with his punting and pass receiving. This was the squad's final workout before tomorrow afternoon's departure for the annual game in New York with the Army.

Kelly averaged 46 yards from the line of scrimmage with his punts in the Navy game last Saturday, and was doing as well today in scrimmage. Coach Ed McKeever welcomed the adverse weather conditions today because the players have had good weather for all games this fall except the second half of the Dartmouth game in Boston. Today's conditions gave the backs and pass receivers good practice at handling a slippery ball.

Two Positions Change.

McKeever said there probably will be changes only at left half back and center. The back field position was left open by the transfer of George Terlep to pre-midshipmen's school after the Navy game. Nunzio Marino, one of three freshmen candidates, probably will win the assignment. He has had more experience than the other two—Bill Chandler and Jim Brennan.

Frank Szymanski, star defensive center of the 1943 team, has taken over that position following his return to school upon receiving a medical discharge from naval aviation.

Veteran Duck Guides Fooled by Mallards

BY BEN MARKLAND.

Reports of hunters fooling ducks aren't uncommon, but when we were in a hunting blind near Henry, Ill., a few days ago the ducks reversed the procedure and made the hunters wonder if they had learned all their lessons.

It was a rainy day, with the thermometer falling. There were reports of cold weather with snow flurries in the northern states and Canada, and plenty of mallards and widgeon were trading back and forth over the marsh. Veteran duck guides added all these signs together and concluded that a major flight had come down from the north—a logical conclusion inasmuch as the flying population in the Henry area was the highest of the season.

Hunters' Guesses Wrong.

A checkup with Frank Bellrose Jr., game technician of the Illinois Natural History survey, showed that the hunters' guesses were incorrect. The new birds seen in the Henry area had come from the south rather than from the north. About 15,000 ducks, mainly mallards, had moved north from the area around Havana, 30 miles below Peoria, to the Henry district 30 miles above Peoria. At that time there had been no major flight of northern ducks into the river valley, and the increased number seen on Lake Senachwine and other marshes near Henry were the product of this "reverse migration."

How to Tell.

One way that hunters can tell a local movement of ducks from a new flight from the north is by the decoying tactics of the mallards. If the birds are from a fresh flight they usually respond readily to a set of wooden decoys and a caller, but if they have just moved in from a nearby slough which had been heavily shot it is difficult to bring them into gun range.

SURPLUS SALES TOP 85 MILLION AS OF SEPT. 30

Clayton Tells Policy and Progress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—The surplus war property administration had disposed of $85,007,000 of surplus goods by Sept. 30 and had goods costing $465,207,000 on hand for disposal, Administrator Clayton reported today to War Mobilization Director Byrnes. The report covered the SWPA's activities in the seven months of its existence and outlined the agency's structure and policies which will govern future operations.

Any large disposal program must be conducted so it will not disrupt markets or dislocate the domestic economy, Clayton said. He asserted that disposal of surplus property during the war benefits the economy because it satisfies demand for scarce goods and reduces the quantities which will be hanging over the market after the war.

Early Disposal Urged.

"The necessity to avoid market disruption does not mean that surpluses should be frozen until they rot, become obsolete, or their values are dissipated in storage charges," Clayton asserted. "No greater disservice could be done to the economy in general or to the tax payer in particular than to fail to realize on the value and economic usefulness of surpluses, or to leave them indefinitely and unproductively overhanging the market.

"These are assets of tremendous value. They will be real forces not alone in making the peace, but in opening to the whole world, and therefore to us, vast opportunities."

Clayton said that aircraft and aircraft parts and equipment probably would constitute the largest single surplus property group in terms of quantity and original cost. Present aircraft surpluses are primarily "war-weary" combat planes, obsolete types, and trainers, he reported. As of Oct. 17 planes and parts costing $312,952,725 were listed as surplus.

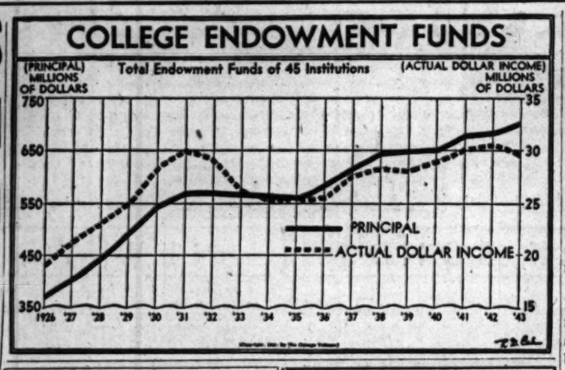
17 of 1,146 Plants Surplus.

The report said that the government owns 1,146 industrial plants, privately operated for war production, of which 17 are for sale as surplus. The government owns 500,000 to 600,000 machine tools, a "very large" proportion of which will become surplus eventually. The real problem of surplus plant and machine tool disposal is ahead, Clayton said.

The guiding principle of surplus property disposal has been to obtain the widest possible distribution at fair prices and in quantities small enough to give small buyers equal opportunity to compete with larger purchasers, Clayton explained. He said that use of commercial trade channels in disposal is desired to avoid the expense and red tape of the government's entering the retail field, which would result in government competition with private business.

NHA to Fix New Priorities for Douglas War Homes

The national housing agency today will announce new quota priorities for 750 war worker homes to be built by private builders for workers in the Douglas Aircraft plant. Builders who agree to give preference to renters over purchasers will receive the priorities, it was said. Leonard R. McDonald, head of war housing center, said all applicants for the new homes will have to be certified by WHC as to their eligibility as war workers.



Cigaret Chase Adds Life to Pipe Business

Retailers' pipe counters are drawing more attention these days as the frantic chase of the elusive cigaret grows in intensity. Several retailers said yesterday that demand for pipes, accessories, and pipe tobacco had increased especially in the last week.

Suburban commuters reported the number of men lighting up pipes on the trains had increased noticeably, and the average office contains a couple of males who have dragged out the stored-away pipe on which to take an occasional puff. It is a safe bet that Santa Claus will leave more pipes in the Christmas sock this year.

Two Pieces of Optimism.

Some men found one optimistic note, however. Altho the increased consumption by women has made the shortage more acute, it is agreed that few will adopt pipe smoking—at least in public.

An encouraging item also came in the Washington, D. C. announcement that the pre-war nickel cigar is coming back—at 7½ cents. By increasing the present ceilings for all domestic brands on the market in March, 1942, the office of price administration said, manufacturers will be able to resume production of lower priced brands.

How OPA Figures Saving.

Here's how OPA figured cigar smokers will be able to save 50 million dollars a year despite the higher prices: The 5-center, which became a 6-center in November, 1942, has almost disappeared, forcing smokers to buy 15-centers. "The saving," as OPA put it, "will represent the difference between the cost to the consumer of the lower priced cigars that will again be available, and the cost of higher priced substitutes."

Manufacturers, under the new regulation, must produce low priced brands in the same ratio with higher priced brands that existed in the first six months of 1943. The new ceilings become effective Nov. 13.

COKE COMPANY'S REFUNDING LOAN OFFERED TODAY

A banking group headed by Hemphill, Noyes & Co. will offer today $3,400,000 of Pittsburgh Coke & Chemical company 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds, due Nov. 1, 1964, at 99½ and accrued interest. Proceeds and other funds will be used to redeem outstanding 4½ per cent first mortgage bonds.

Kidder, Peabody & Co., yesterday offered 101,593 shares of Shamrock Oil and Gas corporation common stock at $6.75 a share. They were disposed of by stockholders and none of the proceeds will go to the corporation.

AUGUST CORPORATION OFFERINGS SET NEW HIGH OF THREE YEARS

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP).—American corporate business issued 229 million dollars in securities during August—highest total since August of 1941—the securities and exchange commission bulletin for October disclosed today. Included were 135 million in railroad offerings, the largest since June, 1936.

Total trading on registered stock exchanges in September reached $723,308,000, with the New York Stock and Curb exchanges accounting for $678,310,000, the SEC study said.

BOEING OBTAINS NEW CONTRACT FOR 1,000 B-29S

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 8 (AP).—Boeing Aircraft company today announced it had received a new contract from the war department for 1,000 B-29 Superfortresses, increasing its backlog of unfilled orders to approximately 1 billion 145 million dollars.

The war department authorized publication of the size of the new order, the company said, but the number of B-29s included in previous orders still was withheld for security reasons.

C. L. Egtvedt, Boeing chairman, asserted that the new order meant a continued need for man power at company plants. He said "both Boeing and army officials stressed that the end of the war in Europe in no way will affect the Boeing production on schedules. The B-29 definitely has been designated to bear the brunt of the 'softening up' program against Japan before the ultimate invasion."

The 1,000-plane contract for the Seattle and Renton plants is in addition to a recent order for 700 B-29s placed with the Boeing-Wichita factory.

CHRISTMAS CLUB SAVINGS CLIMB TO 500 MILLIONS

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—Distribution of 500 million dollars to 7 million Christmas club members beginning Nov. 27 will represent an increase of 20 per cent over last year's total, Herbert F. Rawll, founder and president of Christmas Club, Inc., said today.

The average per member distribution this year will be about $70, the highest average in the 34 years of club operation, Rawll said. Last year's average was $56.

The Christmas funds will be distributed by 4,800 banking and savings institutions and other organizations.

Banker Group to Study Peace Industry Outlook

Post-war taxes, interest rates, and the effect of war time technological advances on peace time industry will be discussed at the 14th mid-continent conference of the trust division of the American Bankers' association in the Drake hotel today and tomorrow.

Stocks Regain Balance After Sagging Early

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—Financial markets accepted the election results with composure today. Only mild irregularity was shown by stocks and bonds, and most commodities turned higher.

Stocks slipped in early trade, with low priced utilities down minor fractions on blocks of 1,000 to 30,000 shares. These issues apparently had been bought in the nature of a bet on the election, in the belief that they would push up if the Republicans won, but would not recede much if the Roosevelt administration were retained. Holders, consequently, liquidated at the start at declines of ⅛ to ¼ of a point.

Gains Nearly Equal Losses.

Prices began to harden before noon, and extreme setbacks were reduced in the majority of cases. Rails and various selected issues were bid up modestly in the afternoon and final gains were nearly as numerous as recessions of fractions to around 2 points. Except for the low priced issues, dealings were relatively slack.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was unchanged at 55.4. Of 822 issues registering, 331 were down, 283 up, and 208 unchanged. Transfers totaled 732,330 shares compared with 866,230 Monday.

Boeing Aircraft ran up 2 points to a 1944 peak on announcement of a big army order for Super Fortresses. Westinghouse Electric fell 2. Childs company preferred on the Curb added 5 more points to its recent upswing.

BOND PRICES NARROW.

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—The bond market adjusted itself quickly today to whatever elements of surprise there were in the election and moved in a narrow, slightly irregular course.

Stronger issues, some with gains of a point, included Milwaukee road 5s of 1975, Rock Island 4½s, Childs company 5s, Big Four 4½s, Florida East Coast 5s, Maine Central 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5s, New York Central 4s, 'Frisco 4s, and Southern Pacific 4½s.

CHICAGO LIST EASES.

Prices were slightly lower on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday in turnover of 19,000 shares. Volume leaders included Chicago corporation and Domestic Industries, both up ⅛; American Radiator, down ⅜, and Commonwealth Edison, unchanged. Midland United preferred reached a new high for the year at 28¼ but closed at 27⅞, down ⅛.

U. S. GYPSUM'S EARNINGS SHOW DECLINE IN 1944

United States Gypsum company and subsidiaries yesterday reported a decline of 16.6 per cent in earnings in the quarter ended Sept. 30 compared with a year earlier.

Net profit in the 1944 quarter was $1,023,408, equal to 74 cents a common share, against $1,227,264 or 91 cents a share. Earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 30 declined 17.5 per cent, from $3,873,089, or $2.89 a share, to $3,193,674, or $2.32 a share in 1944.

Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company reported net income for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31 of $1,940,492, equal to $3.14 a share on combined class A and B shares. Earnings for the preceding year were $1,791,227, or $3.27 a share.

Retail Store Sales Gain 7 Pct., Pass 49 Billions

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 [Special].—Sales of all retail stores in the first nine months of 1944 were 49 billion 110 million dollars, 7 per cent above a year earlier, the department of commerce reported today.

CHEESEMAKERS EXPECT TO FILL BIG U. S. NEEDS

Develop New Skill in Production.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Domestic production of cheese after the war will be sufficient to meet all American cheese requirements, Chicago processors predicted yesterday. Cheesemakers in Wisconsin, New York, Illinois, and other states possess much of the skill of foreign producers and have unique techniques of their own, they said.

American cheese production for years has far outstripped foreign imports, but imports represented a sizable amount of business, exceeding more than 50 million pounds a year.

Domestic Cheese More Popular.

As a result of the absence of European cheeses from the American market during the war American consumers have become better acquainted with the high quality of domestic cheeses. Larger producers said it will be difficult for Europeans to get back their old market in this country.

It is likely, however, that some foreign cheese will be sold to consumers willing to pay a premium for imported kinds. Swiss cheese was probably the heaviest foreign importation before the war.

Cheese has been made in America for about 150 years and some types of the domestic product—notably American—have always been in demand for their own qualities. However, Roquefort, Camembert, Gorgonzola, Swiss, Edam, Parmesan, and other types were imported in large amounts before the war. Accustomed, since the war began to the home made types of these varieties, Americans, it is said, have learned to appreciate them, altho war has restricted the manufacture and general distribution of so-called luxury cheeses.

Popular Foreign Types.

Among the more popular of the imported cheeses were Roquefort, obtained mostly from France, and blue cheese, similar to Roquefort, imported mostly from France and Denmark.

Cheesemakers near Nauvoo, Ill., were among the first to start Roquefort type cheese production in this country. They made their products in caves along the Illinois side of the Mississippi river. Later cheese of both the Roquefort and blue type was made in caves along the Mississippi in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Iowa. The war has made these types scarce.

Camembert type cheese is made largely in New York state, but some is produced in Wisconsin. Gorgonzola, also similar to Roquefort and imported from Italy before the war, is produced in large amounts in Wisconsin. It is described as "perfectly satisfactory."

Production Is Expanded.

Domestic production of Swiss type cheese has been expanded and one leading producer predicts little will be imported from Switzerland after the war. Wisconsin leads in the production of Swiss type. Illinois and Ohio also are heavy producers.

Average annual cheese imports from 1931 to 1935 were 52,715,000 pounds. Imports since follow: 1936, 59,849,000 pounds; 1937, 60,650,000 pounds; 1938, 54,432,000 pounds; 1939, 59,071,000 pounds, and 1940, 32,623,000 pounds.

American cheese production follows: 1931, 492,379,000 pounds; 1935, 620,956,000 pounds, and for subsequent years: 1936, 642,551,000; 1937, 648,998,000; 1938, 724,574,000; 1939, 700,911,000; 1940, 783,814,000, and 1941, 916,590,000 pounds.

CCC Plan for Lower Foreign Cotton Price Termed Harmful

Commodity Credit corporation proposals to sell cotton abroad at prices below the domestic market, with the government bearing the loss, may solve an immediate price problem, but they entail harmful long-range results, the National City Bank of New York said yesterday in its monthly business letter.

"The support of domestic prices above world markets first reduces exports," the publication said. "Loss of exports leads to accumulation of stocks, despite crop restriction. Accumulation of stocks leads in turn to export subsidies, and export subsidies to international agreements involving more crop restriction.

Subsidy Held Self-Defeating.

"Among economists it is almost universally agreed that in the long run export subsidies employed for competitive purposes are self-defeating and mutually destructive, constituting an international price war. The cotton subsidy, will add to the supply of cotton offered in the world market and will depress prices of foreign cottons further, other things being equal.

"It will invite reprisals, such as new or increased subsidies by other cotton growing countries. It is in conflict with the liberal trade policies of Secretary of State Hull and the state department, and with the established policy of this country which condemns subsidies on goods sold by other countries to the United States.

"The wide gap between the price of cotton to spinners at home and to spinners of other countries will in due course make it impossible for American cotton manufacturers to export their goods, and will compel new measures to restrict imports of foreign cotton goods."

The publication said the alternative to subsidies or selling below the domestic price was to apportion markets among various cotton growing countries and set up export quotas. It added that the objective was to raise prices, but the consequence was to reduce consumption and influence cotton users to try other fibers.

Competition Is Increasing.

"Cotton does not enjoy a monopoly, but is subject to increasing competition from synthetic fibers," the periodical warned. "The development of synthetics has been a tremendous influence in checking the growth of cotton consumption, and all the evidence is that this development will continue, including increased use of rayon in tires. The history of rayon is one of improving qualities at lower prices, and the higher the price of cotton the greater its inroads on cotton consumption can be expected to be."

Raise More Cotton

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 (AP).—The agriculture department reported today that the cotton crop this year was 12,320,000 bales of 500 pounds, compared with 11,953,000 indicated a month ago, 11,427,000 produced last year, and a 10 year [1933-'42] average production of 12,455,000 bales. Indicated acre yield as of Nov. 1 was 293.3 pounds, a record. The previous peak acre yield was 272.4 pounds in 1942.

People and Events

The Chicago chapter of Chartered Life Underwriters yesterday announced that it would sponsor an economic conference Nov. 16 in the La Salle hotel. Atty. Ellsworth C. Alvord, Washington, D. C., treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will discuss post-war taxes. Simeon E. Leland, Federal Reserve chairman of the bank of Chicago, will speak on national debt and its management. Charles R. White, regional manager of the committee for economic development, will talk on planning in industry.

Simeon E. Leland.

The National Standard Parts association will open its five day annual convention in the Hotel Sherman today to plan a program for post-war distribution of automotive parts. War regulations; aptitude testing, industry advertising, wages, pensions and hospitalization, jobber advertising, catalog standards, shop time studies, and market analysis will be discussed.

A. B. Newton, staff engineer in charge of commercial refrigeration for the Air-Temp division of Chrysler corporation, Dayton, O., will address the Chicago chapter of the American Society of Refrigerating Engineers today in the Drake hotel.

Harry M. Gustafson announced his resignation as treasurer of Victor Adding Machine company to form his own organization, specializing in the negotiation of government war contract terminations.

SOCONY-VACUUM AND GULF VOTE EXTRA DIVIDENDS

Socony-Vacuum Oil company yesterday declared an extra dividend of 25 cents, making total payments this year 75 cents, compared with 50 cents a year ago. American Gas and Electric company authorized an extra dividend of 20 cents, the same as last year, with the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents. Gulf Oil corporation voted a special dividend of 50 cents with the regular quarterly of 25 cents, lifting 1944 payments to $2, compared with $1.50 in 1943.

The New York Central railroad voted a dividend of $1 a share. It paid 50 cents in July and $1 last January. Directors called for redemption Dec. 27 at 102½ and accrued interest the 15 year secured 3¼ per cent bonds due May 1, 1952.

J. P. Morgan & Co. voted a dividend of $2 which brought payments this year to $6.50, compared with $6 in 1943.

Rock Island Repayment to RFC Approved by Igoe

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday authorized trustees of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad to repay $13,718,000 which the Reconstruction Finance corporation lent the road on six promissory notes in 1932 and 1933. Joseph B. Fleming and Aaron Colnon are the trustees. The railroad also will pay 4 per cent interest.

PACT TO SPEED WAR CONTRACT SETTLING MADE

Studebaker Acts to Aid Peace Shift.

Studebaker corporation and the Chicago ordnance district have reached a predetermination agreement on the settlement of Studebaker's "Weasel" contract that will save a minimum of 30 days in reconversion to peace time production, Courtney Johnson, manager of the contract termination division of Studebaker, said yesterday.

Emphasizing that the contract had not been terminated and that as far as the company knew there was no immediate chance of it being terminated, he said the agreement was reached Monday. It has been forwarded to Washington, D. C., for final action by the office of the chief of ordnance and the readjustment division of the army service forces.

Fundamental Points Decided.

Johnson told of the supplemental agreement to the contract for the "Weasel", a light, multi-purpose army vehicle, at the war problems school of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Palmer House. Other aspects of war contract settlements and surplus property disposal were discussed by Col. Robert Isham Randolph, assistant chief of the purchasing, termination, and renegotiation policy unit of the Chicago ordnance district, and Lt. Col. William J. Hallahan, chief of the warehouse disposition branch of the Chicago district army engineers.

Johnson said Studebaker and the ordnance district were in complete agreement on all fundamental points in the predetermination, which included most items except the value and quantity of inventories. These would have to be determined at the time of a contract termination.

Points of Agreement.

The agreement covers the following points:

1. Property disposal decisions, including property to be scrapped; that which will be retained by Studebaker and the varying percentages of cost Studebaker will pay for the property it will keep; and property to be turned over to the government.
2. Application of administrative and factory overhead to the cost of items to be disposed of.
3. Allowable percentage of profits.
4. Items of post-termination cost.
5. Percentage of partial payment

WHY THEY LIKE IT

ONE of the many reasons for Times-Herald leadership is that the people of Washington like an Independent Newspaper, particularly at a time when so much of our domestic independence is at stake.

And advertisers like it because it is so much easier to sell their products in a medium on which the people are sold.

GRAIN FUTURES END STRONG ON VOTE OUTCOME

Viewed as Extending U.S. Farm Program.

Grain brokers construed the Roosevelt reelection as indicating the administration's agricultural program would be continued with the farm bloc in congress in control and likely to make further efforts to assure farmers parity prices for grain, cotton, and other leading commodities. Aggressive buying began early on the Chicago Board of Trade and altho there was a reaction, the close was strong except in corn, which finished unchanged.

Rye was the most active and closed 1¼ to 1⅝ cents a bushel higher. Wheat finished ¼ to ⅜ cent higher, oats ½ to 1 cent higher, and barley unchanged to ¾ cent higher.

New Appropriations Forecast.

Congress will reconvene next Tuesday and brokers predicted appropriation bills would be introduced for 2 billion dollars or more to carry out provisions of the price control and surplus property acts.

The relative easiness of corn after an early upturn was caused by selling induced by large country offerings of cash corn despite rains in the central west and a forecast for more. The moisture content in cash corn, however, has declined recently, and it is believed a little rain will not change this condition. Purchases for deferred shipment aggregated 275,000 bushels. Movement of cash corn to terminal markets remained heavy, primary points receiving 2,832,000 bushels over the election day holiday.

Wheat Advance Halted.

Trading in wheat futures was not large, with commission houses offering May on a scale up which checked the advance. A weather bureau weekly summary said the winter wheat crop was in good condition, altho more rain was needed, especially in the central west.

Strength in rye led to professional buying. A revival of talk of early action on the proposed beverage alcohol holiday attracted buying of rye futures. A commission house that frequently acts for cash interests sold freely on an early upturn, but the market rallied quickly after an early decline. The December rye and corn spread widened slightly and rye was at a 3¾ cents premium at the close.

RECEIPTS DROP, BUT HOG PRICES TURN DOWNWARD

Both receipts and prices declined in the hog market at the Chicago stock yards yesterday. Despite the smallest supply for a November Wednesday in three years, hogs lost mostly 10 to 15 cents of Tuesday's gains. Top loads sold 15 cents lower, at $14.50 a hundred pounds, and the average was off 10 cents, at $14.30.

Only 17,000 hogs arrived, including direct shipments to packers, a decrease of 26 per cent compared with Wednesday of last week, and 35 per cent below the corresponding day last year.

A new seven year peak of $18.50 was established in the cattle market with receipts smallest for a Wednesday in more than four months. The price was paid for fancy 1,047 and 1,020 pound yearlings, and was the second highest November price since 1927. Top grade steers ruled strong to 25 cents higher, but others were slow and barely steady. The lamb market was unchanged.

Gasoline and Oil Supplies Decrease During Week

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—The American Petroleum institute reported today that stocks of light fuel oil dropped 228,000 barrels in the week ended Nov. 4. to 48,477,000. Heavy fuel oil supplies were down 938,000 barrels at 63,444,000. Total finished and unfinished stocks of gasoline were 78,409,000 barrels against 79,058,000 the week before and 68,674,000 a year ago.

PACT TO SPEED WAR CONTRACT SETTLING TOLD

Studebaker Acts to Aid Peace Output Shift.

which will be allowed when the termination claim is made.

Johnson said that at current rates of production about 2½ million dollars would be involved if the "Weasel" contract were terminated at this time. He said the agreement was negotiated in slightly less than two months.

"If the agreement is finally approved it will provide the means to arrive at predetermination decisions with the initiative in the contractors," Johnson asserted.

Raps 'Wishful Thinking.'

Col. Hallahan, asserting there was much wishful thinking and procrastination among war contractors in planning disposal of surplus items, warned that unless industry works closely with the government, the disposal program will break down.

He urged contractors wherever possible to make available storage space for surplus goods in which the government takes title, because of the present critical lack of warehouse facilities.

He asserted that it was "good insurance" to do a little advance planning of surplus property disposal, and said a contractor should be able to establish within 5 per cent the value of the inventory in his plant.

"The contractor should plan in order to determine what can be done with his materials if his war contract is terminated," he said. "He should get together with the government so he will know what he can do toward changing over to peace time production."

Discussing procedure for the removal of government property from a plant, Col. Hallahan said the contractor should provide a list and complete description of the tools that he wishes taken out. He must convince the contracting officer that the tools are not needed for war production.

Settlement Act Criticized.

Col. Hallahan said several war producers have clauses in their contracts outlining the disposition of surplus tools. If these may result in slowing reconversion, he advised steps to have them removed.

Col. Randolph criticized failure of the contract settlement act to provide for the expense of conversion of the contractor's facilities to peace time production.

"It would seem that there might be statutory authority under the declared objectives of the act to pay reconversion expenses and to put the contractor back into position for resumption of civilian production at least no worse off than he was before he undertook his war contracts, but the section on excluded costs contradicts the declaration in section I., and it would be expecting too much of the director of contract settlements to interpret this conflict in the language of the act in favor of the contractor," he said.

"If renegotiation and the excess profits taxes have left the contractor enough money to reconvert he is evidently expected to charge these expenses against his prospective peace time business."

MAJOR MISSOURI BASIN QUESTIONS UP TO CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 (AP).—Two groups of government engineers agreed today on some phases of a proposed billion dollar water development program for the Missouri river basin, but left congress with the major decisions.

A written compact made public by Senators Overton [D., La.] and O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] said army and reclamation bureau engineers announced agreement on the size and location of the scores of dams in the project.

Nothing was said regarding amount of water to be reserved for navigation or the amount of control which should be exercised by the states, both major controversies in the long hearings last spring on the house-passed rivers and harbors and flood control bills, which are awaiting senate action. Nor was there any discussion of the over-all authority for the valley or which agency should build the dams, or how the new power should be used.

TRADE ISOLATION PERIL TO PEACE, BRITON ASSERTS

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP).—C. R. Attlee, deputy prime minister, told a group of British industrial and business leaders today that British and American coöperation should maintain in peace the civilization it saved in the war. He branded economic isolation as dangerous for the world as political isolation.

Attlee spoke at a luncheon which heard a trade survey calling in part for cancellation of British owed lend-lease balances after the war. He said that expansion of export trade by one nation did not necessarily mean its contraction by another.

Philip Reed, head of the American mission for economic affairs in London, said the world must accept the idea of economic interdependence, removing national barriers as a condition for bettering general welfare.

Slight Dip in Warehouse Use Shown in September

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8 (AP).—The census bureau said today 86.4 per cent of the occupiable space intended for public warehousing of general merchandise was occupied in September, compared with 87.9 in August.

SEC SETS HEARING.

The securities and exchange commission set Dec. 11 for a hearing on the Consolidated Electric and Gas company plan to retire the outstanding $5,083,000 of series A 5 per cent first lien and collateral trust bonds, due 1958, of Southern Cities Utilities company.

PLASTICS NEW AND OLD.

I notice many references to the plastics industry and its prospects. What are some of the newer developments?—C. D.

Altho the industry had had phenomenal growth prior to the war, producing plastics in great variety of types and uses, manufacturers are preparing for wider markets in peace time.

New uses have been found during the war. One example is spray gun skin packaging of airplanes for shipment overseas, in place of wooden cases. A vinyl plastic is employed. New kinds of plastics also have been added to the varied list previously produced from cellulose compounds, such synthetic resins as phenol-formaldehyde, urea-formaldehyde, polystyrene, and vinyls and alkyds, and protein and protein-like substances.

Du Pont a few months ago announced a new plastic, polythene, produced from ethylene derived from coal gas or petroleum. It was said to be suitable for such uses as collapsible container tubes, waterproof coatings, and electric insulation. Monsanto Chemical has announced at least three new plastic materials this year. Dow Chemical forecasts rustproof insect screens, dirtproof draperies, and upholstery, all made of plastics.

United States Rubber is making a new plastic for helicopter cabin structures. Described as half the weight of aluminum of similar thickness, it is made of fiber glass, laminated and reinforced with resin. Another new product of the company is a plastic foam said to weigh one-seventh as much as cork.

Plastics are expected to find new uses where their distinctive properties serve best, competitive cost relationships with other materials considered.

STANDARD GAS' CAPITAL PLANS ALTERED AGAIN

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 8 (AP).—Standard Gas and Electric company amended its recapitalization plan pending before the securities and exchange commission for the second time today by eliminating $200 of new debentures from the proposed distribution to holders of each $1,000 of outstanding notes and debentures and substituting $200 cash.

Under the plan as now amended, each $1,000 principal amount of notes and debentures is to be exchanged for three shares of Pacific Gas and Electric company common stock, 18 shares of Wisconsin Public Service common, 12 shares of Oklahoma Gas and Electric common, five shares of California Oregon Power common, two shares of Mountain States Power common and $310 cash.

The cash would be raised thru bank loans of not more than 12 million dollars to mature within three years and bear not more than 3 per cent interest.

An SEC decision on the plan is expected soon.

PLAN ELABORATE RESTAURANT AT STATE, RANDOLPH

Plans are being drawn for an elaborate four story restaurant to replace the old six story building at the northwest corner of State and Randolph sts., it was learned yesterday. An undisclosed syndicate is negotiating for the capital stock of Randolph and State Property, Inc., owner of the building and a sublease on the land running until February, 1982, said Atty. Maurice A. Barancik, president of the owner corporation. Ira L. Shapiro is attorney for the syndicate.

The property fronts 40 feet on State and 52 feet on Randolph. The sublease was made in 1942 from the heirs of the late William A. Dyche, late business manager of Northwestern university, who leased it from the Northern Trust company, trustee for the L. Paine Freer estate. The first floor corner store is under lease to Liggett Drug company until early in 1945.

REDUCED RATES ON INSTALMENT SALES PREDICTED

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—Lower financing rates for instalment buying after the war were predicted today by Arthur O. Dietz, president of the Universal C. I. T. Credit corporation.

Dietz told the New York Society of Security Analysts that finance companies, by reducing instalment buying rates, not only would lower distribution costs, but would contribute to increased consumption and a stepup in employment.

Citing an estimated annual post-war demand of 7 billion dollars for such durable goods as automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, radios, and air conditioning equipment, Dietz said 50 per cent of automobiles and 65 to 85 per cent of other durable goods will be bought on the instalment plan.

THIRD WAR TIME ARMISTICE RITES TO BE SATURDAY

The third war time celebration of the World War I. armistice will include the traditional parade downtown and ceremonies at State and Madison sts., according to plans announced yesterday for observances next Saturday, the 26th anniversary of Armistice day, 1918.

Sponsors of the ceremonies downtown are the Carson Pirie Scott, the Marine and Mandel Brothers posts of the American Legion, and the Allied World War Veterans council.

Units from the sponsoring groups as well as from the army, navy, and army aviation cadet corps will make up a parade of 2,000 participants to form at Columbus dr. at 9:45 a. m.

Lt. Col. Howard F. Beir, paratrooper and 15th air force heavy bomber command pilot, will be the principal speaker at an Armistice day program tomorrow night in Medinah Temple auditorium, Wabash av. and Ohio st. The program will be jointly sponsored by the Cook county council of the American Legion and the Chicago Shriners.

The French War Veterans' association of Illinois will hold its Armistice day celebration at a dinner and ball Saturday in the Hamilton hotel. Dinner will be served at 7:45 p. m., and the ball is announced for 9:30 p. m.

ROBBED AS HE NAPS IN AUTO.

Louis Janke of 320 E. 76th st. fell asleep in his car in the 5500 block on Morgan st. yesterday and was robbed of a $50 watch, a $15 ring, his jacket, and an extra pair of trousers, by four men who then woke him and drove away in his car.

LEGAL NOTICES

SALE OF SECURITIES BY THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILWAY COMPANY.
NOTICE AND SPECIFICATIONS.

(1) Pursuant to the regulations prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its Order of Oct. 6, 1919, as amended Oct. 4, 1920, in Ex Parte No. 54, The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company (hereinafter called the "Company"), will receive bids for the purchase of $3,600,000 par amount of its Equipment Trust Certificates, to be known as "Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Sixth Equipment Trust of 1944," Serial Equipment Trust Certificates, having the following terms, provisions and agreements:

(a) The said Equipment Trust Certificates are to be issued under an agreement to be dated Nov. 15, 1944, between H. C. Strong and A. M. Waldron, Vendors, The Cleveland Trust Company, Trustee, and the Company, whereunder the railroad equipment described in paragraph (b) is to be held by said Trustee in trust for the equal benefit of the holders of said Certificates.

(b) The said Equipment Trust Certificates are to be issued to provide, in part, funds required by the acquisition at the City of Cleveland, Ohio, on such date as the Company may designate not later than 20 days after notice to the successful bidder, such date of payment to be as soon as practicable after the Interstate Commerce Commission shall have authorized the assumption of obligation and liability by the Company of said certificates, issued, and approved the bid or bids, but not later, however, than 15 days after the date of such authorization and approval, and not earlier in any event than Nov. 20, 1944. If the Interstate Commerce Commission shall not have given its authorization and approval as aforesaid on or before Dec. 15, 1944, then the successful bidder may withdraw the bid or bids by delivering written notice of withdrawal to the Company not later than Dec. 20, 1944.

(c) Copies of the proposed form of Equipment Trust Agreement and Lease, and the form for submission of bids, are available upon application at the office of the undersigned.

H. F. LOMMEN,
Secretary and Treasurer,
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company,
3400 Terminal Tower,
Cleveland 1, Ohio.
Dated: Nov. 4, 1944.

SEALED proposals will be received in the office of the Division of Purchases and Supplies, Department of Finance, City Hall, Chicago, December 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 26, 27, 28, 29, 1944, on the following general classifications, for which requisitions may be on file in this office:

Foodstuffs, Household Supplies, Crockery and Glassware, Carpets and Rugs, Furniture and Fixtures, Dry Goods, Wearing Apparel, Bedding, Notions, Drugs and Hospital Supplies, Coke, Agricultural Supplies, Industrial and Construction Materials, New Automobiles, Trucks, Tires, Automobile Repairs and Supplies.

The date of the opening of bids for the classifications above mentioned and subdivisions thereof will be indicated on the general classification sheet of each schedule.

Necessary blanks and full information furnished upon application to the Division of Purchases and Supplies. THE RIGHT IS RESERVED TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

WALTER R. YOUNGBERG,
State Purchasing Agent.
